TARIFF MEASURE UNDER LIMELIGHT

Bill May Carry Out the President's Idea to Block Heavy Advances as Result of Monopoly.

MANY GOOD POINTS SEEN.

Administrative Features to Be Shown by Republicans as Justification for Revision.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—This is the kind of tariff revision the people have secured in the conference report which will be adopted by the two houses of congress and approved by the president.

Substantial reduction on rough lumber.

Substantial reduction on metals and manufactures thereof.

Substantial reductions on chemicals, oils, and paints.

Slight increase on paper and pulp.

Substantial reductions on sundries.

An increase of duties on cottons, including hosiery.

No change in woolens.

A tremendous increase in the duties on silk.

Slight decrease in duties on flax, hemp, and jute.

Some decreases on agricultural products.

An inappreciable reduction on sugar.

Heavy increase in duties on wines and liquors.

No change on tobacco.

A slight reduction on earths and earthenware.

Competition Is Not Assured.

Where decreases have been made it does not follow necessarily that large importations will ensue to cause competition with home industries. Indeed, Representative Payne, in his conference report, explicitly stated that duties had been lowered where they were too high under the present law—sometimes prohibitive in character—and for that reason importations were comparatively small.

"On the other hand," to continue to quote him, "they have been raised in some instances where the tariff was insufficient for protection and importations were great."

The protective principle has been carefully observed. Many of the duties which prevented importations have been reduced, but there is little likelihood that importations sufficient to affect home prices will result.

It may, however, be said for the bill that it probably will carry out the president's idea to prevent heavy advances in prices through monopolization of an industry.

Administrative Features Praised.

It will be to the administrative features of the measure that Republicans can point for justification of their revision. The maximum and minimum section cannot be too highly praised. It will place the United States in a position to secure for its commerce the same treatment as accorded other nations.

It is most unfortunate that congress refused to authorize a tariff commission. Instead it granted to the president the right to appoint experts to assist him in enforcing the maximum and minimum rates.

It is the intention of Mr. Taft to go beyond this limitation and as far as possible to organize the experts into a board for the purpose of securing data upon which a future revision can be made on scientific lines. The sections to stop fraud and insure the collection of every cent of duty rightfully belonging to the United States are ironclad and are generally commended.

The provision creating a customs court justifies approval. Action has been taken to place the treasury on a sounder financial basis, first through the issue of bonds, so that future generations which will enjoy the benefit will pay the cost of construction of the Panama canal, and, secondly, through certificates of indebtedness up to $200,000,000.

Corporation Tax Friendless.

The corporation tax has no friends except in the White house. President Taft is not interested in this tax as a revenue producer, but he believes the amendment authorizing it is so framed that it will enable the government to exercise some slight supervision over corporations and enable it to get full information which will be useful in the development of legislation for their regulation.

To return to the schedules: There is every reason to believe the trade will take advantage of the increase in the duties on cottons to advance prices.

It is the assertion of the conferees that the effect of the cotton schedule will be merely to restore the rates it was intended to collect under the Dinley law.

Rates Lowered by Court.

Court decisions had lowered the Dingley rates, in some cases from 60 to 6 per cent. It would seem that the simplest way for Senator Aldrich to have put these rates in full force was to have reënacted them with an amendment designed to prevent reductions through legal interpretations. He did nothing of the kind. He insisted that an entirely new classification should be adopted, which Senator Dolliver of Iowa in a masterly argument demonstrated would result in numerous heavy increases.

These increases bear especially upon the poorer classes. There was absolutely no justification for the advances in the rates on the cheaper grades of cotton hosiery. They were made for the benefit of Pennsylvania factories, which asserted they would have shut down if the Dingley rates were not increased.

Silk Classed as Luxury.

The increases in the silk schedule were made because Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne came to the conclusion that the articles comprised under this schedule were luxuries.

Although the woolen schedule was admittedly iniquitous, it has not been changed, except in a few unimportant paragraphs.

The National Association of Clothiers recently protested to the president and to congress against alleged inequalities in the wool schedule, and asserted that an advance in prices would be made to the wearers of clothing by the continuance of the Dingley rates—an advance caused by conditions that had materially changed since the enactment of the old law.

A combination of worsted mills openly claiming to produce 66 2-3 per cent of all the worsted cloths used for men's wear was dic-

MAN KILLED, THREE WOUNDED IN GUN AND DAGGER FIGHT.

One Italian Murdered, Another Shot, and Two Slashed in General Fight That Excites Colony.

One man was shot and instantly killed, another shot and seriously wounded, and two others were stabbed at 1 o'clock this morning in a general fight among Italians in a house at 65 Rees street.

The man who is said to have done the shooting fled from the house a few minutes before the arrival of the police from the Hudson avenue station.

Angelo Kaviollo, 35 years old, and a companion—both slightly wounded—were taken to the Alexian Brothers hospital by the police of the Hudson avenue station, but were later taken away.

The body of the murdered man was removed to an undertaking place at Larrabee street and Clybourn avenue, and the other man shot was taken to the Passavant hospital, where attending physicians later said he was unconscious.

Angelo Cocavalo and Pasquale Bolio are under arrest at the Hudson avenue police station, and both refuse to talk, contending they "no speak English."

According to information obtained by Sergeant Patrick Murphy the shooting occurred in the basement of the building, which is a two story frame structure.

The owner, who lived there with his wife and three children, was heard to quarrel with several men. A fight followed and more than a dozen shots were fired. Whether anybody who fled from the house was shot the police were unable to learn. They were unable to learn the name of the dead man or who did the shooting.

SPANISH REVOLT STILL SPREADING

Private Dispatches Tell of Fights in Many Cities Despite Denials by the Government.

WRATH AIMED AT CHURCH

First Detailed Story of Barcelona Rioting Shows All the Horrors of the Paris Commune.

DAY'S DEVELOPMENTS IN SPANISH REVOLT.

FIGHTING extends to many cities in Spain, according to private dispatches; officials claim uprising has been quelled.

DETAILS of Barcelona battles become public despite censorship, showing horrors of Paris commune.

REBELS at Casa de la Salva disarmed civil guard and imprisoned officials; convents at Granollers and Amer burned.

CARLISTS concentrating at Hendaye, awaiting arrival of Don Jaime, the leader, from France; uprising in northern provinces under his leadership feared.

BRITISH government denies king has asked great powers to intervene in Spain or aid Spanish forces in Morocco.

PARIS fears triumph of Moors over Spanish will inflame all Islam and cause uprising in Algeria and the Soudan; papers ask other powers to intervene.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 31, 3 a. m.—While official advices from Madrid claim the revolt has been quelled, private dispatches say that the situation is growing worse. Messages which eluded the strict censorship bring news of the spread of the revolutionary agitation to Arragon, Catalonia, Valencia, and Riojo.

It also is known that the Spanish authorities have dispatched Capt. Gen. Augiler to Bilboa to prevent a demonstration by the Carlists, who are expected to rally around Don Jaime, their leader. It is reported that rioters at Casa de la Salva have imprisoned the civic authorities and taken possession of the city. At Granollers and Amers also the agitators have gained the upper hand, burning churches and convents.

Next to the appearance of Don Jaime the authorities fear most the arrival of Alejandro Leroux, who is on his way to Europe from Brazil to place himself at the head of the revolution. He holds the workmen's organizations in the hollow of his hand. The government has issued orders that he be arrested immediately on landing on Spanish soil.

Officials Claim Revolt Ended.

There are many reports coming from Spanish officials showing that the authorities have restored peace. A special from San Sebastian says the troops have mastered the situation in Barcelona, where the casualty list numbers more than 2,000. Seventy armed insurgents were captured there this morning and summarily shot.

Official dispatches say the population of Tarragona has not responded to the revolutionary movement and that at Saragossa the strike failed owing to the energy of the civil government. Pablo Iglesias, the leader of the socialists there, who was organizing a general strike, has been captured.

Order has been reëstablished at Figueras. The rioters are being arrested in large batches and are led off to prison with bayonets at their breasts. Many revolutionaries have escaped, however, and are making their way to the frontier.

Story of Barcelona Fight.

The first meager details of the struggle at Barcelona have reached the outside world, but not so far the real story of how the cavalry herded the 10,000 rebels into the streets to be shot down by artillery.

The correspondent of the London Telegraph has succeeded in getting through a graphic account of the situation in Barcelona just preceding the defeat of the revolutionists by the government forces.

"On Monday," he writes, "the strike commenced, nobody appearing to know why it was organized or who organized it. The shops were opened, but closed at midday. At the same time the police, armed with rifles in addition to their usual revolvers and sidearms, formed in pairs every dozen yards along the Rambla. The street cars ran normally until they reached the suburb of Gracia, when they were derailed. Then the crowd pulled down the lamp posts and telegraphs and barricaded the main thoroughfare.

"Suddenly there was the sound of a bugle, and the police in pairs ran and formed a line facing up and down the Rambla. Shots were fired and the people fell. Still the people looked on, wondering. Meanwhile other barricades were erected. The civil governor drove through the streets directing the police. He was shot at, but not hurt. He fled immediately for Saragossa.

Unrest Spreads to Provinces.

"At 4 p. m. martial law was declared. With the movement of Barcelona's 30,000 anarchists, revolutionists, and socialists, a similar movement was started throughout Catalonia. Telegraph and telephone wires, railways and bridges were destroyed. Barcelona was practically isolated.

"In the meantime the districts occupied by the working classes in Barcelona all were barricaded and the aristocratic parts of the city, of which the Rambla is the center, were shut off. The authorities could only hold the latter by occupying the Rambla with police and civil guards, as all communications with the barricaded districts opened into the Rambla. Down these streets the police poured a continuous fire.

"It is impossible to estimate the killed and wounded, but the hospitals were full of wounded. Members of the Red Cross were busy day and night. The firing ceased at night. Well dressed women and even children promenaded the Rambla and hoped the demonstration against the war was finished, but on Tuesday there was heavy firing from the Rambla again until 1 o'clock.

"Meanwhile the barricades were strengthened. The people began to ask what the captain general was doing. Where was the military? At 3:30 a regiment of infantry marched into the Rambla. Half way down it turned into a side street leading to the heart of the barricaded district and a fearful slaughter was dreaded. No volley fir-

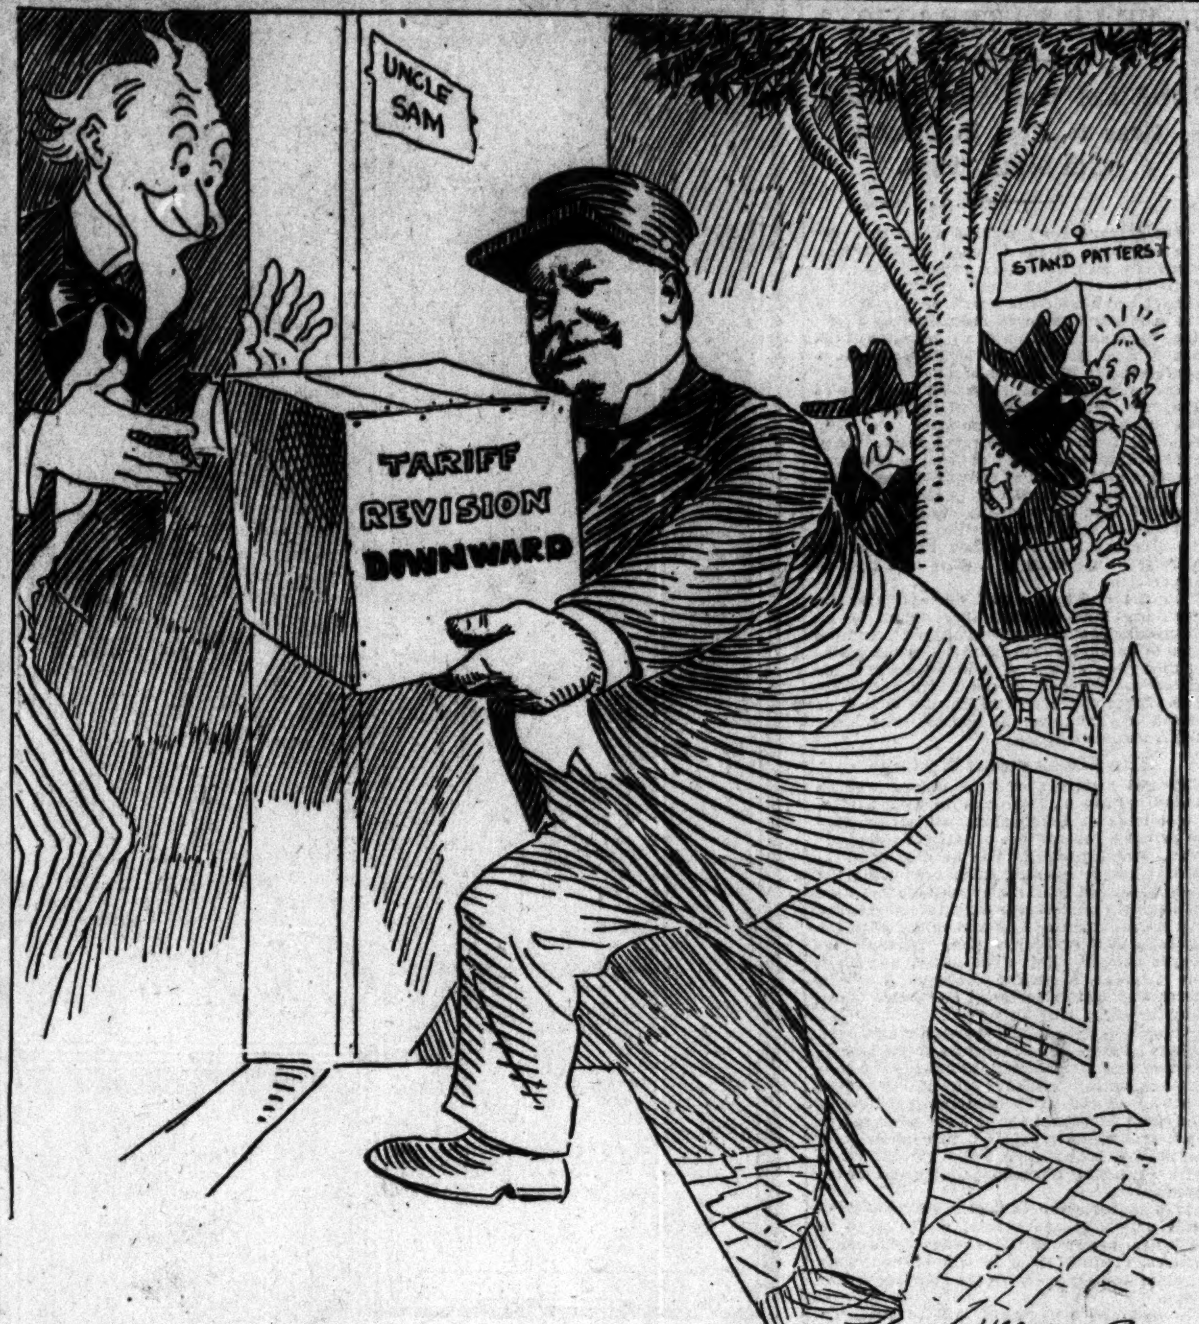
PRESIDENT TAFT—"HERE ARE THE GOODS I PROMISED TO DELIVER."



WRIGHT MEETS THE U. S. TEST

Orville, with Passenger, in Airship Surpasses Requirements.

MAKES NEW RECORD IN AIR.

Covers Ten Miles Across the Country in 14 Minutes and 42 Seconds.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Orville Wright tonight attained a hard earned success. In a ten mile cross country flight in the aeroplane built by himself and his elder brother, Wilbur, and accompanied by Lieut. Benjamin D. Foulois of the army signal corps, he not only surpassed the speed requirements of his contract with the United States government but accomplished the most daring flight ever planned for a heavier than air flying machine.

He broke all speed records over a measured course and established the practicability of the aeroplane.

Wright's speed was more than 42 miles an hour. He made the ten mile flight in 14 minutes and 42 seconds, including the more than twenty seconds required for the turn beyond the line at Shuter Hill, the southern end of the course. He attained a height in crossing the valley of Four Mile run, of nearly 500 feet, and the average altitude of his practically level course was about 200 feet.

President Taft arrived at the parade ground at Fort Myer just in time to see the aeroplane land and to participate in the demonstration which welcomed the triumphant aviators. He sent Col. Treat, commanding officer of the artillery at Fort Myer, to bear his congratulations to the victors.

Storm Clears Atmosphere.

A terrific wind and rain storm early in the afternoon seemed providentially provided to clear and quiet the atmospheric conditions in preparation for the flight, which was delayed only by the failure of the army field telegraph line to Shuter Hill, depended upon for communication between the two ends of the course.

It was still out of commission when Orville Wright, seizing the moment of the best weather conditions he had yet had for the speed test, had the machine placed on the starting rail and gave the motor a final test.

Lieut. Foulois at a sign from Orville Wright climbed into the passenger's seat beside the motor. Wilbur Wright and Charley Taylor, the Wrights' mechanician, took their places at the propellers.

Orville turned on the sparker of the motor as they whirled the blades around. The motor picked up the impetus and Orville turned on full speed. For the first time the propellers of the aeroplane were whirring at their maximum capacity.

Orville clambered into his seat beside Foulois. He gripped the levers, and, nodding to his brother, slipped the cable which released the starting weight. The aeroplane shot down the track, rose before it reached the end, and skimmed over the surface of the ground for 100 feet or more. Then it rose higher and higher, reached the end of the field, turned at a slight angle, and came about, facing the cheering multitude.

Crowd Cheers the Start.

Hats and handkerchiefs were waving, automobile horns were tooting, some overwrought spectators even wept as the airship turned again southward at the starting tower.

Then as it arose rapidly, Orville brought the machine at great speed once again fully round the field. With a short turn he swept about almost over the heads of the closely banked spectators and started straight southward over the center of the drill field.

Those who had glasses saw the aeroplane turn, first to the left, then to the right, above Shuter hill. Suddenly the speck was lost to view, and as the seconds passed silence grew upon the crowd. Wilbur Wright, standing with leveled glasses beside his sister, strained his gaze in an effort to catch sight of the aeroplane when it should rise again above the sky line.

Lands in Triumph.

The speck came in sight again, over the distant hill. A cry swept over the crowd.

"There it is!"

Onward the machine came, growing in size and seemingly swerved from its course by a westerly breeze, but in a few moments the aerial navigators were home again over the drill grounds, flying low. Orville steered straight across the field, and at a height of about twenty feet swung around again to the southward, and landed easily far down the field, finishing the flight in triumph.

Katherine Wright ran down the field with her friend, Mrs. Van Dieman, and grasped her brother, almost hysterically, dancing with glee. She almost embraced Lieut. Foulois, who seemed somewhat embarrassed by the demonstration.

Wilbur Wright was more self-controlled, though making no secret of his elation. He at once began calculations to determine the probable speed of the trip. His first estimate was forty-four miles an hour, but after he had consulted with Lieut. Foulois he figured it at forty-two and one-half miles. The Wrights were to get $2,500 bonus for each mile over forty an hour up to forty-four. This in addition to $25,000.

Declares Trip Was Enjoyable.

"We were making eighty miles an hour coming back," said Foulois as he left his seat. Asked how it felt to fly, he replied:

"It's good enough for me."

Orville Wright said: "It's easier to fly across country than round a field."

Lieut. Foulois after the flight admitted to his friends that he had taken the risk without informing his wife, who is away from the city.

Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer of the army, announced after the flight that the training of Lieuts. Lahm and Foulois in the operation of the aeroplane will take place at some point on the Potomac near Washington.

LATHAM TO TRY AGAIN.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

CALAIS, July 30.—Hubert Latham, the aviator who made two unsuccessful attempts to cross the English channel in his aeroplane, has determined to attempt to win the Deutsch prize of $5,000 for the first aeroplanist to cross the channel with a passenger.

HEEDS ANGEL, SEEKS GRAVE; EVACUATES TO ESCAPE BATH.

William Haskell, Colored Preacher, Doing Gaudy Penance Until Police Disturb Him.

Following the injunctions of an angel, as he said, William Haskell, a colored preacher, buried himself alive in a grave in the rear of his house, 4737 Armour avenue, yesterday evening. He dug his grave some four feet deep, six feet long, and three feet wide, and, lying down in it, pawed the dirt over himself, leaving only his head showing.

Covering the grave was a canvas sheet inside of which was spread a white mantle set with seven candles and decorated with palm leaves and ferns. After nightfall the candles caught the eyes of passersby and soon a great crowd gathered, some to scoff and others to offer to join in the prayers in which Haskell seemed to be finding beatific joy.

Lieut. Cronin and a squad of police from the Fiftieth street station arrived presently and, with difficulty, worked their way through the throng.

"Do not talk to me; I am praying," Haskell said in reply to questions. "I made a solemn promise to an angel that I would do penance by remaining buried seven days."

"It is resurrection day right now," the police retorted. "Come out of your grave or we'll turn on the hose."

Haskell dug himself out and, wrapped in his scanty attire, sulked to his house.

AUTO INJURES PHILIP SWIFT

Young Man's Leg Broken in a Wreck on Lake Geneva Road.

SWING STARRING HURT, TOO

His Brother, Mason B. Jr., Escapes with Only Slight Bruises.

Philip Swift, son of Edward F. Swift, was injured seriously yesterday afternoon in an automobile wreck at Lake Geneva, Wis., David Swing Starring, son of Mason B. Starring, was injured also, but less dangerously injured than was young Swift. Mason B. Starring Jr., a third occupant of the machine, was unhurt. Mr. Swift's left leg was fractured just above the ankle and the ankle was sprained.

Edward F. Swift, after a thorough surgical examination had been made, said there were no internal injuries and that the family and the physicians are assured that his son's recovery will be rapid.

The three young men were in Philip Swift's motor car, speeding over the east road of the Lake Geneva drive. Just at the hill back of the James H. Moore residence and at the sharp turn in the rear of the S. H. Wheeler tract the machine was flying along at a sixty mile an hour rate, according to some of the witnesses.

Something went wrong and the big touring car skidded along on two wheels for more than fifty feet. It swerved sharply to the left and banged against a telegraph pole.

Buried Under Wrecked Machine.

Swift was buried under the machine. David Swing Starring was hurled through the plate glass dust shield at the front of the automobile. Mason B. Starring Jr. was thrown out violently, but not seriously injured.

A spring wagon was converted into an ambulance and Swift, who was unconscious; Swing Starring, who was bleeding profusely, and Mason B. Starring Jr. were hurried to Lake Geneva.

Mrs. Edward F. Swift, who was at the Lake Geneva summer home, was notified by telephone. She organized a hasty ambulance corps of her own, embarked in the Swift private yacht, and was at Lake Geneva when the improvised ambulance arrived with its suffering load.

Dr. Rugh set young Swift's broken limb and then, under the direction of Mrs. Swift, the son was carried on a stretcher to the Swift private dock three blocks away and thence across the Lake to the Swift summer residence.

At the summer home of Mason B. Starring, the statement was made that the injuries to Swing Starring, while serious, are not dangerous, and that no untoward result is feared. Young Mason B. Starring's injuries are confined to serious bruises.

Edward F. Swift said he did not know exactly what had caused the accident, but supposed that the young men were speeding the automobile. The machine is a total wreck.

Kerr Inquest Is Postponed.

The body of Mrs. Parker W. Kerr, who was instantly killed in an automobile accident near Libertyville on Thursday night, was brought to Chicago in the morning after a coroner's jury in Lake county had viewed the remains. The formal inquest will not be held until next week because of the condition of W. S. Mills, who was driving the machine at the time of the smashup. Henry Hafer was reported to be not seriously injured. Mr. Mills was brought back to Chicago for treatment.

David Schwartz, 8 years old, was struck by an automobile as he was crossing Michigan avenue at Park row. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital. Physicians said the boy cannot recover. The machine was owned by C. M. Anderson, 62 North Clark street. In it were Harry Pride, Anderson's chauffeur, and Miss M. L. Sheldon, 3637 Prairie avenue, who was on her way to the Northwestern depot to board a train for Lake Geneva. Pride was arrested, but subsequently was released on bonds supplied by Anderson.

The investigation of State's Attorney Wayman into alleged police graft in the vice centers of Chicago was suspended but not ended late yesterday with the discharge of the July grand jury by Judge Kickham Scanlan.

The grand jury capped its labors by springing a surprise in the form of an indictment charging John B. Frohn, minute clerk to Judge Theodore Brentano, with the falsification of public records. It was charged by witnesses, who included Simon Tuckhorn, the keeper of the notorious Olympia café in Wabash avenue, that Frohn failed to account for an aggregate of $40 paid into his hands by Assistant State's Attorney Charles Furthman on July 1 in the settlement of penalties assessed in two cases.

In a speech in the jury room, just before the jurors left for their homes, Mr. Wayman flatly announced that "the graft investigation has just begun" and will be carried forward by the September body. The inference drawn from Mr. Wayman's statements by the grand jurors was that the levee districts of the south side are the next due for a shaking up.

Wayman and Jury Harmonious.

The windup of the session of the grand jury was marked by manifold protestations of harmony between the inquisitorial body and State's Attorney Wayman. Juror J. H. Boyd made a speech in praise of the conduct of the state's attorney and Foreman Samuel H. Bingham.

Not to be outdone, Mr. Wayman responded approximately as follows:

"This investigation of graft has just begun. It will continue with the September grand jury. There is so much evidence that I could not begin to get it all before you. I am sorry that you cannot go all the way through the investigation with me. But for some of the evidence, the time is not ripe for its presentation. It is not in shape as I wish to have it."

"Wayman will make a noise in this town that will put the history of graft in San Francisco in the back of the book," said a grand juror afterward. "We just got an inkling of graft in places other than the west side and insufficient evidence was the reason for our withholding true bills at the advice of Mr. Wayman in one instance which I feel certain will result in an indictment at the hands of the September grand jury.

Evidence in Other Districts.

"I think Mr. Wayman has plenty of evidence in the other districts, but didn't want to touch it because there was only time enough to handle the west side. The testimony was awful. Some said they gave money directly to McCann because they hated Louis Frank and would not even hand him money. The witnesses against McCann seemed to have deeply rooted dislikes for each other in some instances.

"From the way things were conducted and from what Mr. Wayman said I am confident that the next point of attack by Mr. Wayman will be the south side. And, mark my words, he is going to get there.

"The only ripple in the relations of the grand jury and Mr. Wayman was in connection with the attempt of somebody to get the Gingles case reopened. The communication was handed to Judge Scanlan. It had been addressed to two of the jurors as previously reported."

In its official report, following the summarization of cases heard and indictments voted, the grand jury said:

"The grand jury further reports that the state's attorney of Cook county has rendered valuable assistance to this jury, and through his full and harmonious coöperation only could the results of the session have been accomplished."

Wayman Going to Take Rest.

Mr. Wayman discouraged reports of the calling of a special grand jury in the evening and refused to make any statement of future graft investigations.

"I'll say this," he said; "the handling of those 400 cases is mighty good evidence that the report that there was a lack of harmony between the state's attorney and the grand jurors was unfounded. No, I don't know what will be done at the September grand jury. We will see when the time comes."

"Will the detectives of your office continue to look for graft evidence?" he was asked.

"We are all going on a vacation," he answered. "I am going to have a good time mostly at home, probably, and the boys are going to rest a while, too."

The only rivals to the Frohn case in point of interest for the closing day of the grand jury session were the indictment of Michael Fewer on the charge of keeping a disorderly resort at Halsted and West Adams streets, and more indictments against "Mike de Pike" Heitler.

Fewer has been pointed to by other resort keepers as basking in "immunity," and by some has been credited with having had an active hand in promoting the investigation just closed—an investigation which resulted in the indictment on charges of grafting of Police Inspector Edward McCann and Detective Jeremiah Griffin and the return of almost 200 other indictments in vice cases.

The two cases in which Frohn is accused of falsifying the records are those of Myrtle O'Neill, 7 Hubbard court, and Mabel Lawrence, 9 Hubbard court, both charged with selling liquor without a license. According to the records of Minute Clerk Frohn, each woman paid a fine of $25 and no costs. The state's attorney's records show that each defendant paid a $25 fine and $20 in costs.

The two women and Tuckhorn appeared before the grand jury, and all testified to the payment of $25 fine and $20 costs in each case. The three witnesses said the money was turned over by them to Tuckhorn, that Tuckhorn handed it to Furthman, and that they saw Furthman turn over the entire amount to Frohn in open court. Furthman testified to like effect. Freeman L. Fairbank, assistant state's attorney, who has charge of the court dockets, also was a witness.

Frohn Promptly Suspended.

Frohn was suspended from duty by Abraham J. Harris, clerk of the Criminal court, a few minutes before the indictment against him was returned. He said he was amazed by the action of the grand jury and that he was the victim of some unfortunate mistake in the handling and recording of the penalties. Judge Brentano expressed astonishment at the indictment of Frohn and said he hoped the grand jury had not acted with rashness.

"I was never so surprised in my life," Frohn said after the indictment was returned. "All I know about it is that I never got one cent of any money that was paid in as fines and costs. I never knew that there was anything wrong with my accounts until about 3 o'clock this afternoon, when Mr. Harris called me to his office and suspended me, telling me that the grand jury was about to indict me.

"Some time in June we had a long series of liquor, resort, and gambling cases. Assistant State's Attorney Furthman had all of these cases on a list, with the amounts of the fines and costs. Sometimes there were forty or fifty defendants about him at once. When each case was called he would announce the amount of the fine and the costs, if there were any.

Took Money in Lump Sum.

"The money was paid in to him and he in turn gave it to me in lump amounts. I accepted the money this way without counting it for each separate case and made my separate notations on my blotter.

"In the transfer of the record of these fines to the journal and the checking up of the cash I never was short or long on money, so I presumed everything was all right. Mr. Fairbank of the state's attorney's office always checked up my accounts with those reported in to the prosecutor by the men in charge of the cases in my court. He refused to check up these cases in June because he said Furthmann had made no returns to him.

Frohn lives at 1724 Clybourn avenue and is a leader in Republican ward politics. He is precinct captain of the Forty-second precinct of the Twenty-sixth ward. He has served as a court clerk six years under Judges Dupuy, Kavan[illegible], Chytraus, Freeman, and Brentano. Fr[illegible]891 to 1894 he was a deputy under Sheriff James Gilbert. For twelve years he owned a drug store at Clybourn and Fullerton avenues. He was the first county central committeeman from the Twenty-sixth ward, and has held that position four different times. He is married and has two grown sons.

Judge Brentano Dumfounded.

Judge Brentano could not hide his surprise when told that his clerk had been indicted.

"I am dumfounded," he said. "Mr. Frohn has been with me a year and I have always had the utmost confidence in him. He has always done his work well and I never would suspect him of any wrongdoing. I trust the grand jury has not acted hastily in returning this indictment."

The indictment of Frohn, according to Clerk Harris, was brought about by a new system of checking up the cash instituted by the Criminal court clerk and State's Attorney Wayman soon after the latter took office.

"The minute clerks in each court make a daily report to the state's attorney as well as a monthly report," Mr. Harris said. "These reports must coincide with the separate records of money paid in kept by the state's attorney, who makes a monthly report which is sent to the various courts. In the report issued July 1 a discrepancy between the figures of the bookkeeper of the state's attorney and those of Frohn was discovered. A comparison of the individual cases showed that Frohn was short $20 in each of two cases in question."

More Police Records.

The appearance of Inspector John Dorman and Andrew O'Day and Thomas Beckett, lockup keepers, of the Desplaines police station with all the arrest slips and lockup records in the grand jury rooms caused reports that a number of police officers were under investigation. The grand jury, it is believed, had not time to make an investigation of these records because of the taking up of the Frohn case.

It was the general opinion about the criminal court building that the majority of the thirteen cases left as a legacy to the September grand jury had to do with the west side levee graft charges.

The indictment against Fewer caused a stir in the levee district. Many assertions have been made there that Fewer would not be indicted, and it has been said also that he had much to do with turning the state's attorney's attention to the west side levee as a starting place for the graft inquiry. He has been an enemy of McCann ever since the indicted police official went to the district. One of the first things the inspector did there was to compel Fewer to stop Sunday music in a concert hall.

Fewer Friend of McCann?

According to Fewer, the stories that he is an enemy of McCann are untrue. The saloonkeeper refused to discuss in detail the matter of his indictment and his dealings with the inspector. He was equally noncommunicative concerning his indictment.

"I don't want to say anything about the graft indictments against McCann," he said, "nor do I wish to discuss my case. I will say that I am a friend of McCann."

New accusations by Morris Shatz, a resort keeper, led to the additional indictments against "Mike de Pike" Heitler, charging him with obtaining money by means of a confidence game. Heitler now is facing ten indictments and he had small hopes last night of being able to give bonds for all. "Mike" is one of the men whom Louis Frank and Shatz allege acted as a collector of protection money for Inspector McCann. Shatz and Frank were at the Criminal Court building in the morning but asserted that thy had no conference with the state's attorney.

"Andy" Craig, the proprietor of the notorious "Tivoli" in State street, was one of the would-be signers of bonds for Heitler, but his efforts went unrewarded.

Lieut. "Andy" Rohan of the detective bureau caused a stir by appearing at the Criminal Court building, but he said his presence there had nothing to do with the graft investigation.

McCann Story Circulated.

A new story calculated to discredit McCann, though in no way bearing on the graft charges, was circulated by persons living in the west side levee: It was to the effect that the inspector and a downtown friend were drinking freely in the place run by Joseph Nathan at 59 Halsted street several months ago and that McCann danced with the women inmates of the place and kicked over a table covered with beer bottles and glasses. The following night it is asserted the inspector went to the same place and followed a similar program. "Mike de Pike" Heitler is said to have been with the inspector.

McCann's friends and the inspector ridiculed the story.

The work of building a legal defense for the indicted police official was begun in earnest by his attorneys during the day. The names of many persons in the levee district were taken and some few repeated their stories concerning their knowledge of the inspector's work in the district. The affidavits of many levee denizens will be taken in the next few days.

It is said a number of persons whom the enemies of McCann are counting on to help convict the inspector are aligning themselves on the side of the indicted man.

REFUSES ADVANCE TO TRACTION MEN

Chicago City Railway Company Unconditionally Rejects Demand of Employes.

ISSUE UP TO THE UNIONS.

North and West Side Organizations to Meet in Concert with South Siders.

The demand for increased wages made by the employés of the Chicago City Railway company was yesterday rejected unconditionally by the officials of the company. The official answer of the board of directors to the men's demand was submitted by President Thomas E. Mitten to a committee of the South Side Street Car Men's union at a conference in Mr. Mitten's office.

Keen disappointment marked the faces of President M. C. Buckley of the union and the members of the committee as they emerged from the conference room. They expected to be offered at least a few concessions in the form of better running schedules for the motormen and conductors. Instead of that the company signified its willingness to renew the existing agreement or to refer the entire question of wages, not merely the question of a raise in wages, to arbitration.

On the "closed shop" demand also the company insisted that there shall be no discrimination between union and nonunion men in its employ. This puts the issue squarely up to the union. It is also the signal for action on the part of the North and West Side Street Car Men's union, the officers of which are working in concert with their south side colleagues.

Plan Simultaneous Meetings.

Special meetings of both unions will be called within a few days to take action. Commitees of both unions will meet today to arrange for and set a date for the meetings, which probably will be held simultaneously some evening early next week. It was predicted that the south side car men will reject unanimously the offer to arbitrate the wage dispute. The agreement with the Chicago City railway company and its employés expires today. The contract between the Chicago Railways company and the north and west side street car men's union terminated on May 31.

Officers of both unions demand a raise of a cents an hour—27 to 30 cents an hour—for motormen and conductors. Following the conference with President Mitten, President Buckley of the union and the members of the committee went to the office of the north and west side street car men's union at 70 La Salle street and held an hour's conference with President William Quinlan of that organization.

It is understood both unions will take identical action at the special meetings to be called for next week. It is believed the south side car men will order the committee to seek another conference with the company's officials.

Should the men finally fail to reach an amicable settlement with their respective companies, it is virtually certain special massmeetings will be called for the purpose of ordering a strike vote. According to the constitution of the union a strike vote must be taken by refendum vote, ballot boxes being placed in all barns. Should a strike occur from 8,000 to 10,000 men would be involved in the conflict.

Company's Formal Answer.

Following is the formal answer of the Chicago City railway company to the demands of its employés:

"Closed shop—The company is firm in its determination that there shall be no discrimination or distinction by the company for or against its men who belong to the union or who do not belong to the union.

"Wages—The wages of our older employés, taken from the May pay roll, vary from $80 to as high as $100 per month. The average wage of all conductors and motormen, including extra men, was $70.01 per month, the average time on duty per man per day being eight hours and twenty-eight minutes. The wages now paid by the company are much higher than the wages formerly paid, and are also higher than the wages paid elsewhere, including Philadelphia and Pittsburg, where strike conditions have recently prevailed and new contracts have been entered into at prices lower than the existing contract prices paid by this company. The facts clearly do not justify an increase in the wage scale.

"The company is willing to renew the existing contract or to submit the whole question of wages (not simply the question of an increase of wages) to arbitration, the arbitrators also to fix the duration of the new contract."

Arguments Pro and Con.

President Buckley, who was chairman of the union committee, presented verbally to President Mitten a number of figures on the cost of living of street car men in Chicago in justification of the demand for higher wages. He stated that living is higher now than two years ago, at which time an increase in wages was granted voluntarily by the company.

To this Mr. Mitten replied that street car men are living better now than two years ago; that they enjoy better homes and more of the comforts of life.

The committee also pointed to the wages of car men in Oakland, Cal., and Butte, Mont., where scales of 30 cents and 40 cents an hour are in force, and reminded Mr. Mitten that gripmen in the days of the cable cars earned 30 cents an hour.

Mr. Mitten answered that it is unfair to cite wages in Oakland and Butte, where special conditions exist and where the cost of living is extraordinarily high, and he said that in the days of the cable cars the men on the electric cars received only 17 cents an hour. If the union were willing to allow a low scale of wages for new men, he said, the company could afford to offer a better scale than 30 cents an hour for the older men.

Confer on Trainmen's Demands.

Representatives of the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers conferred with H. N. Wallace, general manager of the Chicago, Lake Shore and South Bend railway, last night in Michigan City in an endeavor to reach an agreement on the demands of the men for better working conditions and an increase in pay.

Mr. Wallace agreed to an increase of pay from 23 to 27 cents an hour for the trainmen and acquiesced in the demand for improved working conditions. The union representatives refused this offer, demanding 30 cents an hour.

The general manager will be given until Aug. 5 to accede to the trainmen's demands.

JELLYFISH STOP OCEAN LINER.

Bodies of Thousands of Sea Bodies Pack Into Water Valves and Blockade Steamship.

Boston, Mass., July 30.—[Special.]—That an ocean steamship could be completely crippled by jelly fish, brought to a standstill, and finally compelled to anchor until the engine room force could overcome the difficulty seems impossible, but such was the experience of the British steamer Indramayo on the passage from Boston to New York.

While going through Vineyard sound the engines finally began to act strangely, and the chief engineer reported the matter to Capt. Thirkell. Investigation showed that it was impossible to get water into the condensers.

The engineers found the cylinders packed with a substance resembling soft soap, but which was the bodies of thousands of jelly fish.

SIX MEN CAPTURED IN RAID

Detectives Break Up Game at Saratoga Billiard Hall.

TWO ACCUSED AS KEEPERS.

Police Records Show 25 Arrests of Gamblers in Three Days.

Following the exposure in THE TRIBUNE yesterday that the "new army game," which is next of kin to "Monte Carlo," was being run wide open at the Saratoga billiard hall, Acting Chief Schuettler sent out Detectives Belsky, Birmingham, and Crowley of his gambling squad to raid the place. They captured six men, two keepers and four inmates, who were released at the Harrison street station on bond of $400 each, signed by M. A. Wardis, 3733 Elmwood avenue. The prisoners gave their names as Robert Burns, keeper; Michael Kelly, assistant keeper, and the players were W. C. Schultz, a barber; E. Cramer, a clerk; George Hastings, 18 years old, a clerk, and Chester Morris, also a clerk.

A dozen men who were watching the play escaped arrest because the acting chief had instructed his men to take only those who are caught playing or running a game.

Keeps Eye on Billiard Halls.

"I have had my men watching the billiard halls for 'Kelly pool' and 'Monte Carlo' for some time," said Schuettler. "We caught these people with the goods, and I hope that it will serve as a warning to other keepers that the 'lid' is on good and tight and on to stay. I think most of the other places have obeyed orders and closed down the games."

The records show that in the last three days there have been twenty-five arrests for gambling and twelve raids. During the preceeding two weeks, while Acting Assistant Chief Lavin was directing the squad, there were less than fifty arrests and eight raids.

When Schuettler was called upon to take Chief Shippy's chair during his temporary absence, he turned the gambling detail over to Inspector Lavin, who moved up into his office.

Changes in Gambling Squad.

With the change in control the detectives composing the gambling squad also were changed.

Four days ago Acting Chief Schuettler took the reins himself again, "because I love the work," he said. He recalled his old men, with the exception of two or three. Then he sent them out with instructions to put the lid on, with the results mentioned.

"There is no reflection on Inspector Lavin," said Chief Schuettler. "It could not be expected that men who did not know the places to look for gambling would make many arrests."

DAY'S DAMAGE SUITS $1,385,489

Actions for Injuries Brought Against City and Railroads in Superior and Circuit Courts.

Suits for $1,385,489 were filed in the Superior and Circuit courts yesterday, for the most part by persons injured by street cars or railroads. Of this amount $155,000 is sought from the city; $25,000 from the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad company; $280,000 from the Chicago Railways company; $246,000 from the Chicago City Railway company; $60,000 from the George W. Jackson company; $10,000 from the Barber Asphalt Paving company, and $609,489 from other concerns or individuals.

TWO FREED OF MURDER CHARGE.

Thomas Rourke and Walter Towner Acquitted in Judge Brentano's Court of Slaying Janitor.

Thomas Rourke, 6011 Ellis avenue, was acquitted of a charge of murder yesterday by a jury in Judge Brentano's court. Rourke had been held with Walter Towner for the murder of Gustave Doering, a janitor, who died at the county hospital on April 2. Judge Brentano instructed the jury in the morning to find Towner not guilty, and he testified for the state. Towner said Doering struck Rourke during a quarrel over missing books, and a fight followed.

MRS. SUTTON'S PLEA REFUSED

War Department Will Not Vacate Order of Inquiry Board.

HEARING HELD NOT TRIAL.

Winthrop Says Manner of Death Only Now Is Under Search.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—That the rulings of the court of inquiry investigating the death of Lieut. James N. Sutton, U. S. N., at Annapolis, Md., will not be interfered with by the navy department was indicated today.

In a letter addressed to Henry E. Davis, counsel for Mrs. Sutton, mother of the dead officer, Beekman Winthrop, assistant secretary of the navy, stated that the department must decline to accede to his request to vacate the ruling of the court by which Mrs. Sutton was declared to be regarded as a "complainant or accuser," while all persons present at the time of the death of Lieut. Sutton were regarded in the position of "defendants."

"It appears to the department," says the letter, "that you have misconceived the effect of the ruling of the court. This ruling does not change the nature of the court in the slightest degree. It is still a 'court of inquiry,' seeking after facts, and not a judicial tribunal with power to try or to punish.

Promises Trial of Guilty.

"It is the invariable practice of 'courts of inquiry' that if during an investigation any person is placed on the defensive by the evidence adduced, to notify such person, and to explain to him his rights in the premises. If the court finds Lieut. Sutton's death was not the result of his own act, but was caused by another person or persons, such other person or persons undoubtedly will be brought to trial.

"Those whom the court determines are so vitally interested in the outcome of the case as to be designated as defendants are entitled to legal aid to assist in bringing out all the facts, as well as Mrs. Sutton. There would, therefore, seem to be no impropriety in the court's action in regarding Mrs. Sutton as a 'complainant or accuser.'

"This in no way shifts the burden of proof, as you apparently assume, as the court is in no respect a trial court."

Davis Hints of "Scandal."

Mr. Davis, in his letter to Secretary Meyer, said:

"By its action the court has undertaken to relieve Lieut. Utley from his obligation to refrain from conference with the witnesses who have preceded him, and has put it in his power either to stand mute or else to have the benefit of full and free conference with the witnesses who have preceded him and of access to the testimony before the board of inquest, a situation which I am constrained to say so strongly smacks of the scandalous as of itself to call for your intervention."

Hope to Reform Fleming Girl.

Hearing on the application to commit to a reform school Japonica Fleming, 11 years old, who disappeared mysteriously from Chicago July 19, will be held next Wednesday at Hastings, Neb. In the meantime the prosecuting attorney and the humane society will investigate to determine what is best to do with the girl.

WAY TO DESTROY ALL WAR AGENTS

American Invention Claimed to Be Conqueror of Land, Sea, or Air Craft.

WORK OF ELECTRICITY.

Tests Made by Officer at Fort Omaha Said to Show Remarkable Power.

LONDON, July 30.—From an excellent source it has been learned that the reason the American government remains apparently so little concerned about the advances in aerial navigation made by foreign experimenters is that an officer in the American army stationed at Fort Omaha has worked out an electric invention which is likely to paralyze all other existing or proposed engines of war.

The invention, he says, is to be exclusively the property of the United States government, and up to the present the essential details are carefully guarded. The machine is said to project through the air a column of electric energy of almost any desired strength at any given object for a distance of many hundred yards. The informant, who himself is an expert in war, said:

"Such an electric column would queer every mechanism on a warship, stop the engines, annul the dynamos, kill the signaling apparatus, make the guns unworkable, slay hundreds of men by shock alone, and might even explode the magazines. Its possibilities for offensive warfare are almost unlimited. Of course I don't say its absolute efficiency yet is assured, but from certain knowledge I can say in entire confidence that the experiments made point convincingly in this direction.'

RUNS AIRSHIP ON LEG POWER, BUT TIRES OUT IN HEAD WIND.

William Mattry Takes Advantage of Reported "Night Prowler" to Test Country Fair Dirigible.

William Mattry knows the value of advertising, but in the four years of his experience as a professional aeronaut, giving exhibitions at country fairs, he never found a better opportunity to put over a "press agent stunt" than yesterday.

In a lot adjoining the Gunther ball park Mattry has been hard at work for several weeks preparing a dirigible balloon for exhibitions at county fairs during August, September, and October. He was busy working upon a sewing machine in the tent he had erected when he noticed in a newspaper the first account of a strange air craft said to have been seen floating above Chicago at night.

"I wish my gas bag was ready," he said to his assistant, as the possibilities of the case dawned upon him.

Finding that the newspapers continued to report the appearance of a mysterious airship, Mattry rushed his to completion. Twice he tested the gas bag by inflating it with hydrogen, which he manufactures at a little plant of his own adjoining the tent. Finding that the bag appeared tight, the aeronaut decided upon a trial flight in the morning.

Last year Mattry used a motor on the dirigible he exhibited, but this year he has rigged a bicycle apparatus upon the slight skeleton frame supported by the gas bag, and runs his propeller by leg power.

As soon as his machine mounted into the air Mattry saw he had not been mistaken in believing that a "Chicago airship of mystery" had been properly advertised. Greater crowds gathered in the streets for the free show than will attend the coming fairs.

Mattry headed toward the lake, but could make little progress against a strong breeze. His legs became tired and he let the machine drift to the corner of Clybourn and Fullerton avenue, where he descended upon a shed. The machine was then packed upon a cart and taken back to the tent.

First questioners were given to understand that this was the airship that is supposed to have been seen at night. Later he admitted that his trip was the first tryout of his new machine.

CHERBOURG AWAITS THE CZAR.

Entire French Channel Fleet Massed Off Port—Elaborate Plans to Guard Him.

CHERBOURG, July 30.—The entire French channel fleet is massed off here awaiting the arrival tomorrow of the Russian squadron which is escorting Emperor Nicholas and the imperial family, who are coming here to visit President Fallieres.

Elaborate precautions have been taken to safeguard the life of the emperor during his stay in French waters. The garrison here has been reinforced and within the city practically martial law prevails. Hundreds of Russian police officials already have arrived. More than fifty torpedo boat destroyers will keep every vessel under scrutiny, while from tonight until Monday morning no craft of any class will be allowed to approach that part of the harbor in which the French and Russian squadrons will be anchored.

The official program for the meeting of the two rulers includes an exchange of visits and lunches and dinners aboard the Verite and the imperial yacht Standart; conferences between MM. Pichon and Iswolsky, the French and Russian foreign ministers, and fireworks displays at night.

TOWS BURNING BOAT BY TEETH

Wisconsin Attorney Proves Himself Hero in River Accident.

SAVES EIGHT LIVES BY FEAT

Explosion of Launch Threatens Lawyer and Seven Women.

Manitowoc, Wis., July 30.—[Special.]—Strength in his teeth and ability to swim powerfully today enabled Attorney Fred Dicke of Two Rivers to prove himself a hero. When his gasoline launch exploded with seven women aboard he jumped overboard, took the painter in his teeth and thus towed the craft to shallow water, where the women jumped out and quenched the flames.

The lawyer with a party of Two Rivers women was on a pleasure run up the east Twin river, when without warning there was an explosion in the bow of the boat. The engine stopped and the women screamed and were about to jump overboard when Dicke thought of the way to save the situation.

All of the women were badly burned, but before the fire reached them they were near enough to the shore to leave the launch. Meanwhile the Two Rivers life saving crew was warned of the accident and responded with three doctors.

Chicagoan in Daring Rescue.

Muskegon, Mich., July 30.—[Special.]—By as thrilling an act of bravery as ever has been seen on the beach at Lake Michigan park, the scene of many daring rescues, Paul J. Schlossman, traveling representative of a Chicago clothing house, rescued George Irving, also of Chicago, wireless operator on the Goodrich steamer Virginia.

The two men had swam out together to a sand bar 100 yards beyond the bathing stand. On returning Schlossman had almost reached the stand when there was a cry for help from the other, who was thirty yards behind. Irving had become exhausted and was sinking. Schlossman was nearly exhausted also, but turned back. By great efforts he managed to assist the drowning man to reach the beach and shallow water. Both went under twice and Schlossman collapsed as the result of his exertions.

One Drowns, Five Narrowly Escape.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 30.—George Gregory of Philadelphia was drowned while bathing here today, and had it not been for the prompt work of four life guards five of his friends might have suffered the same fate.

The six men were bathing together when the strong undercurrent carried them into deep water. The guards with life lines and buoys responded promptly to their cries and succeeded in bringing five to shallow water.

All of the men were dazed, and when they had recovered they discovered that Gregory was missing. While searching for the missing man his body was washed ashore.

GRAVES IN KANKAKEE REPORT CLEARS HOSPITAL OF ABUSE.

Sustains Dr. Greene in Dwight Casey Case and Declares That Patient Injured Himself in Screenroom.

Springfield, Ill., July 30.—[Special.]—Gov. Deneen has received the formal report of the investigation he ordered into charges of brutal treatment of Dwight Casey of Joliet while a patient at the Kankakee hospital for the insane. The report is written by William C. Graves, executive secretary of the state board of charities. It sustains the superintendent, Dr. J. L. Greene, and upholds the institution in all important particulars. The findings follow:

1. No evidence that Mr. Casey was the victim of "outrageous and inhuman abuse."
2. That the slight injuries in evidence when Graves saw him were not inflicted by attendants.
3. That his injuries were inflicted by himself while he was in the screen room of ward A1 south, on the night of June 21.
4. That employés of the institution could have been more tactful in the early management of Mr. Casey.
5. That Graves accepts Dr. Greene's statement of what he said to Mrs. Heise about the policy of the Kankakee hospital regarding unkind treatment of inmates.

Mr. Heise, it appears, had said that Mrs. Heise said Dr. Greene admitted to her that Dwight Casey had been kicked and that the offender had been discharged, whereas Dr. Greene, in response to the allegation, said he told Mrs. Heise that if it could be shown that her brother had been kicked or otherwise abused the offender would be discharged.

Discovery Made in Home of Maiden Recluse Who Died in Fort Plain, N. Y.

Fort Plain, N. Y., July 30.—More than $100,000 in bonds, bank notes, and gold has been found hidden in the home of Elizabeth Diefendorf, an eccentric maiden recluse, who died here last Saturday leaving an estate valued at $1,000,000. The rear yard is to be plowed and the house torn down if further search promises returns.

Many of the bonds found had run to maturity, but still were untouched under a loose board, or tucked beneath a carpet or sewed into the lining of a dress that had not been worn for years.

One nest egg was found in a bonnet fashionable in days before the civil war and another in the bustle of a hoop skirt of the same period.

SEATING CONCERN IS SUED.

American Company, with Chicago Man as President, Declared Combine in Restraint of Trade.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 30.—Alleging that the American Seating company is a combination in restraint of trade, George A. Bullard of Marshall, holder of $57,550 in stock of the corporation, began suit against the concern here today. Bullard alleges that he represents the minority stockholders, who, he says, were ignored in the 1906 reorganization of the American School Furniture company, when the American Seating company was formed. He alleges that the corporation is now losing money for the minority stockholders. Thomas M. Boyd of Chicago is president of the American Seating company.

GOVERNOR AWAITS SHERMAN'S REPLY

Offer of Board of Control Presidency Accepted or Rejected This Morning.

ASKS FOR FRANK WHIPP.

Deneen's Prospective Appointee Wants Executive's Clerk as Fiscal Agent.

Lawrence Y. Sherman has until this morning to give Gov. Deneen his decision on the offer of the presidency of the board of control. The chances are that he will take it and he is said to have given an intimation of his purpose in a conference which the governor held with the prospective members of the new board and with men whom he expects to appoint to other state boards last night.

Mr. Sherman's reluctance is due to his dislike of giving up entirely his law practice, but he has been urged strongly by Mr. Deneen to accept and become head of the new board in control of the state charitable institutions.

It is probable the governor will have to give up his institution audit clerk, Frank Whipp, and make him fiscal agent of the new board, although reluctant to do so. The governor wants to retain Whipp where he is and find another man for the position on the new board. Sherman wants Whipp as a fellow member of the board and insists that if he accepts the presidency, Whipp shall be given the financial place.

Position of Alienist in Doubt?

In the end, it may result in Deneen giving up his institution auditor to secure Sherman. It was said that the position of alienist still was in doubt with Dr. James Greene of Kankakee the choice, but with Dr. W. A. Taylor of Watertown and Dr. Vaclav Podstata of Elgin both in line for the position.

The governor yesterday gave no assurance that he would be able to make an announcement of the appointments until tonight, when the time limit for the naming of the board of control will be reached. If his plans go as scheduled he will be able to announce appointments to the railroad and warehouse commission and to the pardon board.

It is said that both G. De F. Kinney of Peoria and Orville F. Berry of Carthage want to be named on the railroad board, where there is only one vacancy, and part of the troubles of the governor have been caused by the necessity of deciding which one of the two shall get this place.

General Switch Suggested.

It has been suggested that a general switch be made which will transfer James Willoughby from the railroad board to the place vacant on the pardon board, thus making two places on the former board which would be at the disposal of Kinney and Berry. Willoughby may enter such strenuous objections to this that it will have to be abandoned even if the governor should decide that he wants both men on the railroad board.

SUPT. ELLA YOUNG IS NOW HER TITLE

Woman Educator Formally Elected Head of Chicago's Public Schools.

BECOMES FAMOUS IN DAY.

Receives Telegrams of Congratulation from All Parts of the Country.

In one of the shortest and most harmonious sessions ever held by the Chicago board of education, Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, principal of the Chicago Normal school, was elected formally last night to the position of superintendent of public schools.

In the space of fifteen minutes the board, called in special meeting, suspended the rules, elected Mrs. Young, created the office of first assistant superintendent of schools, and elected John D. Shoop, principal of the Holden school, to the place, fixed the salaries of Mrs. Young and Mr. Shoop respectively at $10,000 and $6,000 a year, cleaned up the fag ends of business for the school year, and adjourned.

The meeting was called to order by President Alfred R. Urion at 8:25 o'clock. Immediately after roll call Trustee Chester M. Dawes, chairman of the rules committee, paved the way for the election with a report to amend the rules of the board to elect a superintendent, create the new office, and transact other business. Briefly Mr. Dawes read the amendment, which was adopted unanimously.

Then, with everything put in perfect legal form to carry out an election, Trustee Adolph F. Gartz, addressing the board, said:

"Mr. President and Gentlemen: It is my privilege and pleasure to nominate for superintendent of the Chicago public schools a person who needs no introduction to any of us—Mrs. Ella Flagg Young."

Seconded by Mrs. O'Keeffe.

Mrs. Isabelle O'Keeffe rose to second the nomination.

"Mr. President, as the only woman on the board of education I take the greatest pleasure in seconding the nomination of Mrs. Ella Young," she said. "In doing so, I know the board of education will get one of the best women in the United States for superintendent of our public schools."

The second of Mrs. O'Keeffe was greeted with applause from the trustees and the women in the gallery who attended the meeting in the hope of catching a glimpse of the new woman superintendent. But neither Mrs. Young nor Mr. Shoop was present.

Mrs. Young was elected unanimously by eighteen votes, the absentees being Otto C. Schneider, Theodore W. Robinson, and Dr. Alfred D. Kohn. After a minute of applause Joseph Downey formally nominated Mr. Shoop as first assistant superintendent of schools.

"In nominating Mr. Shoop I believe the board of education is doing one of the best things it ever has done," he said. "Mr. Shoop is the right man for the right place, a place that has been needed for a long time and which we have just created."

The vote again was unanimous, and then Secretary Lewis E. Larson read a telegram from Otto C. Schneider, who is at his summer home in Wisconsin. The message follows:

"Young and Shoop are very good selections. Congratulations to both. Cannot come."

Highest Paid Woman Educator.

Trustee Spiegel, chairman of the finance committee, then presented a report fixing the salary of the superintendent of schools at $10,000 and of the first assistant superintendent at $6,000. It was this action that makes Mrs. Young the highest salaried woman educator in the United States. Only one other superintendent of schools, Supt. Maxwell of New York City, receives as large a salary. The report was adopted unanimously.

The finance committee was increased from three to five members and the chairmen of the committees on schools management and buildings and grounds will hereafter be members ex officio. President Urion made his appointments to this committee, naming Trustees Spiegel, Bennett, Morron, Robinson, and Downey. A special library committee to act as a subcommittee to the school management committee was appointed. Its members are Trustees Kohn, Sumner, Smietanka, Koester, and Walsh.

It was exactly 8:40 o'clock when President Urion finished naming the committees.

"Is there any other business to be transacted, gentlemen?" he inquired. Nothing was offered and an adjournment was taken. The next meeting of the board will take place in September.

Action Under Suspended Rules.

In submitting the report of the committee on rules Chairman Dawes explained that such action and a suspension of rules was necessary to make the action taken at the special meeting strictly legal. The old section which provides for the election of a superintendent for a term of five years was stricken out, and in its stead was placed a section providing for the election of a superintendent for a term of one year and for the election of a first assistant superintendent and assistant superintendents.

"I think the proposed section meets with the general idea which prevails among the members of this board," said Mr. Dawes. "But this being a special meeting, it is necessary to make this amendment and to suspend the rules to make the action we take tonight strictly legal. The change from five years to one year in the term of office of the superintendent is made on the opinion of the board's attorney that we haven't the power to elect a superintendent for a term of five years."

False Impression Corrected.

President Urion also took considerable pains prior to the meeting to explain the strict legality of Mrs. Young's election and to refute reports that she had been elected illegally in a closed session of the board on Thursday evening.

"There seems to be a misapprehension on the part of the public that the board was exceeding its powers in selecting Mrs. Young at Thursday's meeting," he said. "There was not a thing irregular in the proceedings. Any body has the right to go into what is called executive session. We did this only that the choice of a superintendent might be made more quickly, as we realized the Chicago schools already had gone too long without a head.

"The meeting on Thursday merely arrived at the conclusion that Mrs. Young was the one best fitted for the place and we decided unanimously to offer the place to her. The formal election was deferred until tonight's special meeting."

Becomes Famous in a Night.

At her residence, 6449 Harvard avenue, Mrs. Young learned what it means to become famous in a night. On Thursday she was known as one of the leading educators in the middle west and as principal of the Chicago Normal school, the training school for teachers in the Chicago schools. Yesterday she attained nation wide fame as the unanimous choice for superintendent of schools of the second largest city in the country and the first woman ever to be chosen for such a position.

Telegrams and letters of congratulation poured in all day from all parts of the country. They began to arrive while Mrs. Young was out in her little automobile for an early morning spin. There was a little pile of them when she returned and it grew throughout the day, messages to be read and answered later, for Mrs. Young was occupied most of the day in receiving calls and responding to congratulations made in person by a host of Chicago friends. Then, too, a considerable portion of her time was given over to newspaper men who interviewed her on nearly every conceivable subject pertaining to the administration of her new office.

Briefly Outlines Her Plans.

In her favorite chair, one which she brought home from Venice, Mrs. Young smilingly faced her inquisitors and formulated the plans which will mark her administration. There will be nothing revolutionary in her administration, but a stronger emphass on the fundamentals of education and greater thoroughness in teaching will be her ideals.

"I think it is high time to lay more force on the old plain forms known as the three R's," said Mrs. Young in reply to a question on her ideas of the present tendency of public school education. "There have been great changes in the educational world in the last ten years. The old methods were inadequate for the modern child. An era of fads began. Much that is good was added to the old curriculum, but much that is useless also was added. The time has come to put a check on the fads and to determine what really is useful. I do not intend to revert to old fashioned methods, but I do wish to make certain changes toward greater thoroughness, for I believe in grounding the children thoroughly in the elementals."

Favors Industrial Education.

But Mrs. Young is a firm advocate of industrial education, in manual training, household arts, domestic science, and arts and crafts work.

"I believe thoroughly in these branches, provided they are given their proper place," she said. "I hope to carry out some of the ideas of uniting art and industry in the public schools as they are carried out in the Chicago normal school, which I believe has advanced further in this respect than any other institution of learning. I intend to bring a woman from Columbia university to take charge of household arts instruction. I believe this kind of instruction for girls should begin earlier than the fourth grade, as at present. I have no doubt but that most women want most to be the head of a home. But if a woman feels that she has the power and can be useful in a business career, let her follow it by all means."

On the subject of high school fraternities and secret societies, Mrs. Young declared she shares the attitude of former President Schneider and the board of education. But while striving to abolish the secret societies she will endeavor to substitute a system which shall encourage social activities in the schools.

"The schools need more social life and this I shall endeavor to create. I think some such system as is being tried at the University High school, where the faculty has instituted a series of afternoon and evening dances and entertainments, would solve the problem. Or the pupils might be divided into clubs directly under faculty supervision, as at the normal school. But this is just a suggestion, not a predetermined plan on my part."

THINKS CHOICE A BLUNDER.

St. Louis, Mo., July 30.—[Special.]—Henry C. Garneau, president of the St. Louis board of education, said things when he learned that Mrs. Young had been appointed superintendent of the Chicago schools at $10,000 a year.

"A position of this nature awarded to a woman 64 years old," he asserted, "is without precedent in the educational history of the United States.

"I do not think a woman is physically capable of coping with the duties of superintendent of schools in Chicago. Such an appointment is plain tomfoolery.

"Time will prove that the move is a lack of wisdom and the only excuse is that it happened in Chicago, where they are always doing something wild and woolly. It will be a long time before a woman is appointed superintendent of schools in St. Louis, even if she were of fewer years and naturally able to withstand more than a woman who has reached the age of Mrs. Young."

Will of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hill Gives Approximately Half Her Estate to Aid Memorial.

A bequest of $59,100, or approximately one-half of the total value of her holdings, is provided for the William Rainey Harper memorial library of the University of Chicago by Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hill, whose will was filed for probate yesterday.

It was learned at the university that no other of its benefactors had given so great a proportion of belongings to the institution.

Mrs. Hill, widow of William J. Hill, died in San Francisco, Cal., June 23, leaving an estate of $121,500. It is stipulated that should the memorial library not be built the money must be used for corporate purposes of the university.

FINDS CHICAGO'S PARKS BEST

Philadelphia Commission Thinks System Leads Country.

TAKES SUGGESTIONS HOME.

Further Hints Will Be Sought in Cleveland and Buffalo.

The members of the Philadelphia public playgrounds commission, which was appointed by Mayor Reyburn to visit other cities to look for suggestions for improvements at home, left this city last night for Cleveland and Buffalo, warm in their praise of Chicago's park system.

This commission has been here all week and will recommend on its return that Philadelphia adopt many of the features of Chicago's playgrounds and recreation centers, regardless of the expense.

"So far as our experience goes," said Otto T. Mallery, secretary of the commission, "Chicago leads all American cities. Its system is magnificent.

Understand Heavy Expense.

"We can readily understand the wisdom of Chicago's $11,000,000 investment in small parks, playgrounds, and recreation centers.

"That 95 per cent of the voters vote affirmatively when an issue of bonds for playgrounds is put before them is a conclusive proof of the success of Chicago's idea.

"When all the other recreation center activities are taken into consideration, such as outdoor and indoor gymnasiums, wading pools for the children, sand piles, swings, rooms for dancing, libraries, and other neighborhood meetings, Chicago's plan seems true civic economy in health and good citizenship.

Nothing Too Good for City.

"Evidentally the best is none too good for Chicago. We were impressed by the pride the people take in the playgrounds and recreation centers, and by the way they coöperate in taking care of them.

"We carry back with us a vivid impression of the 'get together' spirit which is pressing the city forward in such rapid civic progress, and feel that your playground system is a brilliant expression of that spirit.

"We never were more courteously entertained than by the members of your park commissions, Harold McCormick and Graham Taylor."

SISTERS TO LOSE "HOSPITAL HOME"

Workers for Charity Await Notice to Leave City's Isolation Building.

HEROISM AS LIFE WORK.

Evans-Biehn Dispute Over Milk May Result in Disciplining of Subordinate.

Sister Emilinda, 70 years old, and her three associate Sisters of Charity were told yesterday that they would have to give up their home. It is the isolation hospital, but it has been "home" to Sister Emilinda for twenty-seven years, and the fact that it also has been the "home" of smallpox and other dread contagious diseases has not made it less so to these sisters.

Officially the order closing that part of the contagious disease hospital which has been in their charge has not been issued, but word has been taken to them that its operation will be suspended in the interest of economy. Contagious diseases other than smallpox will be cared for in that part of the hospital —the older building—in which are trained nurses. When a case of smallpox is found the isolation hospital will be opened.

Order Is an "Eviction."

The closing is an "eviction" for the four sisters, whose lives have been devoted to the most dreaded tasks of nursing and who have been its "permanent residents." The city health authorities have decided that the usefulness of this institution is not such as to warrant the expenditure of money necessary to maintain it constantly.

Smallpox is a disease which seldom sends a patient there now and the city is equipped for the handling of all other contagious diseases. An appeal may be made to Archbishop Quigley in the interest of the sisters, who feel a sense of deprivation beyond the comprehension of ordinary folks, whose instinct would be to seek refuge anywhere as a shelter to be preferred to an isolation hospital.

Four sisters contemplate the abandoning of their home—two nurses, the sister who does the cooking, and Sister Emilinda. In cases of emergency other sisters have come from the headquarters of the order in South Bend, but these four have made their home in the "home" of the disease.

Successors Did Not Stay.

Sister Emilinda's term of twenty-seven years in the work is the longest, but others have been with her for a long time. Once before their occupancy of the hospital was broken, when the city tried the experiment of putting civil service employés in their places. Their successors promptly succumbed to the dread of the place and abandoned their "jobs" with a haste that did not permit of much dignity.

Then the sisters quietly moved in again and took up the tasks with which they had been long familiar, which had no horror for them, and to which they had devoted their lives. When the new building was added to the old isolation hospital the sisters were moved into it. The old building became the contagious disease hospital and was put in charge of sectarian nurses.

It is said by the health department authorities that the closing of the hospital will be temporary—that it will be closed until a case of smallpox requires its reopening. If the reopening of the smallpox branch be necessitated it is expected that the sisterhood will send nurses for the work, but for the four devoted "residents" it means the loss of a "home."

Evans and Biehn Clash.

The health department, in the meantime, is disturbed by other matters, chief of which is a reported ruction between Health Commissioner Dr. W. A. Evans and his assistant, Dr. J. F. Biehn, growing out of the recent hearing on the subject of pasteurized milk before the health committee of the city council. Rumor had it yesterday that Dr. Biehn had been requested to resign by his superior, but Dr. Evans said that was not so, and Dr. Biehn refused to commit himself one way or the other. Dr. Biehn did not spend more than one hour at the health department yesterday, and his visit was made when Dr. Evans was not around.

Dr. Evans, it is said, was considerably incensed over the attitude of his assistant at the hearing before the committee, because he considered Dr. Biehn's whole attitude and method of answering questions was opposed to the project of pasteurized milk, which Dr. Evans is striving with heart and soul to bring about.

The rumor about the city hall during the day was that Dr. Evans had requested the resignation of his assistant, who informed the health commissioner that as he was a civil service employé, he would not resign, but that his superior was at liberty to bring charges against him before the civil service board any time he felt so inclined.

Dr. Evans in Doubt.

"I have not asked Dr. Biehn's resignation," said Dr. Evans at night, "and I don't know yet whether I shall prefer charges against him or not. The matter is one that I do not wish to discuss at this time. In fact, I have said nothing about it to anybody, and I don't understand how the rumor got around."

During the hearing before the health committee, when Dr. Evans was making his fight to have the ordinance requiring the pasteurization of milk kept upon the statute books, Dr. Biehn was brought in for the purpose of presenting reports on the analysis of milk taken from various places, which he had made. Several times when Dr. Biehn was answering questions put to him by Ald. Hey and other members of the committee Dr. Evans was plainly perturbed over Dr. Biehn's apparent indifference to the general subject and the alleged lack of thoroughness with which he had prepared the data.

It required considerable cross questioning on the part of Dr. Evans to remove the impression given by Dr. Biehn's reading of certain memoranda that pasteurization had injured the milk, although the contention of the health commissioner was that by pasteurizing the milk the typhoid and tubercular germs were killed, and that the bacteria remaining were not harmful. "I am much surprised," declared Dr. Evans, after the hearing, "that Dr. Biehn has not prepared himself better for this hearing. I do not understand it."

Ald. Hey, assisted by Dr. Maximilian Herzog and Attorney D. M. Kerton, is compiling a voluminous report on the subject of milk pasteurization, which will be presented to the council at the special meeting to be called as soon as Mayor Busse comes back to work. The data is being prepared for the purpose of combating the work of the advocates of pasteurization.

COAST TO COAST HIGHWAY PLAN

John A. Stewart Says President Taft Has Promised to Support Atlantic to Pacific Project.

Four public highways from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific are projected by the International League for Highway Improvement, according to John A. Stewart, president of the league, who was in Chicago yesterday.

"We have prepared a bill," he said "which will be brought up in congress this fall. It provides for federal survey for the proposed roads and the appointment of a national commission on highway improvement. The commission shall cause a survey to be made of four or more east and west highways, twenty-four feet wide, to run from coast to coast.

"I have talked with President Taft and he promises support of the project."

Offers Check; No Funds; Arrested.

A man who said he was T. A. De Loach of "687 West Monroe and 1139 West Van Buren streets," and who is believed to be demented, was arrested while insisting on cashing a check yesterday at the National Bank of the Republic, where he did not have a deposit.

Will Visit Ranch Bought by Women.

Miss Glenna Lynch

Members of the Idaho guild of the Arts Craft institute adopted a brand to be used upon the cattle of their Idaho ranch at a business meeting and informal entertainment held last night as a parting greeting to Miss Glenna Lynch, who has been delegated to go to Idaho and complete the legal transaction for the purchase of the irrigated farm bought by young women of Chicago.

The brand adopted was a flying "A. I. G." and the land will be known as the "A. I. G." ranch. Miss Lynch will make a study of the land to determine what kind of crops can best be raised on it.

The ranch includes a tract of 160 acres near Wendell, Idaho, in an irrigated region.

PAPKE TO BOX AT FOREST PARK

Management Serenely Schedules Bouts for "Thunderbolt."

DEPUTY PETERS NOT ASKED.

Program of Three Round Fistic Matches Is Announced.

Public announcement was made late last night that "boxing of three rounds' duration will be inaugurated at Forest park" this afternoon and that "each Saturday and Sunday during the remainder of the season bouts will be staged."

Silvie Ferretti and Charles "Kid" Cutler were named as the promoters.

Billy Papke, the Illinois Thunderbolt, survivor of four battles with Middleweight Champion Stanley Ketchel, was billed as the attraction this afternoon, "taking on," to use the language of the circular, "Mike Cantwell, the 'Mysterious Conductor,' in the afternoon." Tonight his opponent is slated to be "Kid" Dexter. One way of evading the boxing regulations in the past has been to inject a comedy element in the bouts, but it is difficult to imagine Papke in such a rôle. The afternoon "go" is to be at 5:30 o'clock. Packey McFarland is to be the referee.

That "boxing" has flourished at Forest park is indicated in the circular's eulogy of the "Mysterious Conductor," who will be one of the receivers in general for Papke's punches. "He is a conductor on the Elgin-Aurora line," the circular reads, "and has appeared in two bouts at the athletic club in Forest park."

The boldly worded announcement was circulated so late that it could not be brought to the attention of Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles W. Peters, who stopped the bout at West Hammond a week ago.

At that time, however, Mr. Peters said that he intended to stop any attempt at prize fighting made in Cook county.

CHICAGOAN LICKS ROBBER BAND

Cablegram Gives James L. Houghteling Credit for Thrashing Five Thieves in Europe.

James L. Houghteling of Chicago, now traveling in Europe, has figured in an exciting encounter with robbers, according to a cablegram received yesterday from Barmen, Rheinish Prussia.

Mr. Houghteling was on his way to attend the world's conference of the Y. M. C. A., which is being held at Barmen, when he was set upon by the thieves on the Italian frontier, says the dispatch.

James L. Houghteling Jr., when seen at his residence in Winnetka, said the dispatch probably referred to an incident that occurred several months ago, when his father, who is a senior member of Peabody, Houghteling & Co., was in Italy.

NO LENIENCY FOR LINGUIST.

Judge Scanlan Decides That Prisoner Accused of Stealing Pocketbooks Must Stand Jury Trial.

Oscar von Hagen, who says he is the son of a colonel in the German army, can speak six languages, but he could not obtain leniency yesterday when he was arraigned before Judge Scanlan on a charge of stealing pocketbooks from seventeen women. The prisoner told the court he was willing to plead guilty if the state would waive the charge of felony and make his offense a misdemeanor. He added that he had stolen the pocketbooks because he was without money. Judge Scanlan declined to accept the plea and Von Hagen was returned to jail to await trial before a jury next week.

FIREMEN BARELY ESCAPE WALL

Battalion Chief Healy and Men in Peril When Side of Maplewood Hall Collapses.

Battalion Chief Charles Healy and several firemen narrowly escaped being buried when a wall collapsed in a fire that destroyed the Maplewood hall at 1508-1512 North Rockwell street last night. Roofers had been working on the building and it is believed a lighted cigar was dropped in the attic. The loss of $25,000 will be divided among the owners and the owners of three stores beneath. These are Anderson & Swanson, who had the Western Mission Furniture and Clock company; John Smith, a paint dealer, and Moe & Golinick, confectioners.

IDLE MEN DEAF TO CROP CALL

Northwestern Farmers Plead in Vain for 100,000 Helpers.

LIKE CITY LIFE; IT'S EASY.

Representative J. Raglan Patchmores Give Explanation.

They are hearing the voice of the wheat these days in South Clark and Canal streets, and the answer, while disguised in jargon not familiar in Michigan avenue, is the same old statement being made a few blocks east, to wit: that Chicago is a pretty good summer resort

"Nix, me for here. It's easy pickin's in Chicago dis summer," is the universal reply to the cry for 100,000 men to harvest the crops in the west and Canada.

Where the 100,000 men are coming from neither the Canal street employment agencies, the railroads, nor the "leisure" class could tell yesterday. It was stated all along the line that the demand for labor of every variety, in addition to farm hands, was more than twice in excess of the supply.

Views of Patchmore's Friends.

J. Raglan Patchmore could not be located at his accustomed retreat, but a number of his friends, hearing the sound of a siphon, quickly lined up and consented for the consideration of a "tub," to discourse on the subject of "Laying on the straw," which is hobo for harvesting wheat.

"Bo, there's nuttin' to it," began Nick Wirtz, who is said to be as well known among his own people as Bleriot is in France. "I've been at dat game so long me own mother wouldn't know me now. I works 117 days in a row in 1891 in the straw in Minnesota. I quits the biz tree years ago. I knows it from A to Z.

"I ain't never seen no one come back here with a hundred bones. Most of 'em stops off in Minneapolis, and dey don't ride the cushions any furder. Most of 'em coughs it up to de yeggmen. I coughs up 108 meg meself me last year.

"And say, kid, did you'se ever eat a pork chop over to Pittsburg Joe's? Say, dat's high livin' to what we'se get. And as for sleepin' 117 nights on the straw, well I don't minds dat, but I remembers one of them college kids that did.

Pencil Lighter than Pitchfork.

"I sees him the other day comin' out of Marshall Field's, and he says, 'Nick, you old lobster,' and I says to him, 'Pete, are you workin' here?' 'Sure,' he says.

"And den he says: 'A lead pencil is made of wood, but it ain't near as big as one of 'em straw forks.'

"Nope, kid, no more straw fer me. Dey ain't nuthin' in it."

At this point a gentleman of the road, steadying himself with one foot on the brass railing, begged leave to state that "he had one of 'em 'ere jobs at Loon Lake in de ice plant," and while "it was—, it was better than wurkin' in de sun on de straw."

For another small consideration he supplied his name as William Corbin.

Finds Big Profit "Bootlegging."

A third member of the party, who said he was "Henry Peters" and who evidently had seen better days even in his chosen career, declared he traversed wheat fields galore—but not as a farm hand. He was "bootlegging" it.

"I makes $460 in four weeks and four days," he said. "I gets me booze for 30 cents a pint and sells it for a dollar a pint, and say, Hinky Dink doesn't know what selling booze is. Dey're de real fish. Dey can't get enough. I'd been on de job yet but de yeggmen got me and so I quit and beat it back here.

"I don't like to discourage nobody, but say, kid, if ye're tinking of goin' out dere jest remember I told ye it was a short time to make big money, but de days were long."

Employment agents say that from 300 to 500 "Sizzor Bills" and "Gopher Hunters"—as the less tired of the weary ones are known in South Clark and Canal streets—are being sent to the wheat fields daily, but that this number is far below what the city has sent in previous years.

Railroad Gives Information.

The Northern Pacific railroad has sent out a printed bulletin of the towns along its right of way, showing the number of men needed to harvest the crops, with the amount of salary paid. The wages range from $1.50 to $3.50 a day.

Some of the towns where men are most earnestly sought are Barlow, Binford, Fargo, Grand Forks, and Wheatland in North Dakota, and Fergus Falls and Dilworth in Minnesota. At Winnipeg, Manitoba, 20,000 men are needed.

PHONE MAN, SOLE SUPPORT OF HIS MOTHER, IS DROWNED.

Loon Lake Victim Was Engaged to Be Married—Coroner's Jury Urges Precaution on Launches.

DROWNINGS OF THE YEAR..............510

William McGee, an employé of the Chicago Telephone company at Antioch, Ill., and the sole support of his widowed mother, was drowned in Loon lake near Antioch on Thursday afternoon. He was engaged to marry a young woman of Antioch about September. McGee stepped into a deep hole in the lake and lost his life. The body was recovered.

Harold Boyce, 10 years old, 9358 Washington avenue, ventured too far into deep water in an abandoned quarry at Ninety-third street and Jackson Park avenue and drowned in sight of two companions. The South Chicago avenue police dragged the quarry, but were unable to find the body.

A coroner's jury recommended yesterday that greater precautions for safety be taken on excursion launches and other pleasure vessels which ply upon the lake during the summer season. This action followed an inquest into the death of Roger Alexander, 644 West Harrison street, who was drowned from the launch Chicago last Sunday.

Alfred Kelley, a newsboy, was drowned in the forenoon at Highland Park. He was a good swimmer and it is believed he was seized with cramps.

TWO MORE VICTIMS OF HEAT; ONE DISAPPEARS IN CRAZE.

Forecaster Declares Both Temperature and Humidity Will Be High, with No Limit Today.

One heat prostration and one case of a man being apparently crazed by the heat were reported to the police yesterday, although at no time did the temperature exceed 78 degrees. Five additional prostrations on Thursday were reported.

The relief of persons living in the congested parts of the city brought by the winds and cooler weather is destined to be short lived, however, according to the latest prediction of the local forecast officer. Warmer weather is announced for today, with no particular limit upon how much warmer.

Today not only is expected to be warmer, but it is the belief of the weather officials that the humidity will also be above normal.

It was 2 o'clock in the morning when William Deering got out of bed at 835 North Wood street, complained of the heat, and jumped from his window on the ground floor. He did not return and his father asked the Rawson street police to look for him.

Edward Ribelhof, 51 years old, of 122 Wells street, was overcome at Wells and Ohio streets and was taken to the County hospital. He is said to be in a serious condition.

YOUTH CONVICTED ON GIRLS' CHARGE

J. Jacobson First to Be Found Guilty Under Amendment to Pandering Act.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL.

Oversight in Changing of Information Claimed by Defense to Be an Error.

The first conviction under the new amendment to the pandering act was obtained yesterday, a jury in Municipal Judge Girten's court finding Jacob Jacobson, 22 years old, guilty of procuring and placing two girls in a resort. Assistant State's Attorney Roe, who drew up the amendment and went to Springfield to urge it upon the legislature, prosecuted the case.

Because the defense claimed there had been an error in the trial a motion for a new hearing will be argued this morning. Jacobson had pleaded guilty to information charging him with taking only one girl to the resort. This information was changed, charging him with taking both girls, but by an oversight Jacobson was not asked to plead.

While the prosecutor was summing up Judge Girten recalled the error and asked Jacobson to plead guilty to the amended information. He refused and Thomas Swanson, his attorney, thereupon withdrew from the case. The court appointed A. V. Lee to continue the defense. It was necessary to hear nearly all the evidence over again, Lee having persuaded Jacobson to plead guilty to the amended information.

Three Others Also Accused.

Jacobson and Louis Brodsky were charged with taking Mary McConnell, 16 years old, 1242 Forty-second court, and Adele Shubert, 16 years old, 1407 Forty-first street, to a resort known as the "Silver Dollar" in South Chicago. Brodsky, Abraham Weinstein, proprietor of the resort, and Jennie Sandusky, the housekeeper, are under arrest. They will be tried next week. The girls are being held at the Harrison street annex to testify against them.

Mary McConnell said Weinstein told her the day after she arrived at the "Silver Dollar" that she looked too young and that he would have to exchange her.

Jacobson testified that Brodsky was sent into the "red light" district to sell her, and exhibited a card that he said Weinstein gave Brodsky when he left with the McConnell girl. It read "2017 Armour," and at the bottom in the left hand corner appeared "The Bon Ton, Chicago."

Hears Bargaining for Girls.

The defendant also said he overheard Brodsky arranging a price with Weinstein for the girls, but he did not know the amount nor whether it was ever paid. He was not consulted, he said, nor did he get a cent.

He denied having lured the McConnell girl to the resort, asserting he told her the nature of the life led in such a place and that she was willing to go. He said he had nothing to do with the Shubert girl.

In the morning Lieut. John B. Enright testified that he arrested Brodsky on July 17 when he attempted to sell the McConnell girl to a resort at Twenty-second and Dearborn streets called the "Old 92." Jesse Michaud, the housekeeper, had notified the police that a man was trying to sell her a young girl.

Arrested as "White Slavers."

J. V. Tyler of Chicago and Frank Anderson of Memphis were arrested in the afternoon, and two girls whom they brought here from Memphis and took to a south side levee resort are held at the Harrison street annex.

Tyler, who is thought by the police to be working for the south side "vice trust," was released on $500 bonds, signed by John Morris, a saloonkeeper at 239 Twenty-second street. Anderson is still held at the Harrison street station.

Minnie Speck, 20 years old, and Marie Pearson, 19 years old, were in a summer garden in Memphis on Wednesday night with Anderson, who says Tyler and another man promised to pay their fares to Chicago and to get the girls a job. The girls consented, and on arriving here were taken to a resort at 2100 Dearborn street.

RATE REDUCTION AUG. 1ST

Cooking By Electricity

is not really as expensive as some seem to think. The cost of electricity has been gradually reduced from year to year, and the utensils have been improved in heating effectiveness so as to consume less current than formerly.

Will Be Cheaper

On August 1st another reduction takes effect—averaging 6½%. There is now no reason of economy why every home in Chicago should not enjoy electric light and one or more of the convenient electrical cooking utensils.

TARIFF MEASURE UNDER LIMELIGHT

Bill May Carry Out Taft Idea to Block Heavy Advances by Monopolies.

MANY GOOD POINTS SEEN.

Administrative Features to Be Shown by Republicans as Justification.

tating, it was alleged, not only the price of American wool but arbitrarily fixing the price of cloth

Sugar Cut Inappreciable.

The two houses of congress and the conferees showed the same consideration for the sugar schedule as they did for the woolen. The reduction in sugar rates is so inappreciable that it will not be felt by the consumer, Mr. Payne to the contrary.

So far as the agricultural schedule is concerned the Dingley rates maintain with the exception of increases on broom corn, sweetened biscuits, hops, figs, lemons, pineapples, almonds, and chicory root, and decreases on cabbages, fresh meat, bacon and hams, lard, tallow, wool grease, dextrin, green peas, starch, sugar beets, and salt.

Just consider what these decreases are. No one believes any foreign country can compete with the United States in meats, fresh or cured, lard, tallow, or wool grease. This also is true of sugar beets, salt, and the other articles named. With respect to increases, these are designed to give extra protection to industries which, for the most part, are well taken care of.

No one will object to the increases in duties on wines and liquors. Men who drink champagne can afford to pay for it. This is true also of imported liquors.

Tobacco Schedule Interesting.

The tobacco schedule is practically unchanged, so far as rates are concerned, but it contains several interesting provisions for and against the tobacco trust.

The section removes the internal revenue tax on unstemmed leaf tobacco, which is in the interest of the growers, who assert they are forced to sell their product to the trust in consequence of the operation of the existing law. But, upon manufacturers of tobacco, an internal revenue tax of 8 cents a pound is levied, which is expected to benefit the trust.

The conferees struck out the coupon prohibition included in the original Beveridge amendment. The independent tobacco manufacturers were opposed to coupons while they were favored by the trust. The latter won.

It was asserted by Representative Payne in his report today that the conferees had agreed to a slight increase only on the smaller sizes of plate glass. He showed that numerous reductions had been made on fire brick, brick, plaster rock or gypsum, filter tubes, common window glass, onyx in block, marble, mosaic cubes, granite free stone, and mica.

The value of fire brick imported during last year was only $128,000. The brick importations were valued at $41,800. Less than $15,000 worth of plaster rock came into this country. The value of the filter tube imports was $157,000. The importations of common window glass aggregated about $270,000. Seventy thousand dollars worth of onyz in block passed through the Dingley wall.

The marble that was admitted for the most part was of kinds not found in this country. Mosaic cubes valued at less than $50,000 were received. The granite and freestone importations were valued at about $125,000. The mica importations amounted to $34,000.

Domestic Articles Control.

There probably will be some increases in these importations at the lower duty, but for the most part the domestic articles have control of the market and the producers affected have no fear that their industries will be affected by the reductions.

What are particularly interesting to the housewife are the china, glass, and glassware paragraphs. The rates with regard to the articles therein are practically not affected, although changes have been made in classifications which will require new court interpretations and may prove important.

The lumber reductions have brought no joy to the lumber men. Rough lumber is reduced from $2 a thousand feet to $1.25, and there are substantial reductions on the finished product. The only increases are in shingles, which are advanced from 30 cents to 50 cents a thousand, and briar root or briar wood, used principally for the manufacture of pipes, are made dutiable at 15 per cent ad valorem.

Structural Steel Raised.

So far as the metal schedule is concerned, while the conference committee has reported numerous reductions, it is admitted by Representative Payne that the duty on structural steel ready for use has been increased.

The reductions in the metal schedule will lead to no large importations The president realizes this as well as any one else, but it was his idea that the duties should be brought down to a point where in case an attempt was made to advance prices through monopolies, importations would enter as a corrective

The schedule covering sundries relates to everything not covered in other schedules, ranging from beads to jewelry, bituminous coal to hair. In this schedule also are the boot and shoe and leather duties, which have been lowered as a result of the transfer of hides to the free list, and the paragraph covering rates on gloves worn by women and children. These are the rates which were advanced by the house to an exorbitant figure, but restored by the senate to those in the existing law.

Changes in the Free List.

The free list includes crude petroleum. The conferees removed from this list bagging for cotton, gunny cloth, and similar fabrics suitable for covering raw cotton and reimposed the duties. This action has made the southern senators fighting mad.

They will hold a caucus tomorrow for the purpose of deciding what course they shall pursue with respect to the bill. Senator Bailey said this afternoon that in revenge for the application of cotton bagging duties he would talk the bill to death.

The senator did not mean what he said. But there is no doubt that the action taken by the conferees will be a matter of serious objection in the southern states.

That President Taft will approve the bill as reported to the two houses there is no doubt. He said as much today to the members of congress and others who called at the White house. He is using his influence to force the bill through the house tomorrow, and that body will respond to his desire.

There was a meeting of the senate low tariff insurgents this afternoon, but it was inconclusive, and another meeting will be held tomorrow. It seems probable that less than seven of the senators belonging to this faction will vote against the bill on its final passage.

THREE ACCUSED BY GIRL BRIDE.

Mrs. Ruth Dickholtz Swears Out Warrants for Her Husband's Parents and Physician.

Mrs. Ruth Dickholtz, 19 years old, appeared before Municipal Judge Newcomer yesterday and swore out warrants for Dr. C. W. Klinetop of 55 State street and the parents of her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Hymen Dickholtz, charging them with a serious offense. The young bride declared Mr. and Mrs. Dickholtz took her to the physician's office against her will and afterward summoned him to their home. Dr. Klinetop was arrested and released on bonds given by Venus Klinetop, 4506 Indiana avenue. The other warrants were given to detectives for service.

ONE ILLINOISAN STILL TARIFF FOE

Mann Is the Only Member of State's Delegation Who'll Vote Against Bill.

OTHERS WILL BE IN LINE.

Foss Credits "The Chicago Tribune" with Gloves and Hosiery Victory.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—The tariff conference report will have the support of every Republican member of the congressional delegation from Illinois with one exception. Representative James R. Mann of Chicago is "off the reservation" on account of the high duty agreed upon for print paper and has announced that he will not only vote against the report but do his best to bring about its defeat.

There are others among the Illinoisans who are dissatisfied, but they have announced they will be ready with their votes in support of the bill tomorrow. All of them say it is the best bill obtainable.

Foss Is Awarded Credit.

To Representative George Edmund Foss must be awarded the credit for having allied himself with the demanders of lower duties on women's gloves and cotton hosiery when the issue was first raised by THE TRIBUNE away back in the days when the bill was first reported to the house. He stayed with the game to the finish.

Those who came to Washington to fight Littauer and his high glove duties found in Mr. Foss a friend and pusher they needed and they were loud in their praise of the effective and constant efforts he put forth.

Mr. Foss received many congratulatory telegrams today from mercantile firms in Chicago and messages of thanks for his assistance. The Chicago congressman has for three weeks been piloting Mr. Barnhart and Mr. Simmons, the Chicagoans who came here and bore the brunt of the gloves and hosiery battle. His appeal at the White house in their behalf and in behalf of women in general served largely to strengthen the president in the position he took.

"I consider the bill as reported from the conference a response to the popular demand," said Mr. Foss today. "It is going to show a revision downward. The people can thank THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for starting the fight that led to the great victory won on hosiery and gloves."

Cannon Is Dissatisfied.

Speaker Cannon and Senator Lorimer are plainly in the contingent of the disappointed. The latter displays no hesitancy in saying that a far different bill would have been turned out if he had been given the making, and he intimates that by the time the coming era of prosperity is run through and the country is in the next business depression the discovery will be made that "downward revision" was a foolish cry for the Republican party to have construed and heeded.

On being asked for his views on the tariff measure as now arranged, Speaker Cannon said:

"I shall vote to agree to the conference report. Revenue or tariff legislation can only be enacted by compromise. If I were supervising the making of a tariff bill and was clothed with power to do so, I would change this bill in some respects, but as a whole it meets with my approval. I do not care at this time to discuss the items in the bill that I would change.

Sees Benefits in Measure.

"It is substantially a bill in conformity with the policies of the Republican party; that will yield revenue and, as a rule, protect employer and employé. I firmly believe that when it is enacted the country will enter upon an era of remarkable prosperity."

There is no secret made of the fact that Speaker Cannon sympathized with Mr. Littauer most deeply in the latter's effort to make the house rates on gloves stand. Coupled with a belief, heretofore expressed, that special mercantile interests in conjunction with newspapers they favored were dictating a glove schedule to prevent the upbuilding of a new industry in this country was the speaker's solid friendship for Littauer and his desire to show appreciation for assistance the latter gave in March in bringing about the passage of a rule which kept the house organization from going to the Democrats.

Representative William W. Wilson of Chicago leads the other contingent of Illinoisans which stamps the new tariff bill as satisfactory from start to finish. He glories especialy in the outcome of the glove and hosiery struggle. He was one of the members of the house who strongly backed up Mr. Taft in his determination to secure the kind of downward revision which he considered essential.

Results Pleases Cullom.

Senator Cullom today expressed deep satisfaction over the outcome of the conference and called attention to the fact that the bill as it will pass will conform closely to the sort of measure which he outlined in interviews immediately after the senate began work on it.

"I would have liked to see a free lumber clause adopted," said Senator Cullom, "but I expressed myself as being willing to take the house figure. In adopting $1.25 on rough lumber I consider that we came close to doing it. I advocated free hides and the senate rates on gloves and hosiery. The bill gives us practically our wish in regard to all three commodities. I consider that the proper sort of a tariff measure is about ready for final enactment."

Mr. Cullom returned from the bedside of his wife, who is ill at Atlantic City, in time to engage in the strenuous closing hours of the conference committee's work, and he may be credited with having stiffened the opposition to Mr. Littauer's fierce onslaught in regard to gloves.

Struggle Over Print Paper.

Representative Boutell today disclosed enough of the conference committee secrets to make known that the struggle over the print paper duty was lively and lengthy, and that he and a small minority had worked steadily to convert the nine conferees who stood out for the higher duty, only to lose to them in the end.

He pointed to the statement issued by Chairman Payne as proof of his assertion that the tariff had been properly revised downward, and said that he stood by the figures there shown.

Affected by Revision.

"In other words, where changes from the present law have been made the downward revision affects 85 per cent of the total domestic consumption, while the increases on nonluxuries affect only 5 per cent of the total domestic consumption. The ultimate consumer, therefore, should be able to get many articles cheaper or know the reason why."

Mann Explains Opposition.

Congressman Mann, on the other hand, appears to be firm in carrying out his expressed determination to defeat the report because of the duty on paper that Senator Hale was able to dictate.

"I have no statement to make concerning my plans except that I expect to defeat the conference report," said Mr. Mann. "Tomorrow I will make a statement to the house. I will vote against the report myself and I feel confident that I will have enough votes in support of my position to send it back to conference."

Mr. Mann, as chairman of the select committee to investigate the paper industry, made a report to the house in the spring, in which he expressed the view of the committee that a $2 a ton duty on print paper would be sufficient to allow all the manufacturers to make a profit on their output.

Notice Served on Committee.

Before the conference committee arrived at its decision to adopt practically the senate rate on print paper, Mr. Mann served notice that he would go after the scalp of the whole report if the house's wishes were not recognized. Just how much of a contingent he can muster against the report is not known, but it has been suggested that he will have to look most carefully to the attendance of the Democrats if he intends to put a coup through. Undoubtedly some house insurgents will join the movement. Representative Stafford of Wisconsin, a member of the special paper committee, tonight was still debating the course he would take.

Congressman Graff of Illinois also feels aggrieved with Mann about the paper rate, but will not follow the Chicagoan on his campaign against the adoption of the report.

TARIFF IS PLEASING TO TAFT.

President Points to Sections of the Bill That Meet His Approval.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—President Taft expressed himself today as immensely pleased with the tariff bill as it was finally agreed to by the conferees.

The president declared there were many things about the bill that he was delighted to have had a part in and that he would be equally delighted to sign and defend the measure in its finished state.

Without attempting to go into the details of the schedules recently in controversy, the president declared that in a great many ways the new tariff law would be a marked improvement over the Dingley act.

Mr. Taft pointed out as great forward steps the enactment of the Philippines tariff, the corporation tax, the establishment of a customs court, the adoption of the new maximum and minimum provisions, the establishment of a commission to advise the president in the operation of the maximum and minimum clause and on matters generally connected with the tariff.

As to the corporation tax, it is said the president let it be known plainly that while he was much in favor of such a tax, for obvious reasons he was not so wrapped up in it that he was willing to sacrifice real downward revision just to have it adopted as a part of the tariff bill.

While the corporation tax was adopted in the nature of a substitute for the income tax, the president declared that the end attained in submitting to the states the proposition for an amendment to the constitution permitting the enactment of an income tax law was one of the triumphs of the present tariff fight. No constitutional amendment has been submitted to the states since the days of the civil war.

The Philippines tariff has been referred to by the president as his "child." He has been extremely anxious to have it effected and has been working ten years to obtain what has now been accomplished.

MAN WHO ALLEGED BRIBERY IS CONVICTED OF PERJURY.

Detective Found Guilty of False Testimony in Saying Stephenson Man Gave Legislators Money.

Madison, Wis., July 30.—[Special.]—Private Detective Frank T. Wagner of Milwaukee was convicted of perjury today for falsely testifying before the senatorial investigation committee that he saw J. H. Puelicher of Milwaukee, campaign manager for Senator Isaac Stephenson, pay three Democratic members of the state legislature $35,000 to secure the reëlection of Stephenson.

Three Democratic assemblymen absented themselves from the joint legislative session on March 4, the day on which Stephenson received the majority of the votes cast. If the three absentees had been present, and not voted for him, Stephenson would not have received the majority of the votes.

The senatorial investigation committee repudiated Wagner's testimony after inspecting the rooms in a Milwaukee hotel where the alleged bribery took place. Wagner will be sentenced tomorrow.

BLACKMAIL PLOT IS BARED.

Police Reveal Threats Made Against Son-in-Law of a Denver Banker.

Denver, Colo., July 30.—[Special.]—Details of a clumsy plot to blackmail James A. McClurg, son-in-law of David H. Moffatt, the Denver banker and railway man, were revealed today by the police.

Threats of dynamiting the McClurg home, at 906 Grant street, in the fashionable residence section, and of kidnaping Miss Frances McClurg, granddaughter of Moffatt, have been made in the last three weeks.

The disclosure came when the parties to the plot, evidently angered at the failure of threatening letters to accomplish their end, made a demand, through a messenger boy impressed for the purpose, for the immediate delivery of $10,000.

On the advice of the police, the messenger was given a decoy package. Detectives followed, but the blackmailer failed to meet the boy.

The man who directed the messenger wore blue goggles as a disguise.

BUSINESS QUARREL BACK OF CHARGE OF BUNKO SWINDLE.

Attorney for W. E. Niles Says Trouble with Ex-Gov. Lee Grew Out of Railroad Deal.

That W. E. Niles, 4839 Calumet avenue, did not "bunko" ex-Gov. Lee of South Dakota out of $55,000 was asserted yesterday by Weymouth D. Kirkland, attorney for Niles. Mr. Kirkland said the arrest of Niles on the charge of operating a confidence game was the result of a legal quarrel.

"The whole squabble," said Mr. Kirkland, "is the result of a signature which Niles put to what he and the notary thought to be a trust deed, but which in reality was a document deeding Niles' share in a railroad to Lee. The road is a twenty mile interurban line in Michigan. Niles invested $5,000 and Lee chipped in, at various times, a total of $16,000. Dissension arose and Niles suggested that he turn his share of the road over to Lee by a trust deed.

"About a month ago Niles had a prospective purchaser of the road and notified Lee, who wired him 'Do not sell my railroad.' Niles then discovered he had deeded the road entirely to Lee. "He subsequently obtained an injunction against the sale of the road."

PAYNE ANALYZES TARIFF MEASURE

Leader Undertakes to Show Marked Decreases on the Necessaries of Life.

BILL GOES TO THE HOUSE

Conference Report Ordered Printed in Record and Debate Is Postponed.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Entering upon the last stages of its consideration by congress, the tariff bill as reported by the conferees was submitted today to the house by Chairman Payne and ordered printed in the congressional record. Discussion of the conference report will begin at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Mr. Payne passed up to the speaker's desk the bulky document which had occupied the attention of congress for four and a half months, and then the Republicans broke out into loud applause.

Proceeding on the theory that the bill marks a general downward tendency from the present rates of duty, Mr. Payne presented but did not read an exhaustive analysis of its provisions.

This statement, he said, had been prepared by himself and he asked to have it printed as an official document. There was objection, however, from the Democratic side, and the printing was prevented for the time.

Payne Analyzes Report.

In his statement Mr. Payne undertook to show that there had been a marked decrease in the rates on the necessaries of life, while admitting there had been an increase on some of the luxuries:

Mr. Payne's detailed analysis was preceded by a general summary in which he undertook to show the extent of revenue increases and decreases according to schedules. According to this showing the total increases were on consumption value of importations of $852,512,525 and the total decreases on consumption values amounting to $4,978,122,124.

In this preliminary statement Mr. Payne said that he had caused to be made an investigation based on the census returns of 1905, showing the domestic consumption of articles upon which duties have been raised and also the articles upon which duties have been lowered by the bill as finally reported from the conference committee. This had been done because comparisons have been made based upon the amount of importations, he said.

Explains Action of Conferees.

"Duties," he said, "have been lowered where they were too high under the present law, sometimes prohibitive in character, and for that reason the importations were comparatively small. On the other hand they have been raised in some instances where the tariff was insufficient for protection and the importations were great."

He then gave the following table, which shows the consumption value of articles on which rates of duty have been increased and decreased in all cases where the amount of production could be ascertained:

	Duty decreased.	Duty increased.
Chemicals	$ 433,099,846	$ 11,105,820
Earthenware	128,423,732	....
Metals	1,248,200,169	11,482,255
Lumber	566,870,950	31,280,372
Sugar	300,965,953	....
Tobacco	No change.
Agricultural products	483,430,637	4,880,043
Wines and liquors	....	462,001,856
Cotton	....	41,622,024
Flax, hemp, jute	22,127,145	804,445
Wool	No change.
Silk	7,947,566	106,742,646
Paper and pulp	67,628,055	81,486,466
Sundries	1,719,428,069	101,656,598
Totals	$4,978,122,124	$852,512,525

Luxuries in the List.

Of the above increases the following are luxuries, according to Mr. Payne, being articles strictly of voluntary use:

Chemicals, including perfumeries, etc.	$ 11,105,820
Wines and liquors	462,001,856
Silks	106,742,646
Totals	$579,850,322

This leaves a balance of increases not on articles of luxury of $272,662,203.

Mr. Payne gave assurance that "in preparing this table the experts had used all of the available information from the census office and other sources.

"But all of these," he said, "are not sufficient to present the total consumption of either class of articles. If the total amount of consumption were available the contrast between the amount of goods on which duties were lowered and those increased would be still more striking."

Schedules Taken in Order.

Taking up the schedules in their order, he gave, first, the increases and then the decreases. The figures in all cases were comparisons with the Dingley law. In schedule A, relating to chemicals, he gave the increases as follows:

Liquid anhydrous ammonia, from 25 per cent ad valorem to 5 cents a pound.

Manufactures of collodion, increased 5 per cent.

Coca leaves, increased 5 cents a pound.

Fancy soaps, increased from 15 cents a pound to 50 percentum ad valorem.

The list of decreases in this schedule was much longer, the principal items being as follows:

Boracic acid, from 5 to 2 cents a pound.

Chromic acid and lactic acid, from 3 to 2 cents a pound.

Salicylic acid, from 10 to 7 cents a pound.

Tannic acid, or tannin, from 50 to 35 cents a pound.

Sulphate of ammonia, from 3-10 cent a pound to free list.

Borax Decreases Three Cents.

Borax, from 5 to 2 cents a pound.

Borate of lime and other borate material from 4 to 2 cents a pound.

Chloroform, from 20 to 10 cents a pound.

Copperas, from ⅛ cent to 15-100 of 1 cent a pound.

Iodoform, from $1 to 75 cents a pound.

Licorice, from 4½ to 2½ cents a pound.

Cotton seed oil and croton oil, from the dutiable to the free list.

Flaxseed, linseed, and poppy seed oil, from 25 to 15 cents a gallon.

Peppermint oil, from 50 to 25 cents a gallon.

Ocher and ochery earths, sienna and sienna earths, and umber and umber earths if ground in oil or water, from 1⅛ to 1 cent a pound.

Varnishes, from 35 per cent to 25 per cent ad valorem.

Methylated and spirit varnishes, from $1.32 a gallon and 35 per cent ad valorem to 35 cents a gallon and 35 per cent ad valorem.

Cut in Lead Products.

White lead, acetate of lead, and a number of other lead products, from ⅛ to ¼ cent a pound.

Bichromate and chromate of potash, from 3 to 2¼ cents a pound.

Chlorate of potash, from 2½ to 2 cents a pound.

Crystal carbonate of soda, from 3-10 to ¼ cent a pound; chlorate of soda, from 2 to 1½ cents a pound.

Hydrate of or caustic soda, from ¾ to ½ cent a pound; nitrate of soda, from 2½ to 2 cents a pound.

Sulphate of soda, or salt cake, or niter cake, from $1.25 to $1 a ton.

Strychnia or strychnine, from 30 to 15 cents an ounce.

Sulphur, refined or sublimated, or flowers of, from $8 to $6 a ton.

Earthenware and Glassware.

In earthenware and glassware there is but one increase, according to Mr. Payne's figures. This is slight and is made on the smaller sizes of plate glass. The decreases on this schedule include:

Fire brick, glazed, enameled, and so forth, from 45 per cent to 35 per cent ad valorem; brick, other than fire brick, if glazed, from 45 per cent to 35 per cent ad valorem

Plaster rock or gypsum, crude, from 50 to 35 cents a ton; if ground or calcined, from $2.25 to $1.25.

Unpolished, cylinder, crown, and common window glass, smaller glass, and cheaper values, reduced ⅛ cent a pound.

Onyx in block, from $1.50 a cubic foot to 65 cents.

Marble, sawed or dressed, over two inches in thickness, from $1.10 to $1 a cubic foot, with other reductions on the entire marble paragraph and on other stone.

There is a general reduction in mica to 30 per cent ad valorem. There was before a mixed specific and ad valorem system.

Structural steel, fitted for use, falls in the basket clause at 45 per cent ad valorem.

There also is an increase on razors, and upon nippers and pliers.

Lithographic Plates Increased.

Lithographic plates are increased from 25 to 50 per cent ad valorem.

Chrome metal, ferrosilicon, tungsten, and other new metals used in the manufacture of steels are made dutiable at not more than 15 per cent ad valorem. Tungsten ore is made dutiable at 10 per cent.

The duty on watches was readjusted, remaining at about the same as the Dingley law.

A duty of 1 cent a pound was put on the zinc in the ore where it contains more than 20 per cent of zinc. On zinc with less than 20 per cent there is a lower rate of duty. Zinc now has a duty of 20 per cent.

There was an added duty of ½ cent a pound upon plain bottle caps, and on decorated bottle caps the duty was increased from 45 to 55 per cent.

The reductions in the metal schedule are more numerous and generally more marked than in most of the others. Heading the list is iron ore, which was decreased from 40 to 15 cents a ton. Pig iron, iron kentledge, and spiegeleisen were lowered from $4 to $2.50 a ton.

Scrap iron and steel from $4 to $1 a ton.

Reductions were made on bar iron, round iron, slabs and blooms, structural steel not fabricated, anchors, iron and steel forgings, hoop, band, or scroll iron or steel, steel bands or strips.

Reduction on Cotton Ties.

The reduction on cotton ties is from 5-10 to 3-10 cent a pound and railway bars and steel rails from 7-20 of 1 cent a pound to 7-40. Iron or steel sheets also were reduced and the duty on charcoal iron is made $6 a ton instead of $12.

Other reductions in the metal schedule affect polished sheets, rolled sheets of iron, steel, copper, or nickel; steel ingots, cogged ingots, blooms, and slabs; round iron or steel wire; steel bars or rods, cold rolled, cold drawn, or cold hammered, or polished; anvils; axles; blacksmiths' hammers and sledges, track tools, wedges, and crowbars; bolts; cast iron pipes; cast hollow ware; chains; welded or jointed iron or steel boiler tubes; cut nails and spikes; horseshoe nails; wire nails; spikes, nuts, and washers; cut tacks; steel plates engraved; rivets; cross cut saws, mill saws, circular saws, pit and drag saws, steel band saws, and all other saws; screws; wheels for railway purposes; aluminum; monazite sand and thorite.

Tin Plates Are Reduced.

Tin plates are reduced from 1½ to 1 2-10 cents a pound.

Duties on table and carving knives reduced and the minimum limit of the rates on these knives is made 40 per cent ad valorem, instead of 45. Material reductions are made in the rates on files and the duty on cash registers, jute manufacturing machinery, typesetting machines, machine tools, printing presses, sewing machines, typewriters, and all steam engines, is reduced to 30 per cent ad valorem from the existing rate of 45 per cent.

Until Jan. 1, 1912, embroidery and certain lacemaking machines and machines used for the manufacture of linen cloth, and tar and oil spreading machines used in the construction of roads, are to be admitted free.

In the Lumber Schedule.

In the lumber schedule the only increases were those on shingles from 30 cents to 50 cents a thousand and on briar wood and laurel wood for the use of pipemakers from the free list to 15 per cent ad valorem. The rate on sawed lumber was decreased from $2 a thousand to $1.25 a thousand. There also was a diminution on timber from 1 cent a cubic foot to ½ cent, and on sawed boards of white wood and kindred woods from $1 a thousand to 50 cents a thousand.

The reduction in the differential rates in favor of dressed lumber averaged about one-third of the Dingley rate. Paving posts, railroad ties, and telephone poles are reduced from 20 to 10 per cent ad valorem; clapboards from $1.50 a thousand to $1.25; laths from 25 cents to 20 cents a thousand; while fence posts and kindling wood were taken from the dutiable list and placed on the free list.

The only change in the sugar schedule consisted of a reduction of five hundredths of a cent in the differential on refined sugar.

Agricultural Products.

In agricultural products broom corn was taken from the free list and made dutiable at $3 a ton. Hops are increased from 12 to 16 cents a pound. There also are increases on lemons, figs, almonds, pineapples, and chicory root.

The reductions in the agricultural schedule covered bacon and hams from 5 to 4 cents a pound, lard from 2 to 1½ cents, fresh meats from 2 to 1½ cents, and starch from 1½ to 1 cent a pound.

Tallow, wool grease, dextrin, peas, sugar beets, cabbages, and salt were also lowered.

The wine and liquor schedule was increased throughout to 15 per cent over the Dingley rates.

The cotton schedule was reconstructed and readjusted to bring the duties up to those collected during the first four years of the operation of the Dingley law and to the rates then collected under that law.

Since that time the rates have been lowered, in some cases from 60 to 6 per cent, by court decisions. These new rates, Mr. Payne explained, are equivalent to an addition on the whole of 3 per cent ad valorem increase over that collected under the present law for last year.

Increase on Cotton Hosiery.

Cotton hosiery, valued at not more than $1 a dozen, is increased from 50 to 70 cents a dozen pairs; more than $1 and less than $1.50 a dozen pairs, from 60 cents to 85 cents a dozen pairs; more than $1.50 and not more than $2, from 70 cents to 90 cents a dozen pairs.

The remaining rates on stockings are the same as under the previous law.

Hemp is increased from $20 to $22.50 a ton and hackle hemp from $40 to $45 a ton.

The cheaper laces remain as in the present law, but there is an increase from 60 to 70 per cent on some of the higher priced laces.

In this schedule single coarse yarns are reduced from 7 cents to 6 cents per pound, and gill nettings from 25 to 20 per cent ad valorem.

There was a general reduction in carpets and mats.

A reduction from 20 cents to 15 cents is made in hydraulic hose.

Oilcloth, including linoleum, was reduced about one-third.

Readjustment in Wool Schedule.

There was practically no change in the wool schedule from the rates of the Dingley law, but there was a readjustment between tops and yarns, and a small decrease on cloths with a cotton warp.

Mechanically ground wood pulp was exempted from duty and placed on the free list with a provision for a countervailing duty against Canada. The lower grade of printing paper was reduced from $6 to $3.75 a ton and the higher grade from $8 to $3.75. There is an increase on surface coated paper and lithographic prints, including postcards and cigar labels.

Bituminous coal goes down from 67 cents to 45 cents a ton, and there are reductions on gunpowder, matches, and cartridges. Agricultural implements are cut from 20 to 15 per cent ad valorem.

Hides were placed on the free list, while the rate on hand and sole leather is reduced from 20 per cent to 5 per cent ad valorem, on dressed leather from 20 per cent to 10 per cent, boots and shoes from 25 per cent to 10 per cent.

Fireworks are increased from 20 per cent ad valorem to 12 cents a pound; wearing apparel made of fur, from 35 to 50 per cent, and the higher class jewelry from 60 per cent to 85 per cent ad valorem.

Pencil lead is given specific rates, instead of ad valorem rates, with a slight increase.

For the first time, moving picture films are named specifically in a tariff law. The bill gives them a positive rate of 1½ cents a foot.

Petroleum, crude and refined, including kerosene, gasoline, naphtha, benzine, and similar petroleum products, are made free of duty, and are left even without a countervailing duty.

The Dingley rates on women's and children's gloves are allowed to stand. The only change is a reduction on "schmaschen" gloves not over fourteen inches in length, on which the rate is made $1.25 a dozen pairs, instead of $1.75.

Administrative Features.

Practically all the administrative features of the bill which were adopted in the senate were accepted by the conferees. They include a new maximum and minimum feature, a corporation tax law instead of the inheritance tax adopted by the house, authorization for a bond issue to raise money to build the Panama canal, as well as numerous other features.

The maximum and minimum provision prescribes duties in accordance with the rates named in the dutiable list until March 31, 1910, when 25 per cent ad valorem is to be added automatically as the maximum duty. The president is authorized to apply the minimum rates, however, to imports from a country which gives its best rates to the products of the United States, and is made the judge as to whether a foreign country accords to the United States treatment which is reciprocal and equivalent. When he finds that this condition exists he is to issue a proclamation putting in effect the minimum rates, and until the time of the proclamation the maximum rates will apply.

President to Employ Experts.

The president is empowered to employ such persons as may be required to secure information to assist the president in the discharge of the duties imposed upon him and information which will be useful to the officers of the government in the administration of the customs laws. The reciprocity treaty with Cuba is not affected by the maximum and minimum provision.

The president is empowered also to abrogate those reciprocity treaties which can be terminated by diplomatic action. It is made his duty to give ten days' notice after the bill becomes a law of his intention to bring those treaties to an end. All other treaties which contain no stipulation in regard to their termination by diplomatic action shall be abrogated by a notice of six months from the president to those countries, the notice dating from April 30, 1909, on which date Secretary Knox notified foreign governments that the United States would soon ask them to enter into new tariff relations.

Philippines Trade Provision.

The Philippine free trade provision, which was considerably elaborated by the senate, provides for the free importation of all articles "the growth, or product of, or manufactured in the Philippine islands from material the growth or product of the Philippine islands or the United States, or both, or which do not contain foreign materials to the value of more than 20 per cent of their total value."

Rice is the only exception to the free provisions, but restrictions are placed upon sugar and tobacco. The free importation of sugar is limited to 300,000 tons a year. On wrapper and filler tobacco, when mixed, the annual limitation is 300,000 pounds; on filler tobacco, 1,000,000 pounds, and on cigars, 150,000,000.

A provision is included in the bill which levies on all articles upon which any foreign country pays a bounty or grant upon its exportation, an additional duty equal to the amount of such bounty.

It is required that all imported articles capable of being marked without impairment of their value shall be stamped with the name of the manufacturer and the country of its origin.

An elaborate provision for the administration of the customs laws was adopted by the conferees. It is practically the same as that adopted by the senate. It is intended to prevent undervaluation of articles on which there is no foreign market by which true values may be ascertained.

Provision for Customs Court.

Provision is made for the establishment of a customs court of appeals, with headquarters in Washington. It will comprise a presiding judge and four associate judges at salaries of $10,000 a year. There are to be appointed to conduct government cases before this court a special assistant attorney general at $10,000, a deputy assistant attorney general at $7,500, and four attorneys at $5,000 each.

The internal revenue tax on tobacco is amended, making the rates on chewing and smoking tobacco 8 cents a pound. No change was made in the tax on cigars except those weighing under three pounds a thousand, which were increased from 54 to 75 cents a thousand. The rates on cigarets were increased to $1.25 a thousand. A prohibition against the use of coupons or special gift pledges is incorporated in the new law.

The provision granting farmers the free sale of leaf tobacco places a restriction on the retail dealer which requires him to record every sale amounting to two pounds or more to one person in one day. A number of other ironclad requirements are included in the redraft of this section adopted by the conference committee by which it was intended to prevent any frauds upon the internal revenues and at the same time give as much of a local market as possible to the tobacco grower. The grower had contended for unrestricted sale of amounts up to ten pounds.

Foreign Built Yachts Taxed.

Foreign built yachts are subjected to an excise tax of $7 per gross ton, which is to be collected annually on the first day of September. In lieu of the excise tax the owner of a foreign built yacht or pleasure boat may pay a duty of 35 per cent ad valorem on his yacht. This will entitle him to American registry. The excise tax provision was adopted because of the fact that some question had been raised about the ability of the government to enforce collection of import duties.

Every corporation, joint stock company, or association organized for profit, and every insurance company is required to pay annually an excise tax of 1 per cent upon its entire net income over and above $5,000. This feature was put into the bill to raise additional revenues to apply on the treasury deficit.

The section was prepared by Attorney General Wickersham, assisted by other able lawyers in the administrative circle, and great care was taken to guard against double taxation. It provides a form of publicity which will enable the government to exercise supervision over corporations. The forms of returns which must be made by corporations and other features of the corporation tax law were made public in detail during its consideration in the senate. It is estimated that from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 a year will be collected under this new form of federal taxation.

Panama Canal Bond Issue.

The secretary of the treasury is authorized to issue Panama canal bonds to the amount of $290,569,000, which sum, together with that already expended, equals the estimated cost of the Panama canal. It is not intended that the bonds shall be issued except as needed to provide money to carry on the work of canal construction. The bonds are to be payable fifty years from the date of issue and will bear interest at a rate not exceeding 3 per cent.

When the bonds are sold the secretary of the treasury will restore to the working balance the $50,000,000 paid originally for the canal property and the canal zone.

The reënactment of the provision authorizing the issuance of treasury certificates for money borrowed to meet public expenditures increases the amount of the authorization from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000. A large number of other provisions that are in force under the existing tariff law are included in the conference bill, with a few changes in phraseology in several cases.

The drawback provision of the Dingley law is incorporated in the conference bill in lieu of the drawback of the house bill which intended to permit the substitution of domestic material in the manufactured article for export to the same quantity that the imported material upon which a drawback was obtainable was used in the manufacture of similar articles for domestic consumption.

An additional provision was adopted entitling users of domestic alcohol in the manufacture of perfumery and cosmetics to secure a drawback of internal revenue tax to the amount of alcohol used in an exported article.

MAN HURLS BABIES INTO AIR.

Heat Victim in Lynn, Mass., Juggles Four Infants in Park.

Lynn, Mass., July 30.—[Special.]—Crazed by the terrific heat today Joseph Casault caused a panic among mothers and nursemaids on the common by grasping their babies and hurling the screaming little ones high in the air.

Casault would catch every baby as it came down and then run to another one. He kept this up until he was overpowered and sat upon by several men.

Casault is 27 years old and lives at 140 Alley street. Just before noon he strolled to the common, where scores of women and babies were in the elm tree shade.

Many of the mothers and maids were sitting on the grass with their babies toddling about them. The man ran to the nearest baby, a boy of 2 years, seized the little fellow in front of the startled mother and tossed him high in the air.

Casault was just catching the fourth baby victim on the downward trip when three men grasped him. He was locked up.

First Shock at 4 A. M.

According to the observatory records, the first shock of the series was felt at 4:15 this morning, the rocking oscillatory being from the east to the southwest. It was severe, causing the bells of the many cathedrals of the city to toll, breaking crockery and in some instances leveling walls.

The inhabitants had hardly recovered from the fright occasioned by the phenomena when a second and more severe shock caused an outpouring of nearly all to the streets and open plazas. This movement was of a tripodory and oscillatory character and lasted with marked severity for one minute and thirty seconds. Tall buildings swayed and in some instances cracked, the pavement opened in places and in the poorer sections of the city a number of houses collapsed.

So far as can be learned from police records, six persons lost their lives in Mexico City and its environs as a result of this second shock.

American Colony Escapes.

The large American colony escaped. There were some slight contusions reported among them from falling plaster, but no serious injuries were reported. They, with almost the entire population, remained in the plazas or squres until the light of day.

The property damage in this city is slight. Some of the cathedral walls were cracked and scores of adobe walls were sent to the ground, but the main business part of the capital showed no signs of the severe shaking which it had been given.

All electric currents in the city were shut off during the first shock and the city remained in darkness save for the flashes of lightning which interspersed the shocks.

Indians Wail and Pray.

The waiting and praying of the Indians in the public squares, added to the weirdness of the scene, and painted an unforgettable picture on the minds of the half clad, shivering hordes of frightened men, women, and children, who stood out in the drizzling rain, waiting for the coming of daylight. When the sune shone the people returned to their homes, having sufficiently recovered from the fright to sit down to breakfast.

They had hardly begun this meal when a third shock sent them again scurrying to the streets.

Early this evening a reply to a message directed to the American consul at Acapulco was received here. That official declared that the shocks are still continuing, though with lessened intensity. Three bodies have been taken from the ruins. The churches, customs houses, and all of the hotels in the place were rendered uninhabitable, while not a house in the city escaped damage of a more or less serious character. All of the buildings along the water front were leveled.

A telegram from Iguala, state of Guerrero, tonight says the whole region is still trembling with frequent and often severe shocks. The earthquakes have been continous for nearly fourteen hours.

ing had been heard. Nobody could understand the position.

Soldiers Refuse Police Aid.

"It appears that only the civil guards and police were trying to stamp out the rebellion. Many of them had been killed or wounded. Not a soldier has been hurt.

"The dispatch adds: "It is ridiculous to say this was a Carlist movement. At this moment the sky is illuminated with flames rapidly devouring some of the oldest and most famous churches in Barcelona, not to mention several of the largest convents, one noted Jesuit college, and one well known nunnery. Dozens of priests and nuns were ruthlessly slaughtered, some at the altar holding the crucifix in their hands and others while bravely defending the institutions against the revolutionists and the devouring flames.

"Red Cross ambulances are prevented by the mob from entering, and those helpless from wounds were burned to death. Last night women and boys, and even girls, were helping the incendiaries set fire to a convent as if it were a matter of daily occurrence, amid cheers of everybody standing by. When the nuns appeared at the windows they were stoned. Not one soul helped them or took pity on them. They were left to meet their fate. From the height of Mont Juich nothing but flames was seen. The whole of Barcelona seemed to be on fire."

Display Bodies of Victims.

At 7 p. m., July 28, the same correspondent, writing on board a steamer, said:

"The town continues to be isolated. Scarcely any one is on the streets except the troops, police, and civil guards. Desultory firing is heard in the distance. The convents and churches still are smoking, and many houses in their vicinity have been destroyed. The killed already number over 120 and the wounded over 300. Yet the killed and wounded continue to be unearthed from the ruins. The members of the Red Cross keep passing along the streets conveying the victims to the hospitals.

"The captain general, escorted by troops, passed along the streets this morning and ordered every one to close their doors on pain of being fired at. On my way here I witnessed one of the grimmest spectacles that could catch the human eye. A band of revolutionaries, about 10,000 strong, marched about the streets with the charred bodies of some of their victims. They had the bodies, legs, and heads on long poles.

March Before Captain General.

"With numerous 'vivas' and the whistling of the 'Marseillaise,' we gave not only the police, the civil guards, and the soldiers samples of their carnage but actually passed under the nose of the captain general, who then was at the head of his troops, and no one dared to fire on the revolutionists.

"The truth is that the movement is undoubtedly revolutionary. It has been organized and directed by persons of influence who have not appeared up to the present, and as to whose identity discretion counsels silence. It certainly appears that this revolutionary outbreak being sprung at a time when, owing to the campaign in Morocco, Barcelona had been denuded of troops, the captain general was not strong enough to take decisive action. More troops are expected, but it is difficult to understand how they are going to arrive or what is going to happen to the unhappy city."

It was following the sending of the dispatch and the clamping down of the censorship that the greater slaughter occurred.

SHIP SHELLS HEIGHTS.

MELILLA, July 30.—The Moors have withdrawn from the outskirts of this city. It is believed they are concentrating for a new effort. The Spanish cruiser Numancia is now shelling the heights of Mount Guruga, which is swarming with Moors.

It is reported here that the natives in the region surrounding Ceuta are preparing to join their fighting brethren on the heights before Melilla. A holy war is being preached from Ceuta to Moulmuga and the whole country is aflame with fanaticism. The position of the Moors on Mount Guruga, where 30,000 warriors are concentrated, is considered to be impregnable.

Exact figures of the dead and wounded since the heavy fighting began are refused.

CARLISTS GATHER AT HENDAYE.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, July 30.—Spanish deserters continue to flee across the frontier by hundreds. More than 3,000 crossed during the last four days. A majority of the men are without money and are awaiting funds from home to take them to America.

A number of suspicious Spaniards are concentrating here and holding secret conferences. They are believed to be Carlists who are waiting their leader, Don Jaime, to cross the frontier from France.

ITCHED A YEAR: CURED IN A WEEK

Hands Cracked Open, Bled, Burned and Ached—Could Not Sleep nor Even Dress Himself—Professional Treatment Failed to Help Him.

MAN OF 70 OWES SKIN COMFORT TO CUTICURA

"I am a man seventy years old. My hands were very sore and cracked open on the insides for over a year with large sores. They would crack open and bleed, itch, burn and ache so that I could not sleep and could do but little work. They were so bad that I could not dress myself in the morning. They would bleed and the blood dropped on the floor. I called on two doctors, but they did me no good. I could get nothing to do me any good till I got the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. About a year ago my daughter got a cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and in one week from the time I began to use them my hands were all healed up and they have not been a mite sore since. I would not be without the Cuticura Remedies.

"They also cured a bad sore on the hand of one of my neighbor's children, and they think very highly of the Cuticura Remedies. John W. Hasty, So. Effingham, N. H., Mar. 5 and Apr. 11, '09."

For Baby's Skin

The purest, sweetest and most economical method of preserving, purifying and beautifying baby's delicate skin, scalp and hair is the constant use of Cuticura Soap, assisted, when necessary, by gentle applications of Cuticura Ointment. For rashes, itchings, inflammations and chafings of infants, children and adults, as well as for shaving, shampooing, sanative, antiseptic cleansing and all purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery Cuticura Soap and Ointment are unrivaled.

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Cuticura Ointment (50c.) and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), (or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60) are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 135 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass. 32-page Cuticura Book, mailed free, giving description and treatment of a hundred skin affections.

FROST PROPERTY BRINGS $163,000

Wisconsin Man Buys 33 Parcels in Lake County and 11 in Cook at Auction.

FACTORY LAND BOUGHT.

Another Lot on Federal Street Changes Hands, No. 94 Selling for $40,000.

Real estate formerly belonging to Albert C. Frost, who promoted the Chicago and Milwaukee Electric railway and was in charge of the property until it went into the hands of a receiver, was sold yesterday at the Chicago Real Estate board auction rooms by a master in chancery to George Rockwell, a Wisconsin capitalist, for $163,000. Mr. Rockwell formerly was a resident of Milwaukee, but now lives in one of the smaller cities in that state and brought the action against Mr. Frost to secure the payment of loans upon the property.

The list of property includes thirty-three parcels in Lake county and eleven in Cook county. The property is at various points along the route of the railroad and the greater part of it is vacant.

The sale of a little strip on Blue Island avenue attracted much attention for the reason that, while it was a small transaction, there are few deals in property in that thoroughfare, which is known as one of the liveliest in the southwestern part of the city. Andrew Schnidler sold to Edward Hawley the property at 46 and 48 Blue Island avenue, 50x120 feet, for $12,000.

Manufacturing Site Sold.

An interesting sale of manufacturing property in the northwestern part of the city has been closed, title having been consolidated in Joseph R. McGlashan, who in turn conveyed to the State Bank of Chicago to hold and manage in behalf of the real purchaser.

The tract includes seven holdings at the southwest corner of Clybourn and Wabansia avenues, 515x129 feet, running through to Marcy street, a depth of 129 feet, and having a frontage on the latter street of 506 feet. The price paid was $42,647. It is stated that it is the intention to build a large factory and warehouse on this property, to be occupied by a big concern now being organized.

The movement in property in Clark and Federal streets, near Polk street, is gaining force. Another strip of land in Federal street has just been sold, J. J. Curran having purchased from Mrs. Jennie Philippe the property at 94 for $40,000. The land fronts 25 feet and has a depth of 10 feet. It is improved with a two story building. The board of review valued the property at $31,985, of which $3,500 is in the building. It will be recalled that yesterday Robert J. Gunning secured a lease on the adjacent property at 92 Federal street at a valuation of about $25,000.

Extend Clark Street Loan.

Another interesting loan on valuable Clark street property was closed, Eleanor Andrews, William A. Andrews, Elenna B. Andrews, Helen A. Mowry, and Louis C. Mowry, heirs of the late Joseph H. Andrews, securing from the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company an extension of loan of $50,000 on the property at 192 and 194 South Clark street, 40x90 feet, for five years, with interest at 4 per cent. The original loan of $110,000 was made in May, 1902, the difference having been paid off in the meantime. The board of review valued the property at $237,450, of which $10,000 is in the building.

The apartment house property, 50x292 feet, on the north side of St. James' place, 125 feet west of Lake View avenue, extending back to Deming place, on which it has a frontage of 50 feet, has been sold by Charles H. Rathmann to Angela Patelle for $27,000. The building is a double four story and basement structure, with a frontage on both streets. The purchase was made for investment.

Acquires Residence Corner.

The residence property at the southeast corner of Wellington street and Mildred avenue, north frontage, 109¼x125 feet, has been sold by Mrs. Laura R. Jaffray to Justus Chancellor, the consideration not having been given out, other property being taken in part payment. The property is subject to an incumbrance of $10,000.

The three story residence and ground at 4624 Greenwood avenue has been sold by Mrs. Minnie W. Schoyer to Mrs. Cora Moss Norwood for $12,250. The property is an attractive two story and basement structure and is taken subject to an incumbrance of $6,000.

The handsome three story apartment house on the east side of Eastwood avenue, 50x124 feet, 173 feet east of Sheridan road, has been purchased by John Zulewsky from Andrew Swanson for $31,000, subject to an incumbrance of $14,000. The building contains six apartments, all rented.

Mrs. Helen Snyder has given to Frederick H. Rawson, trustee, a trust deed to the southeast corner of Leland and Hazel avenues, 64x124 feet, to secure a loan of $30,000 for five years with interest at 5 per cent.

Pays $8,000 for Two Corners.

The southwest corner of Prairie avenue and Seventy-first street, 99x159 feet, and the southeast corner of Indiana avenue and Seventy-first street, 99x159 feet, have been sold by Henry R. Lee to Charles F. Caldwell for $8,000.

The residence property, 33x150 feet, on the east side of Winthrop avenue, 66 feet north of Balmoral avenue, has been sold by Herman T. Anderson to Mrs. Kate Tagney for $15,500, subject to an incumbrance of $7,500. Mrs. Tagney gave in part payment the residence and ground, 23x93 feet, north front, on Windsor avenue, 319 feet west of Hazel avenue, for $8,000.

"Tom" Chamales has quitclaimed to Charles Greve, manager of the Lehmann estate, the residence and ground at 3530 Prairie avenue, 25x124 feet, for the nominal consideration of $5.

TARIFF ACTION AIDS BUSINESS

Money in Demand for Moving Crops and for August Dividend Payments.

STEEL MILLS KEPT BUSY.

Earnings of Chicago Steam Railroads Continue to Show Gains.

In its weekly review of Chicago trade Dun's Review, published by R. G. Dun & Co., will say in today's issue:

"Business conditions assume more strength and the final action upon tariff revision imparts buoyancy to various important branches. The latter is reflected by further accumulation of new demands and increasing use of money. The discount rate is firmly sustained at the recent advance. August payments of interest and dividends will involve heavy settlements at the banks, making a substantial drain upon funds, which are already notably drawn upon by the interior for crop moving purposes.

"Security markets are seen to be advancing, but the wek's records for the first time in a long period show a simultaneous decline in values of primary breadstuffs and provisions. Growing crops are exceptionally favored, and larger movements appear in grain, factory outputs, general merchandise, and mine and forest products. Official returns testify to heavy movements of commodities by the lakes, and earnings of the Chicago steam roads show substantial gains. Additional evidence of more extended activity appears in the leading industries.

South Chicago Mills Busy.

"All the mills at South Chicago, except one under repair, are running full, while preparations are made for larger use of equipment and labor in transportation. Contracts come forward freely in iron and steel, cars, power, structural materials, lumber, and leather. Prices of the raw materials maintain firmness, although receipts to some extent run well over those of a year ago. The electric trades now obtain considerable forward work, thus encouraging freer buying of supplies.

"Furniture making shows steady recovery. July sales equaled expectation and assure steady operations for the season. Shipments of lumber to outside points increase. Local demand is strong and values average better for both pine and hardwoods, the latter being in wider request for factory conversion. Hides are yet firm at the recent high level of cost. There is satisfactory absorption of tanned product for the shoe shops, belting, and novelties.

"Building operations remain steady, causing sustained demand for planing mill outputs and sanitary supplies. Retail trade here is benefited by the high temperatures, and many visiting buyers attend the wholesale markets, increasing bookings being made for textiles, clothing, footwear, house needs, and food products.

Local Movement of Grain.

"The total movement of grain at this port, 7,842,438 bushels, compares with 5,673,301 bushels last week and 6,972,425 bushels a year ago. Compared with 1908 receipts increased 38.1 per cent and shipments decreased 15.7 per cent. Flour receipts were 127,595 barrels, against 106,158 barrels last week and 149,802 barrels a year ago, while shipments were 121,110 barrels, against 94,542 barrels last week and 142,887 barrels in 1908. Receipts of live stock were 217,634 head, against 240,828 head last week and 229,847 head a year ago. Wool receipts, 9,049,223 pounds, compared with 8,207,442 pounds last week and 8,216,330 pounds in 1908. Receipts of hides were 3,080,927 pounds, against 1,974,570 pounds last week and 2,786,136 pounds last year. Lumber receipts, 51,886,000 feet, compare with 49,668,000 feet last week and 47,464,000 feet in 1908.

"Compared with the closings a week ago, cash prices are lower in corn, ½ cent a bushel; oats, 1½ cents; wheat, 5½ cents; choice cattle, 15 cents a hundredweight; flour, 27½ cents a barrel; sheep, 35 cents a hundredweight; hogs and ribs, each 45 cents; lard, 52½ cents a tierce; and pork, 75 cents a barrel.

"Bank clearings, $255,330,310, exceed those of the corresponding week in 1908 by 27.5 per cent and compare with $226,063,383 in 1907.

"Failures reported in the Chicago district number 29, against 37 last week, 22 in 1908, and 30 in 1907. Those with liabilities over $5,000 number 4, against 10 last week, 5 in 1908, and 8 in 1907."

Progress in Many Lines.

New York, July 30.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade tomorrow will say:

"Crop reports are favorable, especially for corn and spring wheat, with winter wheat nearly harvested. Progess on the new tariff is marked and indications point to its early enactment into law. The excellent conditions in the iron and steel trade, emphasized this week by the report of the principal producer and an increase in its rate of dividend, are maintained. The dry goods trade is broadening. Reports from the principal trade centers are uniformly encouraging, in spite of the fact that this is midsummer, and merchants are still anxious for the final word concerning the crops and the tariff.

"An advance in staple prints has served to stimulate trading from the retailers in the dry goods markets. Buyers in the markets come largely from the central and southwestern sections, and, while purchases from jobbing houses are conservative, they frequently state that further business would come from them on various lines after their return home. Cotton yarns hold fairly firm, but trading is limited. There is considerable activity in men's wear for spring on fancy and semi-fancy lines recently opened. The shoe trade is not active, but some improvement continues and fair orders are placed by wholesalers."

More Buyers in Evidence.

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"More buyers are in evidence in leading markets and fall jobbing trade shows signs of getting under headway, but the vacation season, the imminence of the tariff bill settlement, and the rapidity of recent price advances breeds conservatism in many wholesale lines, pending clearer views of final crop outturn. The prevailing uncertainty as to cotton prices, however, coupled with the high level of other commodity prices, introduces an element of unsettlement which finds reflection in checking forward operations in cottons and some other lines.

"There is a trifle less industrial unrest in evidence than a week ago. Car building concerns report large orders placed by railroads. There is more doing in the shoe trade east and west, but advices are that high prices of leather and hides tend to restrict trading in those lines.

"Business failures in the United States for the week ending with July 29 were 223, against 239 last week, 275 in the like week of 1908, 142 in 1907, 170 in 1906, and 178 in 1905."

Bank Clearings of the Week.

Bradstreet's bank clearings report for the week ending July 29 shows an aggregate of $2,754,301,000, as against $3,017,267,000 last week, and $2,304,722,000 in the corresponding week last year. The following is a list of the cities:

SEE ONLY A LIMITED EFFECT TO SCALPING LAW DECISION.

Railroad Men Say Judge McSurely's Ruling That Statute Is Void Has Small Effect.

Railroad men refused to be disconcerted yesterday by Judge McSurely's decision, in which he declared the Illinois anti-scalping law unconstitutional and dismissed an indictment against Harry Schwartz on a charge of purchasing and selling the return portion of a railroad pass. Sitting in the Criminal court, Judge McSurely said on Thursday that it was no more unlawful to sell a railroad ticket than any other form of personal property.

Bertrand Walker of the legal department of the New York Central lines said that the decision would have little effect except in cases brought before Judge McSurely.

"Of course, the Supreme court decision makes the law," he said, "but this defendant having been placed in jeopardy once cannot be prosecuted further for the same offense. Probably the whole meaning of the finding is that whenever a ticket scalper comes before Judge McSurely he will get off. Of course, it is wholly a matter of chance as to what docket the next case would be placed upon."

James W. Callahan was appointed general manager of the Illinois Tunnel company, operating the Chicago freight subway, to succeed W. J. C. Kenyon, who resigned several days ago. Mr. Callahan's appointment takes effect tomorrow.

The fortnightly report of the American Railway association shows the largest decrease in the number of idle freight cars which has been reported this year, which indicates a marked improvement in railroad traffic conditions. The decrease for the two weeks was 16,873, leaving a total of 243,354 idle cars on the date of the report, July 29.

FILM SHIPPERS IN PROTEST.

Chicago Moving Picture Concern Leads Movement for Lower Express Rates.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Moving picture films are becoming enormously expensive to ship by express, according to allegations made today to the interstate commerce commission.

In a complaint filed by the Kleine Optical company of Chicago and other moving picture concerns against practically all of the express companies in the country it is alleged that recent regulations of the companies compel the shippers to pack the films in heavy metal cases, inclosed in wooden boxes, bearing red paper labels, at least three inches square, describing the contents.

That the moving picture business is extensive is indicated by the assertion of the complainants that the additional requirements of the express companies will cost them $10,000 a week in addition to the express charges they heretofore have paid.

They urge the commission to declare the demands of the companies excessive and unreasonable and to fix a just and reasonable charge for the express service.

OAK PARK'S TREES IN PERIL.

Forester Reports Many Are Dying, So Fine Arts Society May Take Action.

Oak Park is in danger of losing its shade trees. E. D. Philbrick, a forester, has made a careful examination of the village trees and declared yesterday they are dying faster than they are growing.

The Fine Arts society of Oak Park has been appealed to, and President Charles E. White Jr. says an attack probably will be made on the insects that are ruining the trees.

The village trustees will be asked to consider the proposition of creating the office of village forester at its next meeting to look after the shade trees of the village.

THAW IS SCARED BY JUDGE'S GRILL

Inference of Ego Regarding Course with Attorneys Makes Prisoner Stare.

THREE POINTS AT ISSUE.

Court's Addition to Jerome's Fire Gives White's Slayer a Trying Day.

White Plains, N. Y., July 30.—[Special.]—When Justice Mills took Harry K. Thaw in hand for about twenty minutes and interrogated him upon three points at issue in the present test of his sanity he touched the Matteawan prisoner on the raw.

Plainly he stated that he would have to be convinced on those three points before he could believe that the man seeking freedom through the court was now of sound mind.

Those were hard moments for Thaw—all the harder because the items in the testimony the justice had selected as demanding direct explanation by the witness were just those upon which Jerome had been banging through two hard days of examination. They were the points, too, over which Thaw found it hardest to find his way through ready explanation.

So absolute was the command of the justice that full explanation of these mooted points should be made by Thaw, unaided as he must be by counsel, and so rigid the restriction on the witness' tendency to discursiveness, that to all it was apparent that in his answers Thaw was making his freedom or building higher the barrier that keeps him in Matteawan, a lunatic.

Questions as to Writings.

Justice Mills' interrogation was preceded by some significant questions put by Jerome; in fact, some of the queries the justice made seemed to have been prompted directly by Thaw's failure to combat damaging evidence of mental weakness adduced in Jerome's questioning. These questions were upon evidences of irrational and meaningless writings that had been found in a discarded tablet left behind him in his cell at the Tombs and they touched Thaw's characteristic attitude of impatience with his lawyers in a way that seemed to show his exaggerated ego.

A compendium of the prisoner's reflections upon the incompetency of all the lawyers who were associated with his case in the first murder trial was among the fugitive notes that confronted Thaw on the stand this morning.

Despite his promise of the night before that he would have only one or two more questions to put to the witness, Jerome had occupied nearly all of the morning's session in popping rapid fire questions at Thaw when Justice Mills himself began to interrogate him. Thaw was not feeling any fresher for his encounter with Jerome when the presiding judge asked him to turn about in his chair and answer a question from the bench.

Queries on White's Habits.

"Now, Mr. Thaw," he began, "did you thoroughly believe that what you told Dr. Evans as to your own belief in the practices of Stanford White and your belief on the subject at that time were honest?"

"Absolutely honest," replied Thaw.

"Then you say you understood Dr. Evans was given to understand from outside sources that your beliefs were unfounded?"

"In my opinion, absolutely."

"And you held this opinion at the time of your trial for murder?"

"Not altogether."

"Well, then in part, at least."

Thaw said at the present time he didn't hold exactly his former opinion in regard to the practices of the man he slew. He had discovered that he had been mistaken in some things and had learned other facts.

"But in substance," queried the justice, "you believe that Stanford White and his associates were conducting these practices?"

"I never thought of his associates," Thaw replied, with a touch of nervousness in his manner, "but I still think so in regard to him."

Watching for Thaw's Evidence.

"I have been watching all along here to get at the evidence," Justice Mills continued, "you say you had in regard to the practices of Stanford White. Not that it is my province or wish to pass upon his guilt or innocence here. Had you any more evidence at that time than the statements of the various young women about White—that they had lost their virtue through him?"

"I had more evidence; the fact that Comstock——"

"But Mr. Comstock told you, did he not, that without corroboration these statements would not be useful as legal proof?"

"No, sir; Comstock told me he had certain positive proof of these alleged practices, which left no doubt whatever of their employment. Comstock was an expert of experts on this subject."

"Didn't he say he didn't press your case because you had only the statements from these women and because he could get no corroboration of them? Didn't he explain to you the reason the information you gave could not be used in a criminal action was that there must be corroboration of the statements of such women?"

Thaw replied that Comstock had told him that he could not get such witnesses quickly enough, nor could he get them sequestered.

"Do you think the statement of an abandoned woman, giving the story of her original fall from virtue was to be trusted?"

Regarding His Rhetorical Aid.

"By no means," Thaw answered quickly. The justice asked him how long he had entertained these suspicions against White, and Thaw answered that it had been since 1903. Then came questions on another topic.

"The next question I want to ask of you is about the reason for the preparation by you of rhetorical aids for your leading counsel, Mr. Delmas. Now these papers [Thaw's notes about St. George, David, and the rest] and your comments upon them all indicate to me that you wanted it brought out that in killing White you had done a praiseworthy thing to be compared with the cases of St. George and the dragon and David and Goliath?"

"I objected particularly to the allusion to David," Thaw hastily interjected. "I simply gave those suggestions to Delmas because I thought it would help in the preparation of his case."

"But how did it happen that all these comments were in the same line?" the justice wanted to know, "in line as justifying the deed and speaking of yourself as like these heroes of old?"

"No, there was little of that in them," Thaw hurriedly answered. "They were not all like that. I knew what Delmas would wish to try to say before the jury, and I didn't know to what length he would go. I knew he would wish to show the jury these facts."

"You mean that with human nature as it goes, this was a fair chance to influence the jury? I don't mean to condemn you for taking every point of advantage, for you were fighting for your life. But this can be the only possible explanation of your memoranda, in my mind."

Took Advantage of Every Chance.

"Exactly. I made these suggestions because I would take advantage of every chance," Thaw replied eagerly.

"But I've been impressed by the reading of these papers that they were statements of your real belief."

"O, by no means." Thaw started to show the justice a citation from the record on that point, but Justice Mills waved him aside. He said that the lawyers for the state probably would argue in this case that Thaw's conduct in the present hearing and in his other actions had demonstrated that he was possessed of an exaggerated ego.

"I have observed that you have constantly interrupted your counsel, offered advice, made demands. I have learned that you dismissed your first attorneys in your trial for murder. This constant change of counsel indicates to my mind a desire for dictation all the time. Now, you have here the assistance of one of the ablest attorneys in the court district. Don't you trust Mr. Morschauser?"

Query Frightens the Prisoner.

"I do absolutely," Thaw said with a frightened stare. "I only endeavored to give him some facts and matter of information that I thought he might not have had and that might be useful."

"Hasn't it been that in this action, as in your two trials for murder, you felt better able to conduct the cases yourself?"

"Surely not. I would be crazy indeed if I thought that."

This completed Justice Mills' examination. He said parenthetically that from nothing he had said should Thaw believe that he already had come to his decision in the case.

Jerome had opened the day by questioning Thaw once more on the subject of his relations with women. He got little from the witness.

Nothing during the whole course of the examination that has been in progress for the last two weeks seemed to have so shaken Thaw as the production by Jerome of that dirty tablet found filled with his random notes in Thaw's Tombs cell. When Jerome handed the tablet full of paper scraps up to the witness with the request that he look them over, read them, and explain their import, Thaw squirmed with anxiety.

"But you don't want me to read all of this stuff?" said he. "These are but fugitive notes that I wrote in preparation of a report I meant to deliver to Mr. Peabody when he took charge of my case in the Criminal court."

Jerome Insists Notes Be Read.

Jerome was implacable. He wanted Thaw to read those notes and to explain each one of them. In the light of what Justice Mills said later in the morning about the effect that had been produced on his mind by the seemingly meaningless writings of the relator and his constant attempt to dominate, even to criticize, the efforts of his counsel in his past and present actions before a court, this evidence which the district attorney was forcing upon the record was of a nature that might easily draw rebellious protest from Thaw.

He picked up a page of disconnected, almost unintelligible memoranda, which bore the identifying mark "H" on the top. Jerome may have made the easy guess that "H" stood for Hartridge, Thaw's one-time counsel, who has appeared in the present action as a source of valuable information for the district attorney. If he did so guess he said nothing about it.

"Drunk at lunch with father and brother," read the first note on the page.

"Drunk at commission [evidently the commission in lunacy of the first Thaw trial]; Harry can pay nothing, as M has not money; all comes from Mrs. Thaw."

"All three together."

Thaw Flushes as He Reads.

Thaw as he read these passages cast his eye farther down the page and flushed. He balked and would have given up the reading but his counsel did not see how he could come to his assistance and Justice Mills commanded him to continue the reading, unless he wished to claim privilege on the ground that there were confidential communications from client to counsel. Thaw was not sure he wanted to claim that privilege. He continued:

"What will Mrs. W. think of this? No dif. She couldn't understand. Before E. and McK."

"If Harry was half as crazy as Mrs. T. he would have been in Matteawan long ago."

"To E.: You can catch more flies with molasses than with vinegar and the old woman has money. (Also to reporters, saying Mrs. W. T. and you ought to jolly her along)."

At this point in the reading Thaw looked down to where his mother, Mrs. William Thaw, was sitting and grinned nervously.

"And Alice and also Margaret, all right enough, and Joe slick and H. said he tried to hold Joe up, but Joe would hedge around so from any interview. With Joe one could not tell which; that Joe was mighty slick, as H. knows all about his acts; but he always kept quiet about it."

Josiah Thaw, Harry Thaw's brother, was sitting in the courtroom today, as he had done every day since the beginning of the hearing. Alice, the countess of Yarmouth, sat next to him.

Says They Were Catch Words.

"Only Mr. Peabody and myself could understand these," said the witness in explanation. Justice Mills asked him if they were catch words to fix various thoughts, and Thaw said they were. He then read a tabulation of his legal woes that he believed had assailed him during the course of his trials for murder. Bearing in mind that at various times during his first trial and preceding it Thaw had engaged the services of Delafield, Hartridge, Delmas, Gleason, McPike, and O'Reilly, a key to his criticisms is at hand. His schedule follows:

Lost everything and bad feeling—Delafield and C. Judge charge fault—Del.
My secrecy in commission—Hartridge. Wrong exhibits—all counsel.
Weak cross examination—Del.
Bad hypothetical—Har.
Omissions and summing up—Del.
Bad opening.
Neutralized by Jerome's error. (G.)
Bad end of com.
Neutralized by Jerome's error—(H).
Loss of money and spoiling of witnesses—Har.
Fights among counsel—D. H. and McP.
No reprooof of Jerome's false statements—D. and O'R.

It was commonly guessed around the court that the ubiquitous "D" in Thaw's general arraignment might be the first letter in the name of a prominent lawyer from the Pacific slope.

EVELYN TO SUE IN NEW YORK.

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw told reporters today that she intended to sue Thaw for a divorce at once and in this state.

"I made up my mind in a hurry to sue Harry for a divorce and I shall be just as quick to start the action," she said. "I shall not sue in Nevada. I want the case tried right here in New York. The papers will be served as soon as the White Plains proceedings are over. Then I shall probably go to Europe to stay until the trial."

It is said the evidence given at the White Plains hearing by Susan Merrill will be the basis for Mrs. Thaw's action.

When Thaw was told of this at White Plains he said:

"We denied Susan Merrill's testimony. She is unworthy of belief. We also deny that any such a woman as 'Mrs. Reid' ever existed, as was testified to by the Merrill woman."

RED TAPE CUT FOR INDIANS.

Commissioner Takes Prompt Action to Relieve 1,200 Cloudburst Sufferers in Wisconsin.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—Brushing aside governmental red tape in the interest of suffering humanity, Commissioner of Indian Affairs Valentine today took quick and decisive steps to relieve more than 1,200 Indians in Wisconsin who were left without shelter and food as the result of the recent series of cloudbursts in that state.

Realizing that the situation demanded immediate action and without any specific appropriation for that purpose, although confident that his action would be upheld, Mr. Valentine, acting upon the reports from Superintendent Campbell of the La Pointe Indian agency, telegraphed the latter to take every possible means to relieve the destitute Indians.

The Bad River Indian reservation suffered most from the cloudbursts. The Indian village of Odanah, situated on the banks of a river, also suffered heavily.

Harry Pratt Judson, president of the University of Chicago, returned to Chicago at 10:30 last night from his visit to Seattle and vacation trip in the Canadian Rockies. He refused to discuss the controversy between Prof. George B. Foster and the Rev. Johnston Myers beyond declaring it was at an end, so far as he was concerned.

BRAIN POISE LOST OVER THAW CASE

New York Man Becomes Mentally Unbalanced and Is Taken to Hospital.

CRANE TALKS OF CHINA.

Chicagoan Named as Minister Sees Great Industrial Future in Empire.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, July 30.

Mind Unbalanced by Thaw Case.

His mind unbalanced by reading accounts of the fight Harry Thaw is making to get out of Matteawan insane asylum, Edward Cordin, a bookkeeper, 37 years old, who lives at 467 Grand street, Williamsburg, was taken today to the observation ward of Kings county hospital after he had wrecked his home and frightened tenants of the house. Cordin's wife and two children are in the country, as it is feared he would kill them. According to Cordin's friends, he followed closely the troubles of Thaw. Since the day Thaw killed Stanford White the bookkeeper read accounts of the trials and subsequent committal of Thaw to Matteawan.

Cordin declared to friends that Thaw was "railroaded" and not given a "square deal." When Thaw began his fight to get out of the asylum Cordin followed the court proceedings each day. He became greatly excited and when matters went against Thaw, about two months ago, he acted so queerly it was decided to place a watch over the man. He threatened to kill his wife and children, and Cordin was committed to the observation ward in the Kings county hospital.

Cordin was discharged two weeks ago and started to interest himself again in Thaw's case. He declared Thaw's enemies were trying to keep him in the asylum and became so wild in his talk that his wife took their children and went to the country.

The body of a man who pawned the shirt off his back to get car fare so as to obtain work awaits identification in the morgue. He went to work as a window cleaner and fell from a third story window.

Crane Optimistic on China.

Charles R. Crane of Chicago, the newly appointed minister to China, was in town today and had something to say about the chances for American commercial enterprise in the far east.

"Among the things most generally sold in China," he said, "are American mowing machines and reapers. They have been introduced into North China and Eastern Siberia. Manufacturers have not only established three or four distributing stations in Northern Asia, but one of them is arranging to build a reaper factory in Moscow, which will serve as a means of supply to the Chinese and Siberian trade as well as in Russia proper.

"We shall need strong banking institutions in China," he went on, "and no doubt in due time we shall have them. The recent opening of branches of the International Banking corporation in Peking and Hankow is the beginning of a move in the right direction. With good administrative support and strong financial interests enlisted every banking requirement for the promotion of American interests in China will, without doubt, be forthcoming.

Chicago Woman Loses Diamond Brooch.

Mrs. Goldschmidt, wife of Adolph Goldschmidt, president of the Continental Clothing company of Chicago, who is staying at the Hotel Knickerbocker with her husband and two daughters, is trying to recover a diamond brooch valued at $800. The brooch is in the form of a cluster composed of eleven small diamonds with a large one in the center and one small diamond missing. The stones were set in white enamel. Mrs. Goldschmidt says she tied the brooch in the corner of a handkerchief on Thursday morning. After visiting two stores and calling on friends at the Waldorf she returned to the Knickerbocker, but did not miss the brooch until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

ANSWERS RAP FOR MARRYING AMERICAN GIRL TO CHINAMAN.

Minister Replies to Judge Newcomer and Says Laws of Illinois Sanction Such a Union.

The Rev. Charles A. Kelley, pastor of the Wabash Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, defended himself last night against the rebuke of Judge Newcomer for performing a marriage ceremony uniting a Chinaman and an American woman by citing the scriptures and the laws of Illinois as sanctioning such a union.

Judge Newcomer issued a warning to ministers to investigate before performing such marriage ceremonies when Charles Lew, a Chinese tailor and his wife, Mrs. Mabel Clark Lew, appeared at the Municipal court after they had been arrested at 110 Fourth avenue.

Lew testified that he met his wife in New York. He said they had been married Tuesday by the Rev. Charles A. Kelley.

"I am sorry I cannot do anything for the girl," said the court, "but I cannot even send her to a home. He is 40 and she is only 21 years old. They are discharged."

The Rev. Mr. Kelley when shown Judge Newcomer's statement dictated the following answer:

"Replying to Judge Newcomer's implied criticism as reported in the press of my action in marrying Charlie Lew and Mabel Clark, I will only say they came to me with a license from the state and after careful inquiry I could find no moral impediment to their marriage. They appeared to be excellent young people and should not have been arrested. I do not see that a minister can do otherwise than marry properly authorized parties since the state and scripture declare their marriage to be legal. In Acts we read, 'God that hath made the world and all things therein hath made of one blood all nations of men.'"

FUGITIVE DROPS IN QUIETLY

Tipton Banker Tells of Fishing; Silent on Missing $60,000.

HOLDS RECEPTION AT HOME.

Speedily Gives Bond After Arrest on Charge of Embezzlement.

Tipton, Ind., July 30.—[Special.]—Noah R. Marker, alleged defaulter, came back to town today as quietly as he left a few days ago, and said he'd been a-fishing.

He wouldn't talk concerning the $60,000 currency belonging to the First National bank which was in its vaults last week but is not now. Marker had no hesitancy in telling about the way the fish bite at Louisiana, Mo., but all he would say respecting banking affairs was that this is his birthday, that he is 35; that he had spent just half of those years in the First National, and that it has been lots of hard work.

Marker was arrested soon after his arrival at his home and taken to Muncie before United States Commissioner Ellis. His bond was fixed at $10,000. He returned to Tipton, got bond, and was released. He is to appear before the federal grand jury next November to answer to the charge of embezzling $50,000 of the funds of the First National bank.

Think $60,000 Never Left Town.

Did Marker take the $60,000 away with him, or is the money still in Tipton and ready to be turned over to the bank? This question is being asked, and among the friends of the defaulter the belief is strong that the money never left Tipton.

It came to light during the day that Marker had purchased a tract of land in Texas for which he agreed to pay $80,000, and a part of the purchase price has been paid. There are 10,000 acres in the tract. This purchase was made several months ago.

The return of the alleged defaulter was pleasing to his many friends. As soon as it was learned that he was in town a number of them gathered at his home, where he held a public reception on the porch.

Says He Didn't Run Away.

Marker declares he did not run away and at no time thought to remain away from Tipton. He told his wife when he left her last Saturday that he would possibly be absent a week. Her confidence in him remained unshaken and his return was not a surprise to her.

Like confidence and trust is shown in the former assistant cashier by many residents of Tipton. His sureties are well known men and if he had been the recipient of great honors during his absence the reception he received at his home from friends and neighbors hardly could have been more cordial. In many quarters there are those who already are making excuses for him and many say that when the affair is sifted to the bottom Marker will be found not nearly so bad as he has been painted.

Tells of His Trip.

Marker said he went to Indianapolis last Saturday night and took a train for St. Louis, intending to hunt and fish for a week. When he reached St. Louis he met some men who were going fishing. He asked about a good place and was told that Louisiana, Mo., sixty miles distant, was ideal. He went there, obtained board, and spent the time tramping the hills and fishing.

He learned of the sensation his disappearance caused when the papers from St. Louis arrived at Louisiana on Tuesday. He discussed the articles with the others at the boarding house and no one had suspicion of his identity. He was looked on as a person who came to regain his health, and his name and address were not asked. He had intended to return home tomorrow, but remembered that today was his thirty-fifth birthday, and decided to spend it with his family.

In Good Humor and at Ease.

Marker was in an exceedingly good humor and was wholly at his ease. When casual reference was made to his approaching arrest his countenance did not change. He remarked that it would not be for long, indicating that he knew he could give any bond that might be required.

But he did not lose time in securing counsel. Ten minutes after his arrival he called up a legal firm and engaged it to defed him and instructed to retain Frank E. Gaven of Indianapolis. Gaven came here at once and accompanied Marker and the local attorneys to Muncie.

BLACK HAND AGENT GUILTY OF ATTEMPTED EXTORTION.

Jury Convicts Man Accused by Dr. Peter Cutrera—Clash Between Lawyers Enlivens Last Session.

A blow was delivered at the Black Hand yesterday when a jury in the criminal court found Vincenzo Garcia guilty of an attempt to extort $3,000 from Dr. Peter Cutrera, 204 Milwaukee avenue. It was proved that Garcia wrote a "black hand" letter to the doctor on April 1 threatening bodily injury if he did not comply with his demand for money.

A clash between lawyers caused a mild sensation in court. Attorney Erbstein for the defendant was cross examining Philip Vitellau, a South Water street fruit dealer, who had appeared as a character witness for Dr. Cutrera, when Assistant State's Attorney Day interrupted him to say he had insulted the witness. Erbstein asked Day to meet him downstairs if he thought so, and swore on the witness stand that Attorney Day had called him a name. Judge Scanlan put Attorney Day on the witness stand, who swore he had not.

Judge Scanlan will inquire further into the arguments between the attorneys at 9:30 o'clock today, and a fine for contempt of court may be imposed on one of them.

Dr. Cutrera told the court that he received the "black hand" letter April 2 and met Garcia the next day on the street. Dr. Cutrera made an appointment at his home with Garcia and hid Detective Gabriel Longobardi in an adjoining room.

U. S. TOO RADICAL; SHAW'S WARNING

Former Secretary of Treasury Deplores What He Terms Political Cowardice.

LEADER TOO NEAR PEOPLE

Says Conservatism Is Only Road to Statecraft in Chautauqua Address.

Chautauqua, N. Y., July 30.—[Special.]—Political cowardice is a characteristic of the present era, according to former Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw, who addressed a large audience at Chautauqua assembly today on "Evolution in Matters Political."

Perhaps the most startling of the secretary's statements was the assertion that senators and representatives are at present too close to the people. They ought to be more out of touch with the people than at present. Some of the most agitated and popular reforms were hammered by Mr. Shaw in his aggressive address. Direct primaries were branded as dangerous. Popular election of senators was termed a political heresy. Introduction of the initiative and referendum was declared revolutionary.

In proof of his belief that things are getting entirely too radical in this country Mr. Shaw asserted that if Taft, Roosevelt, and Bryan should die, either Hearst or La Follette would be the next president. One man power in the national government, as evidenced during President Roosevelt's term, was pronounced an unmitigated danger, making it possible for an executive to perpetuate his régime for 50,000 years. In this connection the former secretary called the popular demand for Taft's intervention in the tariff bill revolutionary.

Sees Fault in Public Life.

"The spirit of the times is not friendly to statesmanship," said the former governor of Iowa. "Ask any man who has served a long term in either house of congress, and he will tell you that never in his time was there such a large measure of political cowardice. The fault is of the people. Few men continue long in congress who study measures and vote their mature judgment. The people will not stand for that. We are too busy to study questions ourselves, and we will not concede that those whom we have selected for this particular task are better prepared to judge of the merits than we.

"The safety of the state is dependent in a large measure upon the legislative representatives holding such secure tenures of office that they can vote their convictions. All we now ask of our representatives is that they stay close to the telephone and take instructions from home.

"The direct primary, more especially the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, and most certainly the initiative and referendum, spell revolution from the government as founded by the fathers. If any one of these political heresies had prevailed during the greenback craze of the middle seventies we should have had an unlimited issue of greenbacks.

Centralization Never Equaled.

"If Theodore Roosevelt, William H. Taft, and William Jennings Bryan were each to die, and if the people should nominate candidates in the two great political parties, the nominees would be William Randolph Hearst and Robert M. La Follette. What their platforms might contain even the most imaginative cannot predict.

"The centralization we now witness has never before been equaled in any country on the map, Russia not excepted.

"Pending the passage of the rate bill I said to President Roosevelt that this law, declaring the constitution a failure, and the legislative powers accompanying, should both be lodged in an executive.

"The public congratulations of President Taft's reported intervention in the tariff bill compelling congress to insert measures which would not have passed either house, indicates that the people were filled with delight as they saw one of the landmarks established by the nation's founders swept away.

"Now, for the first time in our history, there is no conservative party in this country; there is no party to challenge any step, however radical. The Democratic party charges the Republican party with timidity. The Independence party accuses both of timidity. Meanwhile the Socialist party discredits all three, and declares that none is radical enough."

BEAT WOMAN STORE DETECTIVE

Two Alleged Shoplifters Turn on Miss Lizzie Futez—Policemen Arrest One of Them.

After Miss Lizzie Futez, a detective in a State street store, had pursued two alleged shoplifters nearly a block yesterday afternoon they turned on her at State and Monroe streets and beat her severely.

One of the women was arrested by City Detectives Manger and Dolan after she had boarded a State street car. Her companion escaped, although Miss Futez chased her more than two blocks.

The woman arrested gave her name as Edna Mason. Two lace waists, a pocketbook, and a silk skirt were found hidden in her clothing, it is said.

After her arrest she said her companion was known to her as Margaret Johnson of Davenport, Ia., whom she met in the Great Northern hotel waiting room only a few hours before. She asserts this woman stole the articles and gave them to her to hide.

The Telephone Way

Any Old Way

The Telephone is so far ahead of any other method of communication that there is really no comparison. Ample telephone facilities mark the successful business concern of today. They know that telephonic communication is a modern business necessity—that personal messenger service, except in certain cases, is too slow and too costly. Hardly a business transaction is made without aid of the telephone. Many depend entirely upon it.

No business is so small that it can profitably dispense with the telephone—it is the open door to more business.

WITHOUT defending anarchy, riot, or the doubtful patriotism of certain Spaniards at home, it may be questioned whether it was worth while to plunge the country into a war which is costing so much blood and money. The entire Spanish possessions in Africa produce an annual deficit of 2,000,000 pesetas, and are of little commercial and no strategic value.

WHERE PROTECTION IS NEEDED.

The city engineer says that with the prevailing southwest winds and the great fire risk in the lumber district and the manufacturing district east of Halsted street "there is considerable danger of a fire originating there sweeping the entire downtown district." The fire marshal gave the same warning last year after a serious fire on the west bank of the south branch. He called attention to what might have happened if the fire had jumped to the south side and got a good start there.

The warning cannot be repeated too often until steps shall have been taken for the protection of Chicago against a conflagration more destructive than that of 1871. Many unfavorable conditions would have to coincide to bring about such a disaster, but while the chances are greatly against such a coincidence the city cannot afford to rest content with the hope that history will not repeat itself.

Now that the bond issuing power of the city has been increased it will be possible to make a beginning within a year in this matter of providing additional protection against fire where protection is most needed. That is the recommendation of the city engineer. It should not be neglected. Incidentally it may be observed that more protection will mean lower insurance rates and a substantial saving to the community.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE TARIFF.

But for the combined tact and firmness of President Taft the tariff bill as it came from the conference committee would have been one the people would have condemned and he could not have signed. Fault has been found with him in some quarters because he did not set in at the beginning of the session to shape tariff legislation. Nothing could have been more tactful than his attitude of aloofness until the critical moment was reached. He did not attempt to prescribe to either house the duties it should impose. All that he did was to let it be understood that the party was pledged to a downward revision and that the pledge should be kept. If he had gone beyond that he would have provoked opposition. He would have weakened his influence. He bided his time. It came when the bill went to the conference committee.

Then the president saw that the time had come to intervene to save the best features of the house and senate bills from the devices of the compromisers. So he let the conferees know that the bill must be made to conform to his ideas as to certain specified items. They offered him a little of what he asked. He stood firm for all. They descanted on the impossibility of getting a bill through which met all his requirements. They could not move him, and they gave up the attempt.

The carping critics may say that he should have insisted on more concessions. It was with difficulty that he bent the conference committee to his will. Every additional demand he might have made would have added enormously to the difficulty of getting the bill through. Some of the reductions he has secured have bitter enemies in the senate. More reductions would have meant more enemies. As it is the vote in the senate next week may be close.

The president has made good his position of the leader of the party. He has done it without flourishing the "big stick." By diplomacy and by firmness at the decisive moment he has obtained a tariff bill which, while not in every particular what he would like to have it, is one to which he can unhesitatingly put his name. For its most acceptable provisions the people may thank President Taft.

SUPERINTENDENT YOUNG.

Mrs. Ella F. Young is widely and favorably known among American educators. Her election to the superintendency of the Chicago public schools comes as a fitting reward to one who has given her life to their advancement. There is no phase of their work with which she is not perfectly acquainted. There has been no development which she has not watched closely, if indeed she has not had a part in it. She has been a teacher since 1862. She was district superintendent for twelve years. For four years she has been principal of the Chicago Normal school. Even the five or six years spent as professor of education in the University of Chicago did not take her far from the field of her life's activities.

The election of a woman to be superintendent of schools in the second largest city in the United States is in violation of precedent. If any man among the candidates had possessed all the qualifications recognized in Mrs. Young her sex might have been against her. The board of education tried faithfully to select the best equipped individual for the important place. The training, experience, and administrative ability of Mrs. Young were strong points in her favor. That they were strong enough to win in spite of sex and in the face of competition of a number of men of exceptional qualifications makes the honor shown her all the more notable.

The choice of a Chicago candidate is gratifying. There is some advantage, at times, in introducing a leader from the outside. But every such choice is distinctly discouraging to the ambitious teacher or principal already in the ranks. The selection of Mrs. Young has a twofold interest. It is a recognition of faithful service in the Chicago schools. It will bring fresh inspiration and encouragement to women teachers all over the United States.

The new superintendent has a great task before her. The wise administration of Chicago's educational plant demands the best that is in any individual. That Mrs. Young's career may be marked by wisdom, harmony, progress, and unquestioned success will be the wish of every citizen as she takes up her responsible work.

THE VALUE OF DISCRETION.

There is a valuable lesson for husbands in the experience of Mr. John Einwick of Newport News, Va. There are times in domestic life, as Mr. Einwick concedes now, when it is not wise to carry one's personal and selfish wishes too far. Hereafter when Mr. Einwick is admonished by Mrs. Einwick and requested to desist from practices which annoy her he will heed the first admonition and will not make it necessary for his wife to go to extremes. There is a helping hint in his story.

He found the phonograph a solace when wearied and oppressed. Seeking this balm he turned loose the sweet strains of numerous records while waiting for his supper. Mrs. Einwick, caring nothing at all for the melody, requested Mr. Einwick to "cut it out." Mr. Einwick did not "cut it out." Mrs. Einwick repeated her request, and Mr. Einwick continued in his selfish obduracy. Thereupon Mrs. Einwick shot Mr. Einwick in the arm. That ought to have been a plain hint to any man that he was disturbing his wife, but how about the tactless Mr. Einwick?

A doctor dresses his wound. Mrs. Einwick continues the preparations for the supper. The happy pair sit down and enjoy a satisfactory meal, and all might have been well had Mr. Einwick been tactful. A man having been shot once might have guessed that phonographic music was not wanted, but this obstinate husband turns the machine on again. Mrs. Einwick went as far as any wife could go to avoid domestic discord. She used diplomacy. She was gracious. She asked Mr. Einwick not to do it. Mr. Einwick would do it. Mrs. Einwick shot him again. She had to do it. This time it was in the leg.

It is hard to have any sympathy for the husband He has put himself in the hospital and his wife in prison. These are the little things which mar the domestic life. Husbands should be more considerate. No man who has been shot once has the slightest right to make it necessary for his wife to shoot him again.

HONDURAS.

Before Americans acquired the banana habit Honduras was nonexistent as far as they were concerned. Now its existence is recognized by them because it has become one of the sources of supply of that fruit. It could be a larger provider and a more extensive consumer of American products if some arrangement could be made by which it could devote itself without interruption to the business of raising bananas. The benevolent American government has in mind such an arrangement.

There are some English money lenders who often think of Honduras not because of its banana growing possibilities, but because it owes them $110,000,000, one-fourth principal and three-fourths arrears of interest. As there are only about half a million Hondurans and most of them are Indians the payment of this debt in full is unthinkable. Its holders ought to welcome the proposed refunding of the debt by American bankers. It would not give them much, but it would give them something.

If the debt were scaled down to a point where Honduras, if free from internal discord and outside interference, could pay the interest, the United States would manage to see that it was paid. This does not mean necessarily that it would control the custom houses as in San Domingo, or that it would establish a protectorate. It certainly would let meddlesome states like Guatemala and Nicaragua understand that they must let Honduras alone—that there must be no more stirring up of strife in the sister republic.

When the attitude of the United States was fully understood more American capital would be invested there for the development of the agricultural and mineral resources of the country. There would be more bananas for Americans to eat and the consumptive capacity of the Hondurans would increase. The United States would practically monopolize the trade of the country. Goods would follow capital.

With Panama enjoying an orderly government at one extremity of Central America and Honduras at the other, the intermediate states would have before them illustrations of the benefits of peace and industry. They could not help being influenced thereby.

THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE.

Without disputing the effectiveness of British methods of administering justice in the courts it is pertinent to say that critics of American procedure are making too much of the Dhinagri trial. This does not minimize the importance of the attempts to secure the prompt dispatch of the business of the courts. It merely reduces an argument to its proper value.

Madon lal Dhinagri, a young Hindoo, killed Sir William Curzon Wyllie and Dr. Lalcala in London July 1. It was unnecessary for him to admit his guilt, but he did, taking credit to himself for his crime and asking that the extreme penalty be inflicted, hoping that the murder and the "martyrdom" would combine to produce the results for which he strove.

It was a political crime, tried in the courts of the country against which the murderer had struck a feeble, impotent blow, and before a jury of Englishmen. In what way is it remarkable that the hearing was finished in an hour? If the scene had been Calcutta, if the murderer had been an Englishman, if the victims had been Hindoos, if the court were English, if the crime had been committed to right a fancied British wrong, and if the trial after an hour's hearing had resulted in conviction, the argument might be valid to illustrate the perfection of British methods.

RODERICK GORDON FAIRBAIRN, who succumbed last week to an overdose of morphine in a jail cell at Bridgeport, Conn., in which he had been placed after his arrest on a charge of drunkenness, was the second heir to the baronetcy of his deaf and dumb uncle, Sir Arthur Henderson Fairbairn, who is the president of the Royal Association in Aid of the Deaf and Dumb and a graduate of Cambridge university. Sir Arthur is childless, and his brother and next heir, Thomas Fairbairn, is the father of the young fellow who has just met with his death at Bridgeport.

The story of the Fairbairns is what may be described as a romance of industry. A little more than 100 years ago a farm laborer at Kelso named Fairbairn was blessed with two sons, William and Peter, who started life as boy employés in the Percy Main colliery, near Newcastle-on-Tyne. It was there that William Fairbairn, the elder brother, made the acquaintance of George Stephenson, the father of railroad transportation, then employed as a brakeman on the colliery tramroad, and the two young men gave each other mutual assistance, and formed a friendship which lasted through life.

While George Stephenson invented the locomotive, William Fairbairn invented rivetting machines, etc., and developed into one of the greatest engineers of his age, among his many creations having been the tubular bridge across the Menai straits. He was one of the founders of the British institution, received a baronetcy in 1869, and died, at the age of 90, in 1874, leaving as heir to his honors a son, Thomas, who followed him to the grave in 1891.

Sir Thomas' son Arthur, the third baronet, is not the only member of his family who is deaf and dumb. For his sister, Miss Constance Fairbairn, is similarly afflicted. In spite of his infirmity, he is a sunny tempered man, is a keen sportsman, passionately fond of hunting and of shooting, and a great collector of paintings and bric-à-brac. Moreover, he has done much to ameliorate the lot of those of his fellow sufferers who are not so bountifully endowed with the goods of this world, and is a most useful, respected, and popular citizen.

About a year ago he presided at a banquet given at the Holborn restaurant in London by English deaf mutes in honor of a delegation of about 100 French sourds-mutes, who had come over to London in a party to visit the French exhibition there. The only sound that broke the silence of the dinner was the clatter of knives, forks, and dishes, although speeches were made, toasts honored, and post-prandial witticisms approved, but all silently in dumb show.

Sir Arthur Fairbairn, beginning the address of welcome after the coffee, rapidly twirled off on his fingers the phrase, "Ladies and gentlemen: Pray, silence for the toast," and the smiles on every face showed that all present enjoyed the joke.

He wound up by proposing the health of the king, which although drunk in silence, was none the less loyally and enthusiastically honored.

Sir Arthur has had many odd experiences. On one occasion he had invited to dinner two men who during his absence had called at his house separately with letters of introduction. When he entered the drawing room, a little late, he found his guests, both of whom were endowed with their full faculties of speech and hearing, endeavoring to communicate with one another by means of the sign language, with which they had the most limited acquaintance, each fondly imagining that the other was the deaf and dumb host. No one enjoyed the joke more heartily than Sir Arthur himself.

I have said that Sir Arthur's grandfather, the first baronet, was the elder of two sons. The younger of these two, Peter by name, likewise achieved distinction, and, having carved out a fortune of his own at Leeds as one of the principal manufacturers of machinery, was knighted as mayor of Leeds in 1858 by Queen Victoria on the occasion of her visit to that city.

His son, the late Sir Andrew Fairbairn, will be remembered by all those American railroad men who have taken part in the great international railroad congresses, in which he usually figured as vice president. He, too, became mayor of Leeds, and was knighted by Queen Victoria, marrying a sister of Admiral Sir Lampton Loraine, who in 1874 received the freedom of the City of New York for staying the executions of the crew of the Virginius at Santiago de Cuba while in command of the British warship Niobe.

Further light is thrown on the career of the poet, Lord Byron, in "The Life of Sir John Cam Hobhouse, Afterwards Lord Broughton," which his daughter, Charlotte, Lady Dorchester, has just published.

Lord Broughton, who was of the same age as Byron, was his greatest friend, his principal confidant, and his adviser in most of his domestic troubles. Hobhouse succeeded to his father's baronetcy in 1831, was raised to the peerage in 1851, and died in 1869, leaving two daughters, Lady Dorchester and Lady Roden, his peerage becoming extinct and his baronetcy passing to his nephew, Sir Charles Hobhouse, now 84 years old.

Lord Broughton had a peppery temper, of which he gave an illustration one day when being entertained at dinner by Thackeray, who put a special bottle of old and fine Madeira on the table. There was one glass left, and Thackeray, patting Lord Broughton on the back, exclaimed:

"There, my dear old boy—you drink that."

"I am not your dear boy, I am not old, and d——n your wine!" was the angry reply.

Lord Broughton was not aristocratic appearing, and happened to bear a great resemblance to one of the doorkeepers at the opera. This led a nouveau riche one evening at Covent Garden after the performance to ask him to call his carriage. Lord Broughton did so, and then exclaimed:

"I have called your carriage. Perhaps you will now call mine. I am Lord Broughton."

This Charlotte. Lady Dorchester, biographer of her father, Lord Broughton, must not be confounded with her cousin, the other Lady Dorchester, who is a peeress in her own right. For, whereas the latter is a daughter of the third Lord Dorchester, the biographer of Lord Broughton is the widow of the fourth Lord Dorchester, who died without issue.

The patronymic of the lords of Dorchester is Carleton, and the barony of Dorchester was first created in 1786, in favor of Gen. Sir Guy Carleton as a reward for his services during the first American war. Indeed, it is, thanks to him, that England remains today in possession of Canada, instead of that vast dominion forming part and parcel of the United States. He was likewise second in command of the British forces which captured Havana in 1762, and his name as Sir Guy Carleton will be found figuring repeatedly in the pages of the war of independence. He was the last English governor of New York, which he evacuated after an interview with Washington.

The Carleton family is one of the oldest in England. In 1665 Sir William Carleton of Carleton hall, near Penrith, in Cumberland, was able to certify his lineal descent in the direct male line eighteen generations in all, from Baldwin de Carleton, who settled at Carleton at the time of the conquest. It is a family which has many American associations. Others of its members besides the first Lord Dorchester were British governors here in colonial times, while several founded families in Maryland, Virginia, and in several of the southern states.

Lady Dorchester has been twice married, her first husband having been Capt. Francis Pigott, who assumed the name of Carleton shortly after his marriage with the permission of the crown. On his death Lady Dorchester married Gen. Richard Leir, who also assumed the name of Carleton.

She has a son by her first marriage, Capt., the Hon. Dudley Carleton, formerly of the Ninth Lancers, who will succeed to her peerage, and who spent last summer in the United States, putting in the entire season at Newport. He was at one time engaged to marry Miss Violet Monckton, only daughter of Lord and Lady Galway, but the match was broken off.

The small game in Jackson park is being rapidly exterminated by the camera squad, and the park commissioners are drawing up a set of game laws. It is high time. DRIVE RESENTS NEW NUMBERS

Addresses Synonymous with Old Families to Disappear.

BREAKS OLD ASSOCIATIONS.

Change Puts Four Figures on Mansions Along Lake Shore.

What is there in a number if that number be no more? Numbers that for a quarter of a century or more have been synonymous with famous names have disappeared or are fast disappearing from the city map, and in their places have come, or are coming unwieldy numerals that mean nothing except a convenience to postmen and delivery boys.

No wonder that residents of Lake Shore drive, where prominent families have been more identified by the numbers of their residences than on any other street in Chicago, are wrought up over the impending change. Who, for instance, does not associate 100 Lake Shore drive with the family of the late Potter Palmer, yet how many years must pass before the Palmer castle will be brought to mind by the number 1362. Just that change has been brought about by the new numbering system of Chicago.

Numbers Recall Families.

If one says 103 Lake Shore drive to any of these people the name of Franklin MacVeagh immediately comes to mind; 109 is associated with S. E. Barrett, 125 with the name McClurg, and 130 still reminds one of the late Orrin W. Potter, although recently that house has been acquired by La Verne W. Noyes.

It is all changed. Beginning with the Gross homestead, at the northwest corner of Division street, the number will be changed to 1200, and so on through the block to Goethe street, where the numbers jump once more into the thirteen hundreds, and again at Schiller street to 1400, and so on up to North avenue.

"But the difficulty is," said one of the residents of the drive, "that the people who live here do not ride on street cars, and it makes no difference to us whether or not other people know what street we live on."

Have Fondness for "No. 23."

While "23" has earned for itself the opprobrium of being a "hoodoo" number, the tenants of the Marshall apartments have acquired a fondness for 23 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. William J. Chalmers, whose name has become identified with the "twenty-three" number, voiced the protest that is raging along the drive.

"I'll have to have all my stationery changed," she said. "Of course, I haven't any sentimental attachment for the number, and I am willing to go to the trouble of having all the changes made if it is for the convenience of others, but it is pretty hard to lose one's identity, as it were."

Mrs. Charles E. Pope, formerly 18 Lake Shore drive, but now up in the thousands, protested even more forcibly.

"Everybody up and down the drive is greatly annoyed," she said.

Predicts Trouble for Friends.

"It doesn't seem to us that there is any sense in it, and our friends out of town never will get our new addresses straightened out.

"Really, I don't see how we shall be able to bear the burden of four numbers after being used to only two. Besides, most of us have lived here many years, and we don't like to see things changed.

"You know how you like to keep your home the same through all of the other changes of life. Well, there is more to it than just having your door plates, visiting cards, stationery, and telephone bookings altered. You have to make a mental alteration that is quite disturbing."

Harold McCormick's number, from being 88 Bellevue place, will become something between 1012 and 1020 Lake Shore drive, and the R. T. Cranes will be changed from 117 to 1482 or 1430, while the Franklin MacVeaghs will jump from 103 to something over 1400.

JUST BE HEALTHY AND HOLY, YOU CAN'T ESCAPE HAPPINESS

Campmeeting Preacher Gives the Recipe—Plans for Great Attendance at the Grounds Today.

To be happy one must be healthy and holy, the Rev. W. J. Hyde told Desplaines campmeeting listeners yesterday.

"Sick people easily get their feelings hurt, so do people who are not holy," he said. "Healthy people have good appetites and are full of energy and these are likewise characteristic of holy people."

"Shouters" received a few pointed cautions from two of the speakers during the day.

"When the preachers say to you, 'shell out,'" said Bishop W. A. Quayle in the morning sermon, "you sometimes fail to get the hallelujah type of happiness."

Dr. Biederwolf asserted, "If professing Christians lived as well as they shouted their influences would be more convincing."

Today's program has been planned in anticipation of an unusually large gathering as the campmeeting will come to a close Monday. The Rev. H. G. Jackson will lead the bible reading at 8:30 o'clock. The Rev. M. E. Cady will preach at 2 o'clock, and Bishop Quayle will preach his final sermon.

'NICE COOL DRINK' SOLD TO BATHERS

Experts Say 'Delightful Soft Summer Beverage' Contains Too Much Alcohol.

POPULAR ON NORTHSHORE

Two Applicants for Fire Captaincies Fail to Appear for Examination.

"If they hadn't called it by another name I should have thought I was getting a nice, cool glass of beer," said Ald. Beilfuss yesterday, speaking of a beverage called "Bevo," which recently has sprung into popular favor at some of the north side bathing beaches. It happens that these bathing beaches are situated in prohibition districts, so, of coure, it would not do to sell real beer.

Corporation Counsel Brundage and the health department combined during the day to dampen the appetites for "Bevo, the delightful soft summer beverage," as it is advertised among the patrons of the north shore bathing beaches. The health department having procured a sample of this "soft" drink, which is advertised to contain less than 1 per cent of alcohol, discovered, it is asserted, at least 2 per cent of alcohol, whereupon the assistant corporation counsel opined that a saloon license must be obtained before it can be sold, and as the beaches are in "dry" territory it begins to look as if the bathers would have to go without their favorite beverage.

"Discovered" at Leland Avenue.

When Ald. Dunne and Beilfuss were investigating the north shore a few days ago, trying to find a vacant place upon which to locate a municipal bathing beach, they found four private enterprises of the sort, all within a stone's throw of Wilson avenue. At the Leland avenue beach, said to be operated by Busch & McBean, "Bevo" was discovered. It is manufactured by a company the name of which has long been associated with the manufacture of beer, but the drink was said to be nonintoxicating.

Lieut. Hutchinson of the Town Hall station had previously investigated this new beverage, which seemed to be having a tremendous vogue, but, according to his statements, the chemist who tested it for him said that there was less than 1 per cent of alcohol in it, therefore he permitted the sale to continue without interference. Nevertheless he was suspicious of a drink that tasted, looked, and foamed like beer, and forwarded a sample to E. J. Magerstadt, city collector, to ascertain whether or not it was a violation of the dramshop act to sell it without a license. After receiving the report of the health department and the opinion of the corporation counsel, Mr. Magerstadt will advise the police that the sale of this beverage must be stopped.

Seek Fire Captaincies.

Out of 105 registered applicants for the civil service examination of lieutenants of the fire department for positions as captains, 103 took the postponed examination yesterday. Who the two are who failed to "show" is not yet known, but when the papers are opened, and the names of those who took the examination are checked off with the register, there may be some important questions propounded to those who failed to "show." The examination was held in place of the one which was called off a few weeks ago, when on the eve of the examination it was discovered that there was a leak somewhere, and the list of questions had gotten out.

"While it may be that the two men who failed to show up for the examination today have good excuses—they may be sick—yet when we find out who they are, we shall want to know positively the reason for their nonappearance," said Elton Lower, president of the civil service commission.

Ten questions were asked, which were intended to test their knowledge concerning the general duties of captains, the ordinances regulating buildings, theaters, and public structures in general.

Object to Steam Calliope.

Steam music has got on the nerves of the people who live within a mile radius of Riverview park, and one man, Emil F. Smrz, has elected to lay his complaint before the mayor. Mr. Smrz, writing on the stationery of J. F. Stepina, lawyer, addressed a letter to B. J. Mullaney, secretary to Mayor Busse, in which he says: "I reside six blocks west of Logan square, but that calliope does not permit one to rest even at that distance from Riverview during the evening hours, and the sounds are so loud that one would imagine it but a few blocks away. I therefore appeal to you, asking that you suppress the use of the calliope."

The complaint was referred to the corporation counsel, who has rendered an opinion to the effect that if the allegations made by Mr. Smrz are correct the calliope is a nuisance that should and can be suppressed.

Will Ask Bids for New Fenders.

B. J. Arnold, chairman of the board of supervising engineers, authorized the Chicago Railways company to obtain bids for supplying 100 new car fenders. These fenders are to be the same style as those used on the New York surface cars, and it is proposed to equip all the street cars in the city with them if they prove satisfactory.

According to an opinion written by Clarence N. Boord, assistant corporation counsel, and concurred in by Corporation Counsel Brundage, the city has no right to demand free telephone service in the Municipal courts so long as the courts remain in the temporary quarters outside of the city hall. According to the opinion of Mr. Boord, that section of the ordinance which relates to the telephone service in the Municipal courts is "not clear, and is open to more than one construction."

WANTS STAGE-STRUCK GIRL TO DO HARD WORK ON FARM.

Mrs. Bertha Nelson Finds Missing Daughter After Three Days' Search and Turns Her Over to Police.

After three days and nights of searching for her 16 year old daughter Jeannette, who had visions of becoming an actress, Mrs. Bertha Nelson of 307 Garfield boulevard found the girl yesterday and turned her over to a policeman. Mrs. Nelson declared that the best cure for stagestruck girls is a month or two of hard work on a farm. Meanwhile the girl is in the Englewood police station.

Jeannette wants to emulate a sister, Helen Long, an actress.

"I know there is a great future before me if I can get on the stage," she told the police. "The trouble is caused because mamma wants me to give up my ambitions.

"I don't see why she wants me to stick in a factory when I can make more and have a great future on the stage. Why, my sister Helen went behind the footlights when she was 17 years old. She is having such an exciting time down in New York."

The girl said she had slept in a rocking chair in a laundry for three nights. She refused to confide even that much when her mother asked her where she had been.

Benefit Bazaar and Flower Show Interests Lake Geneva.

"PINK CRETONNE COTILLON"

Young Married Couples Guests at Oconomowoc Yacht Club.

Lake Geneva will be gay with house parties for the week-end today, the cause being the annual bazaar and flower show given for the Holiday home at the Lake Geneva Country club. The entertainment is an annual affair, and this year new feateures have been added to the old, making an attractive array. More than 1,000 useful and fancy articles have been given for the bazaar and it is expected a good sum will be realized for the home, which annually takes care of many working women and young boys and girls. Mrs. N. C. Sears, Mrs. N. W. Harris, Mrs. H. A. Beidler, Mrs. P. F. Pettibone, Mrs. Byron Boyden, and Miss Florence Bartlett are the officers of the home, with Mrs. J. H. Moore, Mrs. G. G. Parker, Mrs. S. B. Chapin, and Mrs. Sears as the officers of the Midsummer Fair association, and Mrs. Pettibone as the chairman of the bazaar committee. The tables and booths will be in charge of Mrs. L. C. Carton, Mrs. Lucian Cheney, Mrs. H. A. Beidler, Mrs. A. C. Bartlett, Miss Gwendolyn Mitchell, Mrs. Sears, Mrs. Tracy C. Drake, Mrs. Frederick Bartlett, Mrs. Edwin B. Frost, Mrs. C. C. Kohlsaat, Miss Dalton, and Miss Dunham.

Mrs. W. J. Chalmers, who weekly entertains at her Lake Geneva country place, will have a young people's house party of a dozen, among the company to be Miss Phœbe Eckels and John Stevenson. Many other summer residents, too, will have groups of folk for over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fitch and Mr. and Mrs. George Earling gave a cotillon at the Oconomowoc Yacht club last night to twenty-six young married couples, the affair being signalized as a "pink cretonne cotillon." The dance won its name through the choice of pink flowered cretonne novelties as favors—knitting bags, flower baskets, toilet table articles of all kinds for the women; wash cloth holders, laundry bags, pencil and paper pads, and other bits of useful articles for the men. The ballroom for the occasion was decorated in pink sweet peas to carry out the color scheme of the evening. There were no special features of the cotillon as to figures, although the fact that the partners for the various sets had been prearranged by the hosts and hostesses of the evening is a feature worthy emulation by other hostesses—of married crowds. D. C. Owen of Milwaukee was the leader, dancing alone.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitch have been among the summer colony of Oconomowoc who have entertained weekly week-end parties. This week Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harries Simms (Buda Peck) of Dayton, O., former Mayor and Mrs. Sherburne Becker of Milwaukee and Miss Florence Andrews of Milwaukee form their house party for over Sunday.

Mrs. Myron Frederick Pardee, 579 East Division street, announces the engagement of her daughter, Ethel, to James Brackett Beardslee of this city, formerly of Milwaukee. The marriage will take place early in October.

Mrs. Richard I. Stearns, who is passing the summer at the Wentworth, Portsmouth, N. H., gave a luncheon last Thursday for Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour, Miss Mary Augusta Armour, and Lawrence Armour of Kansas City. The Armour party, who have been spending the summer at Magnolia, Mass., are cruising in their yacht Cacique, and will go as far as Bar Harbor before returning for the yacht club races at Newport next month.

Commodore and Mrs. Joseph F. Hass will entertain some 600 guests this evening at the Pistakee Yacht club, Pistakee Bay. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McAnsh, who are at their summer place, "Lochraine," Pistakee Bay, will have as their house guests Mrs. Samuel Harris and Miss Bess Harris of Philadelphia, Miss Lorene Geist, Miss Catherine A. Dwyer, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris of Chicago.

Mrs. Charles D. W. Halsey, formerly Mary Adele Turner, of New York, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Laurin H. Turner, 4915 Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Stewart and Miss Mary Stewart, 128 South Park avenue, Austin, with Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Zeigfeld and family of the same village, have formed a house party at Crystal lake, Wis., to remain until Sept. 1.

Mrs. Louis E. Yager and daughters, the Misses Anna Harrison Yager and Bessie Yager, 400 Forest avenue, Oak Park, are spending a month with Mrs. Yager's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, in Massillon, O. Mr. Yager will join them in two weeks, and they will go to Nantucket and other eastern points for the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. David Kelley, 3159 Michigan avenue, and her friend, Mrs. Jeannette L. Richmond, are spending some time at Straitsmouth Inn, Rockport, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin P. Horton, Mr. and Mrs. George Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Scully, and Edward Ford Johnson are among the Chicagoans who have arrived at the Hotel Wentworth, Portsmouth, N. H.

The women of the Chicago Lawn Congregational church are giving an elaborate lawn fête on the lawns of Messrs. King, Keith, and Turney, Sixty-third place and Lawndale avenue, this evening.

DELAYS SUIT FOR DIVORCE DURING HUSBAND'S ILLNESS.

Mrs. R. H. Southgate Jr. Said by Hotel Man's Attorney to Have Been Devoted Even After Leaving Home.

A story of devotion to her husband through a serious illness, even after she had left his home with the intention of seeking a divorce, was told yesterday by Mrs. R. H. Southgate Jr. by Ralph R. Bradley, attorney for the husband, who is purchasing agent for the congress hotel.

"This much is to be said for Mrs. Southgate, that she refrained from beginning action during her husband's illness of two months," said Mr. Bradley. "Even though she had left him, she appeared daily to see him or to inquire as to his condition before she went to her mother in Topeka a week ago.

"Both husband and wife were in ill health last spring and they went to Kansas. The husband failed to improve, and Mrs. Southgate returned with him to Chicago, though she had already made up her mind to ask for a divorce as soon as he recovered."

REVIEWS OF CURRENT PUBLICATIONS BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

PROF. WILBUR L. CROSS' EXCELLENT BIOGRAPHY OF LAURENCE STERNE.

He Tries to Tell What Manner of Man He Was and Wherein Lay the Secret of His Fame.

It is difficult to believe that an American wrote "THE LIFE AND TIMES OF LAURENCE STERNE" (the Macmillan company). Yet the title page of this unusual biographical achievement bears the name of Wilbur L. Cross, professor of English in the Sheffield Scientific school of Yale university. Mr. Cross has indulged himself, evidently, in an enthusiasm, and being entered upon his task, became possessed of a passion for detail akin to that which obsesses the collector. To ferret out a new friend of the inimitable "Yorick's" and to hold him up to the light, regarding him this way and that, as if he were a piece of antique faience, has been Mr. Cross' pastime. Mr. Cross calls attention to his title, saying by way of prefatory remarks that it should be a sufficient warning to the reader not to expect a series of essays on the different aspects of Sterne's humor, or elaborate comparisons between Sterne and the humorists before and since his time. "Masterly disquisitions of this kind," observes Mr. Cross, "we have already from Bagehot, Traill, and Watts-Dunton, not to mention briefer critical opinions from Thackeray, Coleridge, and Carlyle. My main purpose has been biographical. The questions ever before me have been: What sort of man was Sterne? How did he conduct himself in the days of his obscurity and after he had come to his fame? What did he do and what did he say? What books did he read? What were his pastimes, and what were his pleasures? Who were his friends, and who were his enemies, if he had any? And what did they say or think of him? In a word, wherein lay the secret of the man whose speech and conduct filled the imagination of all who knew him intimately, whether at York, London, or Paris."

All biography partakes, inevitably, more or less of the character of gossip, and one would look far before finding a biography more compacted of the better elements of gossip than this. And to this one must hasten to add a digressive remark that gossip is a word too often used opprobriously. It is sad to note how large a company of well intentioned words rest under aspersion. To gossip is the chief diversion of man and woman; probably the only persons who do not gossip are the inmates of asylums for the feeble minded. Ill-natured gossip, however, is something in which persons of taste do not indulge. But genuine gossip, constituting as it does one of the largest departments of the fascinating art of conversation, is a matter to be conducted with a nice tact and discernment. Mr. Cross, in his prolonged gossip concerning that extraordinary creature, Laurence Sterne, has shown himself to be possessed of that indescribable quality which may be referred to as literary breeding. If he has been inquisitive concerning Sterne, he at least has not been guilty of undue intimacies. His attitude toward the subject of his theme has been respectful and dignified, and the excursive revenant of the humorist, prowling about the book stalls which he so much affected in life, and chancing upon "The Life and Times" of himself, will find nothing there to offend his amour propre.

Laurence Sterne was the grandson of an archbishop of York, and, though he was born to poverty, he was, at least, equipped with traditions and expectations. He was born at Clonmel, Ireland, in 1713, and at the age of 10, being already instructed in the rudiments of learning, he was sent to a grammar school near Halifax, where he might be near his Uncle Richard. Sterne's father and mother lived at the barracks near Dublin, and his vacations were passed at the post. At the period when Sterne should have entered Cambridge his father died and his mother was left with nothing save a small pension, barely sufficient for her personal needs. However, by the generosity of his cousin, a second Richard Sterne, Laurence was able to enter as a sizar at Jesus college. This meant that the badge of poverty was his if he deported himself as his benefactor no doubt expected that he would. But Sterne always was concerned more with the expansion than the economy of means and opportunities, and he borrowed to meet his aspirations and to enable him to go in the company of men who had, financially, the advantage of him.

He was rather a scornful student. The set formulas of the professors could not but divert this sardonic spirit, to whom no term was absolute, and whose speculation, now genial and now acrid, was yet to fascinate the most civilized men and women of the occident. It seems, indeed, to have been an ironic fate which made of him a professional Christian and a curé of souls. Christian he may have been in moods, but at the uttermost he is perhaps best described as an Hellenic Christian. Tradition did not hold his veneration. He was one of those who used his mental power to facilitate his never ending quest for truth. Mr. Cross says: "After all his wanderings in logic and metaphysics he discovered in the great Locke, the sagacious Locke, a writer who really knew what passes in a man's mind, and whose search was ever after truth, not after adroit and dishonest means for defending propositions that every one knows must be false."

After securing his degree it was easy for a man having his name and having his intellect, to progress rapidly. He became the licensed curate of St. Ives, a year later a priest, and soon after vicar of Sutton-on-the Forest. But he lived in York, where there was society to be enjoyed and fortune to be granted. Presently he obtained a prebend in the York cathedral and as such preached in his turn in the beautiful minster. At York he met and married Miss Elizabeth Lumley, a lady with courage, one must infer, and as the record bears witness, with a small fortune which was more than welcome to Sterne. After a time they settled at Sutton, and in himself and his environment Sterne found, no question, the material for "Pastor Yorick." Did he caricature himself? Was he a frank realist when he wrote of Yorick:

"His character was—he loved a jest in his heart. He was mercurial and sublimated a composition—as heteroclite a creature in all his declensions—with as much life and whim and gaîté de cœur about him as the kindliest climate could have engendered and put together. With all this sail, poor Yorick carried not one ounce of ballast; he was utterly unpracticed in the world, and at the age of 26 knew just about as well how to steer his course in it as a romping, unsuspicious girl of 13."

Sterne, however, in a more serious mood, once undertook to account for his own extraordinary personality, and made this formal statement, which, comments Mr. Cross, "almost startles by its truth and relative completeness; for genius, it is supposed, never understands itself, and Sterne had said equivocally elsewhere that he could give a better account of any other man in the world than of himself." Sterne said, then, that he attributed his originality "to one of those delicate organizations in which predominates the sacred informing principle of the soul, that immortal flame which nourishes life and devours it at the same time, and which exalts and varies, in sudden and unexpected ways, all sensations." This creative faculty, said Sterne, "we call imagination or sensibility, according as it expresses itself, under the pen of a writer, in depicting scenes or in portraying the passions."

Perhaps were Sterne here today he might enjoy a disputation as to the sources of originality. G. Lowes Dickinson could assist merrily in this, and he would, no doubt, say to Sterne's face, that however original he might deem himself, that he wrote nothing without some external suggestion. Indeed, he—or even a much less learned man—would have little enough trouble in pointing out the names of the writers who inspired Sterne. There is, first and foremost, Cervantes, and a close second comes Rabelais. Lucian bore his buoyant part; Robert Burton—lurked not far behind. All the Pantagruelists bore their share; he liked the wits of the Restoration; was at home with Voltaire; mellowed under the ministrations of Sir Thomas Browne, and had his moments of chaste enjoyment with Jeremy Taylor. Besides, he knew the Testaments, Old and New, and was master of the sublime biblical phraseology.

When the first volume of "Tristram Shandy" appeared it was Garrick who set the seal of approval upon it. Warburton, bishop of Gloucester, also proved an effective patron. When Sterne went up to London his breath fairly was taken away by the reception given him. At the apex of his adventures there the duke of York conducted him to Windsor castle and the approval of royalty was set upon his wit and excursive learning.

* * *

However, Bohemia was not pleased, and Grub street grew so scurrilous, so harpooned this game leviathan with their arrows of criticism, that he was tempted at one time to turn tail and take to the deep waters of obscurity. Like many a bitter jester, he himself resented it when other persons emptied their poison bags. Your habitual jester desires a free field and all the favors.

Sterne was avid for life. Brave and serene though he was in the face of death, there is no doubt that he suffered poignantly at the fate that took him at the comparatively early age of 55 from his glass of Burgundy, his coteries of friends, his amusing jestful world, and his expansive pagan philosophy. To use the words of Swineburne:

"He ate of life as if t'were fruit," but he could not bring himself to "Drink of death like water." His zest for the yet unexperienced sensations must have failed him there. To laugh no more, no more to twist an epigram to some new meaning, no longer stretch his legs under some hospitable mahogany with gentlemen unafraid of jest or argument, no longer wander in gardens or delve in books—it went hard with this man who felt the fine flavor of each day, and held an occasion up for appreciation with the same elegant connoisseurship that he lifted a pinch of snuff to his handsome nose.

He was odd—very, very odd. The spirit of Harlequin was in him though he was a gentleman. (Thackeray, by the way, affirms that he was nothing of the sort!) To heighten the ridiculousness of a jest, he was willing to perform like an actor, to distort his legs and arms, and emphasize the mirth or sardony of his remarks with all manner of physical contortions. It was his ambition to act as he felt—to realize himself—to express his personality. No doubt he was put to it to keep up with his moods. They must have run ahead of him, crouched in waiting, jumped out at him, tripped him up, frightened him as bogie men frighten little children. No wonder his scruples and his sense of propriety were left far behind in the wild chase!

The trouble really was that Sterne did not have time to show all his sides to the world that admired him. He really wrote "The Sentimental Journey" to leave behind him an impression different from that he had created by writing "Tristram Shandy." He prized his sensibility, Mr. Cross insinuates, more than his humor. It seems likely that his humor, being more demanding, or perhaps more facile, "got its innings" first, and left poor sensibility sitting on the bleachers. "A pagan," says Mr. Cross, "in so far as he had any philosophy, Sterne was endowed with none of the grave virtues or contemptible vices described by the moralists." . . .

And all through the book I have been thinking—and could not shake the thought off—that once we had in Chicago a man who affected the imagination in much the same way—Eugene Field. His mirth is still a fresh memory though he has been dead a decade and a half. He aroused, somehow, into activity, all the somnolent trolls in our natures—wrung the laughter out of us—and flicked at the sentiment even as Sterne did. Many men have lived and died in this new great city of the west, and no one—however good—has passed, whose amiable ghost so often is solicited by those who knew him.

"How Field would have enjoyed that," say his old frends when a rare joke is passed; and the generation who knew him will, as long as they can mumble a jest, think wistfully of him who would have given a new turn to each whimsicality, and converted the meaningless hour into one rich with satire and fantasy.

UNCONSCIOUSLY AMUSING WORK ON PASSING ENGLISH.

Sad Blunders Concerning American Slang Made by the Ingenuous Author.

Among us slang has lost its novelty and has ceased to excite comment. It is generally the result of circumstances, and its aptness has usually been its reason of existence. Among our English cousins, however, though slang, of course, exists, under the name of "heterodox English," it is of a newer growth, and—well, it is not just of the same kind as ours. At any rate, it is not of such a universal character as to be able to dispense with the use of dictionaries, which, as in the case before us, seem to justify the remark that they were made to preserve mistakes and misconceptions and record the lucubrations of dry-as-dust etymologists.

"PASSING ENGLISH OF THE VICTORIAN ERA" (Dutton), a compilation by J. Redding Ware, does not aspire to be considered erudite; it trusts it may be amusing. The latter adjective might be that employed by American readers in particular, as they note such words and phrases as are accredited to them, and the quaint, to say the least, and far fetched explanation given to such, which we here would consider not slang in its true sense, but, perhaps, colloquialisms which have become so common as to have lost their distinctive local color. Will not a smile of surprise be excited by this entry: "All-fired (Amer.). A euphemism for hell-fired, used as a general intensive—e. g.: 'I was in an all-fired rage.'" Or by "Alligators (Amer.). People of Florida, so named from the alligators there; used also because the Floridans are supposed to be as greedy as those reptiles," with its naive comment, "Of course, an invention of some other state or states." "Best eye peeled" is another phrase credited to us, which is defined as "a figure of speech for extreme alacrity."

In these and many other cases which are scattered through the pages the author gives us his authority for the American expression a newspaper clipping. The particular organ is seldom cited, and it is needless to say that no American interpreted the recondite uses of some of the words, and the author had to rely upon his own sense of fitness of things for a meaning to put in print. When he has so often gone astray with such comparatively mild expressions as he includes in his work, we cannot but wonder what compound perplexity of mind would be his were he to pick up one of our daily or weekly sporting sheets, especially those of the college papers, and be curious as to what would be the translation and explanation he would supply to his dignified English constituents.

But even in English words, and not so exclusively English as to be beyond our comprehension, he has sought for the out of the way, the far fetched, rather than the obvious. For instance: "Deuce. Dusius, the erotic god of nightmare, passing into Robin Goodfellow [which is later explained]. Also applied to the four twos of a pack of cards—here from the French 'deux,' playing cards having arrived from Paris, precisely as the three is called 'tray,' from trois."

* * *

Logic is not at a premium with the author, as he adds: "There is no association between dusius and the deuce of clubs, say, or any other card deuce." And then the example cited of the use of the word has no reference at all to what has preceded: "'It's true, I admit, that women have babies, but who the dooce has to keep 'em?'"

Written of the English of England, and of London largely, the interest of the book and its fatuous usefulness will be for English readers. And, of course, it is impossible for us to judge of the appositeness of the words or phrases and definitions given, or their representativeness, but slang in England, heterodox English, as it should be called, must be as spontaneous as it is here, for "a man's a man for a' that," to misapply a quotation, and Mr. Ware's definitions are anything but spontaneous: they evince a total lack of that thing which our English cousins tell us we miscall "a sense of humor" and a general inappreciation of the fitness of things. But as the lack of a sense of humor is always amusing, so the author, as regards his American readers at least, may attain the prime desire he declares he had in writing the compilation—to be amusing.

Laurie Magnus, M. A., in writing "ENGLISH LITERATURE IN THE NINETEENTH CENTURY; An Essay in Criticism" (Putnam), makes this apology for his timeworn theme:

"I have attempted in this volume not so much a history of English literature between 1784 and the present day as a survey of that literature as a whole, and an essay in its criticism. . . . I have neither consciously adopted any opinion at second hand nor criticised any book which I have not read."

His book is dedicated, by permission, to George Meredith.

From George Crabbe down to Bernard Shaw, Mr. Magnus seems to have overlooked no literary light, and his criticism is exhaustive, always scholarly, never stirring or in any way different from the literary criticism to be found in other books.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Returning from a highly successful eastern trip to find a hearty welcome awaiting them from hosts of devout rooters, Chicago's Cubs made a bad start on the long home series yesterday, meeting defeat in the shape of a 5 to 2 score from the tangled Phillies, thereby losing a whole lap in the pennant battle, because Pittsburg kept on climbing.

A lucky bunch of lucky hits with one of the two passes Overall issued enabled the Phillies to gain a lead of two in the first inning. Chance's warriors, just escaped from superheated St. Louis, were unable to overcome this combination, although they would have tied it up. Until near the finish all except Overall himself seemed hypnotized by Earl Moore, whose speed and cross fire held them down to two hits in seven innings.

Overall a Home Run Hitter.

One of that pair of swats was a ferocious smash by Overall, which sailed out over the right field stand until it bumped the score board and bounded back into the inclosure, giving the giant hurler a home run. Orval was not content with that glory, however, but in the fifth tried to duplicate his home run shot and would have done so if he had pulled it into right field. Instead it sailed a couple of blocks over center and Bates raced back and captured it. On his third appearance at bat Overall took another terrific slap at the ball and lined it safely into center for a single, which was turned into the second and last Cub tally.

Overall's eighth inning smash might have led the Cubs to at least a near victory but for a tough break which cost Evers a base hit and resulted in his banishment from the game. John of Troy bounded a slow one along the first base line to Bransfield, who tried to touch him as he passed. Evers ducked under and away from the touch, fell as he was doing it and scrambled along on all fours like a playful bruin until he reached the base. Umpire O'Day called him out, ruling that in getting away from the play Evers went outside the three foot line inside which base runners are supposed to travel the last half of the distance from the plate to first.

Up to His Highness, the Ump.

Probably some one of the six hands, knees, and feet on which Evers completed that journey did touch the ground outside the three foot line, likewise some of the six remained inside that line, for Evers covered a lot of real estate in that scramble. The rule is silent as to whether all of the runner or only parts of him must stay in the base line, leaving the rest to his highness the ump. If Evers could have pulled off that escape from death it is possible the Cubs might have made it mighty interesting, for Sheckard followed with a single which drove home the second run, and there would have been two on and only one out.

Evers kicked so eloquently for the point that he was banished from sight and Zimmerman finished out at second.

Aside from Overall's stick work one circus catch by Magee, the fielder who doesn't know whether he will finish with Philadelphia or New York, and another by Hofman, who hasn't a chance to play anywhere else than Chicago, were the day's brightest spots. Magee's catch robbed Tinker of a home run in the seventh inning, and how he made it perhaps Magee himself doesn't know. The ball started for the clubhouse and Magee after it. The fielder overran the ball, but turned in his flight just in time to see it close to him and also close to the ground. He reached down his bare hand and while at top speed pinched the hit a foot from earth and Sherwood was the only man certain he had it, for Bates kept going toward the fence, looking in vain for the ball.

Hofman Makes Circus Catch.

Hofman's circus performance came off in the ninth and prevented John Titus from accumulating a clean batting average with four safe hits. The liner went low and hard to center, but Artie raced in, stuck his hands under the ball and squeezed it, falling flat in the attempt.

Grant worked Overall for a pass to start the battle. Bates flied to Sheckard and Titus planked the first of his hits into right, driving Grant to third. Magee poked a hot one to Tinker, who was playing close and the ball took a regular Lawford bound, eluding his grasp. Grant scored and Titus went to third. Bransfield pulled a grounder just out of Steinfeldt's reach into left. Titus scored and Magee raced to third, but Kit was thrown out by Sheckard when he tried to reach second on the rap. Overall stopped things by striking out Knabe.

That was all the enemy ought to have had off Overall. A fumble by Evers gave Bates his life with one out in the third. Titus drove him to third with his second single and Magee scored him with a fly to deep right. In the sixth a couple more runs were handed the Phillies by lucky breaks. Knabe led that round with a single. Doolan bunted to Steinfeldt, but Evers, who raced to cover first, muffed the throw. Knabe went all the way to third and Doolan sneaked to first on the slip because Tinker had been drawn over to cover third. Overall tightened and let Dooin down with a foul, then struck out Moore. Grant bounded a high one to Chance, who failed to pinch the ball over his head and two runs raced across the plate before he could recover. Grant tried to reach third on Chance's peg to the plate, but Archer relayed it to Tinker ahead of him.

Moore Hard to Hit.

The Cubs did not get a hit off Moore until two were out in the third inning. Then Overall tramped to the pan and soaked out his home run, probably the longest rap of the season until he beat it with another to center in the fifth. That swat was good for the only tally the Cubs could get until the eighth when Overall single with one out. Evers then lost a close decision on his rap to Bransfield, which put Overall on second. Sheckard punched a single to center, scoring Overall, and the round ended with Schulte's grounder.

Chance tried to lead a rally by beating out a grounder to Knabe in the ninth. He stole second just as Steinfeldt struck out. Hofman laid down a bunt and was thrown out by Dooin. Tinker scratched a little hit to Moore and stole second. Howard, batting for Archer, popped the game over. Score:

NOTES OF THE CUBS.

Philadelphia again today.

Doolan made a swell catch of Steinfeldt's foul fly at the start of the Cubs' seventh.

The world's pennant hung at half mast out of respect to the dead president of the league.

Evers lost a base hit by a narrow margin in the first inning, when he almost beat out a hit to Knabe.

Evers started the sixth with a walk. Sheckard popped to Doolan and Moore struck out Schulte and Chance.

Fifty-four more victories will win that fourth straight flag and the Cubs have sixty-eight games left in which to win them.

Each pitcher struck out five batsmen and Overall issued two passes to Moore's three, but Big Jeff put it all over his opponent with the stick.

One ball had been pitched to Archer in the ninth before Manager Chance, who was on third base, could wigwag to the bench his desire to have Howard bat for Jimmy in that pinch.

If Knabe had been awake he could have scored from third in the sixth when Archer had to throw to first to retire Moore on strikes. It cut no figure, as Knabe and Doolan too scored later.

Mayor Brown of Monmouth was among the interested spectators and particularly so as the Monmouth team of the Illinois-Missouri league has the promise of an exhibition game with the world's champions on Aug. 16 if postponements do not prevent.

Doolan dropped a Texas leaguer back of second in the eighth, when it looked as if Schulte or Hofman might have taken the ball, but it cost nothing, for Mike tried to make second on his luck and Evers grabbed the ball in time to throw him out easily.

Schulte led in the fourth with a clean one to left, the second hit off Moore. Chance worked Earl for a pass, and it looked jolly good. But Steinfeldt hit to Bransfield, who forced Chance at second, and Hofman's sharp grounder to Doolan resulted in a double play that snuffed out the rally.

CHANCE-GRIFFITH CONFAB STILL REMAINS A MYSTERY.

Baseball Trades Between Cubs and Reds Are Denied by Manager Chance—O'Brien's Visit Is Puzzling.

The nature of the deal which Managers Chance and Griffith tried to pull off during their secret confabs in St. Louis was shrouded more deeply in mystery yesterday by the positive denial of the world's champion leader that his conference with Griffith had anything to do with Kling and by the emphatic reiteration by President Murphy of the Cubs: "Kling will not be sold and will not be traded."

Chance is undoubtedly seeking to strengthen his pitching staff, which has been weakened by the sickness of Jack Pfiester and Rip Hagerman, depriving him of a left hander and a right hander. It is natural to suppose Pitcher Bob Spade, who is reported to be not altogether satisfied with his return to the Reds under compulsion, is sought by Chance. If such a trade is on and does not involve Kling, it is perfectly legitimate for the Cub officials to decline to disclose the nature of the deal, unless it is consummated.

There was reported a mysterious conference between President Murphy and a representative of John Kling, but the matters discussed or the results arrived at could not even be conjectured.

A pleasant lack of mystery attended the visit of President O'Brien of the American association to the Cub magnate. Mr. O'Brien had been repeatedly mentioned as a possible successor to the presidency of the National league in case of the late Harry Pulliam's resignation or death, and the tragic event which has produced a vacancy in the leadership of the old organization gives rise to the natural impression that President O'Brien is being sounded as to his willingness to accept the position. Both magnates declined to discuss this matter, however, and with excellent taste. Mr. O'Brien said he had his hands more than full just now with the gruelling race in the American association, and Mr. Murphy declared:

"I had too high a regard for Harry Pulliam to be discussing his successor so soon after his death. The visit of Mr. O'Brien had nothing to do with the vacancy in the presidency of our league."

Manager Murray, who declined to be ousted from his position by an outsider who would put Mike Donlin in charge of the team, handled the reins yesterday from the bench, as usual, and did not appear disturbed by the situation. Both he and Secretary Shettsline declined to discuss the tangle or to guess at its outcome.

Cincinnati, O., July 30.—A wild throw by Ewing in the seventh inning allowed two Brooklyn runners to come home, tying the score. Tiger's Recruit a "Phenom."

Memphis, Tenn., July 30.—[Special.]—Frank Allen, the college pitcher secured by Detroit for a fall tryout, struck out eighteen men and twirled a hitless, runless game today against a local independent league team. Only one runner reached first on a pass, but Allen caught him napping.

NOTES OF THE WHITE SOX.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—Two games again tomorrow.

Ed Walsh's arm was not so well today and he said he did not think he would be in shape to pitch before the team reached Philadelphia.

Frank Smith bought one dozen wash ties this morning and wore three different ones during the day. He may work in one of the games tomorrow.

Jakey Atz and Lee Tannehill played great ball in their respective positions, and their eating up of near-hits was the real feature of the afternoon.

"Gabby" Street is out after the record for Marathon catchers. He is to receive a bonus from his club if he catches more than 125 games. He is sure to win the bonus if he doesn't drop dead.

Milan's home run wouldn't have been one if Altizer had played it well. He ran too far over on the ball and let it go past him when he should have played it safe and attempted to stop rather than catch it.

Billy Sullivan had intended to try to catch a ball dropped from the Washington monument this morning, but found out at the last moment there were no balls in sight. He will make the attempt the next time the club comes to Washington.

New York, July 30.—Manning was in great form and New York blanked Detroit, 6 to 0, in the second game of the series. Donovan was ineffective and his support was poor. A star stop and throw by Moriarty was the fielding feature.

VICTORY FOR THE ATHLETICS.

Long Hits and Triple Play Feature Game in Which Naps Are Defeated, 7 to 1.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 30.—Long drives by Davis and Murphy, with men on bases, gave Philadelphia an easy victory over Cleveland today. Davis scored two runners with a triple and Murphy sent two men home ahead of him with a home run. Philadelphia made a triple play in the fourth inning. With Goode on third and Ballon on first, Collins got Stovall's fly back of the pitcher's box, while on the full run and both runners were caught off their bases. Catcher Thomas had his thumb injured by a foul tip, and Larkin, formerly of Holy Cross, made his American league debut. Score:

MURRAY'S JOB WANTED BADLY.

Stockholders of Philadelphia Club Will Continue Negotiations to Secure Donlin—Manager's Contract Illegal?

Philadelphia, Pa., July 30.—[Special.]—With the return to the city of Felix Isman, Senator Wolf, and McNichol, on Monday negotiations will be continued for the trade of Magee and a pitcher for Mike Donlin. It develops Murray's contract is illegal because there is no authorization found on the minutes of the club. He was signed by Mr. Shettsline, but not by the president of the club, and it is merely a matter of honor between gentlemen. On Monday Murray will be given the option of signing, having the other directors buy his stock, accepting the deal as it now stands, or being voted out of the directorate at a special meeting of the stockholders.

BY R. W. LARDNER.

Washington, D. C., July 30.—[Special.]—The Senators dropped back into the trodden path and dropped a couple of rapid games to their superiors, 6 to 1 and 2 to 1. Jimmy Scott from Wichita played horse with them in the first contest and Doc White, who lives right here, displayed most of his old prowess and was in on the large end of a narrow margined victory.

It was almost as hot as yesterday, but not quite. Bill Purtell and the rest of the persons who are accustomed to live in a decent climate stuck through it all, and for this reason—the senators had no chance.

They win usually when Washington is so warm that no one but inmates can stand it. Manager Joe Cantillon sent in Charley Smith in the opening battle. Charley beats the Sox regularly, once every season. This was not his day and Scott had nothing more nor less than a frolic.

They were hitting Jim once in a while, but not until it was too late did they make their hits count for anything.

Sox Win in Opener.

Smith was beaten as soon as the Sullivans had scored three times off him in the second inning. Mr. Scott himself had much to do with this collection of runs, his clean single bringing home two Sox who were waiting for just such a hit.

Mr. White had no trouble with any one except Bob Unglaub and Clyde Milan. This pair gathered five of the six hits made off the doctor, and one of Milan's was a homer that scored the Senators' solitary run.

Doc went along at a great clip for four rounds, not a semblance of a safe drive being made off him in that time. Then in the fifth Milan butted in with his long smash, tying the score and making things interesting.

The tie didn't last long. The Sox again forged ahead in the seventh and Washington's further efforts to even it up were in vain.

To be sure, Doc was in danger several times during the final three rounds, but he staid in there, and the Senators gave up after three men were out in the ninth.

Clouds were everywhere in evidence before the first game was started and rain stopped the proceedings after one round had been played, but it lasted less than ten minutes, which was fortunate for B. Sullivan if not for J. Cantillon.

Parent Again on the Job.

Freddie Parent's good arm kept the Senators from scoring on Scott in the opening round. With Browne out of the way, "Jiggs" Donahue slapped a double to right center. Unglaub flied out. Delehanty pickled one on a line over second for one base, and "Jiggs" attempted to come in from second. Parent's peg beat him two or three seconds and Owens had only to stand there and await the arrival.

Then, in their part of the second the Sox got busy with Smith. Dougherty waited and walked and Purtell sacrificed. Tannehill managed to get hit by a pitched ball and Atz floated a Texas leaguer to left, filling the bases. Owens hopped one to McBride, who had only one play, and that was at first base. He got his man all right, but Dougherty scored. Then Scott banged a single to center and Tannie and Jake came across.

Messrs. Isbell and Dougherty joined hands in the third and produced another run. One was out when Issy combed one between Browne and Miller for three bases. Pat hit sharply to McBride and was out at first, but Issy's tally counted. Then Smith settled and only two Sox got on between the fourth and eighth.

Tannehill to the Rescue.

In the latter round, Isbell poked a single to center and Dougherty beat out his bunt. Purtell was out on bunt strikes, and Isbell was caught at third in an attempted double steal. Tannehill, however, came forward with a two bagger to right center and Dougherty finished pulled up.

Mr. Smith was extracted in Washington's half to allow Otis Clymer to bat. Louis Ohl, who finished it up, yielded the half dozenth tally. Owens greeted him with a single to right and Scott forced the Memphis boy. Altizer flied to Miller, but George Browne dropped Parent's fly. Isbell beat out a hit to Delehanty and the bases were full. Delehanty then foozled Dougherty's fast grounder, Scott scoring. Purtell ended it by flying to Unglaub.

The Senators had some opportunities to score off Scott, but they were not frequent. One was out in the second when Smith singled and Browne sacrificed. Donahue hit to Purtell, whose throw to first base was muffed by Issy. It was up to dangerous Bob Unglaub, but his best was a high bounder which Scott captured.

Double plays, one of them a rapid one engineered by Atz, checked the home team in the fourth and fifth. In the sixth, Browne beat out his bunt and chased to second when Owens' throw went over Isbell's head. Parent made two nice catches off Donahue and Unglaub and Delehanty flied to Altizer.

Miller singled at the start of the Senatorial eighth, but no one could get him past second.

The Washingtonians finally put one over in the ninth. Unglaub singled to center and Delehanty walked. Miller hit to Tannehill, who tossed to second, getting Delehanty. Conroy then walked and Milan, batting for Street, forced him. Milan suffered a similar fate at the hands of McBride. Score:

Sox Take Fresh Start.

The Sox gained their lead almost as soon as the second game was started. Parent singled to right and Conroy threw out Isbell. This proceeding brought Freddie to second, whence it was easy to score on Dougherty's safe smash to right.

Browne walked in the fourth home inning, but he was the only Washington athlete to see first base up to that time and he was left there.

Milan's homer, between Altizer and Parent, started the fifth. Dave thought he could grab it on the fly, but he couldn't and the ball got past him to the clubhouse.

The seventh was the next inning of action. In the Sox part Tannehill singled to left and Atz sacrificed. Sullivan shot a sharp single past McBride and Tannie scored a yard ahead of Browne's good throw in. Sully took second on said throw and White beat out a grounder to Delehanty, but Doc went down on Altizer's third strike and was doubled up.

Senators' Hopes Blasted.

Unglaub opened the Washington part with a single to right. Delehanty flied to Dougherty. But Milan, whom a left hander ought to fool, pushed one safely into right, Unglaub going to third. In this crisis Conroy popped a fly to Sullivan and Street flied to Altizer.

There was one down in the last hope when Unglaub again hit safely. Altizer gobbled Delehanty's long fly. Milan then produced his third hit, but it was all over when Sullivan camped under Conroy's foul. Score:

LAST CUBAN GAME TO CAL'S MEN

Hernandez's Errors and Schmitt's Twirling Spells 8 to 2 Defeat for the Islanders.

Logan Squares won the final game of their series with the Cuban Stars, landing the decision, 8 to 2. Hernandez was the real reason of the Cuban defeat, as he made three wild pegs that let in enough runs to win for Cal's team.

Fred Schmitt, the veteran big leaguer, pitched for Callahan, and he found the going easy after the first couple of innings. Of the six hits made off him three were of the scratch variety. A catch by Hernandez of Meinke's wallop was the feature of the game. Score:

LANGFORD TO FIGHT KETCHEL.

Ten Round Bout Labor Day at New York Club Arranged After Considerable Dickering.

Boston, Mass., July 30.—[Special.]—After considerable dickering Sam Langford and Stanley Ketchel are going to meet at the Fairmount A. C. in New York, Labor day. The bout will be for the middleweight championship as the men agreed to weigh in at 158 pounds at 6 o'clock.

Although the bout is limited to ten rounds, the opinion is a winner will be decided before the limit is reached. The Fairmount A. C. of New York, which has been trying for the bout, made such a fair proposition for Langford's service that Manager Woodman accepted it and turned down the Ely, Nevada, offer.

Britt would not give an answer till this morning, and then finding that there was no chance of getting Langford to meet Ketchel in Ely or Philadelphia, he accepted the New York club's offer. Britt and Ketchel wired that they leave San Francisco today for New York. Langford will do his training at the Northboro training camp.

FLYNN BESTS JACK O'BRIEN.

Pueblo Fireman Springs Surprise in His Six Round Tilt at Denver, Winning on Points.

Denver, Colo., July 20.—[Special.]—Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman who surprised the world by beating Billy Papke on the coast several weeks ago, duplicated the trick in a six round bout tonight with Jack O'Brien. The battle went the limit, but Flynn surely was victor on points.

The Pueblo man was aggressor throughout and did the most damage, although the Philadelphian must be given credit for landing a great number of clean blows. His punches lacked steam, however, and did no damage. O'Brien's cleverness was a puzzle to Flynn. He was in and out, here and there and everywhere, and his clever shifting stood him well in hand on more than one occasion.

The easterner appeared badly distressed in the final session and never failed to grasp an opportunity to clinch and hold on.

Detroit, Mich., July 30.—Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight pugilist, made his debut as an automobile racer today when, with his racing car, he attempted to lower the record of :27 for a mile made by Walter Christie on the Grosse Pointe track today. The pugilist's best time was 1:27.

Wolgast will remain here for a week, and declared that he was willing to meet any one in the country at 133 pounds.

McGovern and Goldman Draw.

New York, July 30.—Phil McGovern and Charlie Goldman, both local bantams, fought a fast ten round bout with honors almost even throughout at the Fairmont A. C. tonight.

Evans and Seckel in Golf Finals. Coast Players Survive in Tennis.

EVANS OR SECKEL TO BE CHAMPION

Win Way Into Final for Western Golf Title at Homewood Today.

BRILLIANT PLAY SHOWN.

Edgewater Boy Beats Hunter, 8 and 7, While Edwards Loses to Opponent, 5 and 4.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Two clean cut and decisive victories gave Charles Evans Jr. of Edgewater and Albert Seckel of Riverside the finalist honors in the eleventh annual championship of the Western Golf association, and today they will fight for the title over the thirty-six hole route.

Yesterday Evans defeated Paul Hunter of Midlothian, 8 and 7, and Seckel disposed of Kenneth P. Edwards of Midlothian, 5 and 4, the heavy defeats of the two brilliant youngsters from the big south side club adding two to the many surprises of the tournament.

Seckel's victory was doubly satisfying to him, as last year at Rock Island he was beaten, 5 and 3, in the first round of the championship by Edwards. The year before at the Chicago Golf club he was put out by Sawyer in the first round, 5 and 3, whom he defeated on Thursday, 4 and 3.

Third Try for Title.

Evans, who is making his third try for the title, never previously got by the first round, losing to G. F. Clingman Jr., 3 and 2, at St. Louis and to Donald Edwards of Midlothian, 1 up, at Rock Island last year.

Evans and Seckel have met five times in previous matches, being finalists in the junior championship at Westward Ho in 1907 and 1908 and finalists in the western interscholastic in 1907. Two weeks ago they met in the semi-finals of the Westward Ho tournament. Evans won all four of these matches. Seckel won when they met in the Lake Geneva tournament.

As the dopesters have gone out of business, there are no definite predictions as to the outcome of today's struggle, but it looks like an even proposition.

Playing Is Brilliant.

The golf of yesterday was no less brilliant than that on the previous days, as Seckel came home in the morning with a 71, within one stroke of the record of the course, his figures containing a six at the sixteenth hole. His thirty-four out equaled the record of the course for the first nine holes.

It was hardly to be expected that Edwards could go as fast as he did on Thursday, when he made a seventy, but he went fast enough to hold his own against anything like regulation golf, getting a 76, with one seven in his card. He was five down in the morning and his only hope was to regain a few holes in the afternoon. Seckel, however, was not throwing away any holes and Edwards was not nearly as good as in the morning.

Evans 3 Up in Morning.

Evans and Hunter also performed finely in the morning, when weather conditions were admirable for good golf, a stiff northerly breeze having driven the heat wave of the previous day towards Indiana. Evans came home with a seventy-four and was three up on Hunter, who had a seventy-seven. "Chick" missed a two foot putt for a seventy-three at the home green. Evans won six holes and Hunter three, the rest being halved.

As in the other match, the final outcome depended largely on the first few holes in the afternoon. Evans demonstrated he was in form by starting with a three and taking the next, 5—6, giving him a lead of five, which practically clinched the match. Evans was going smoothly, while Hunter was erratic. Evans went out in thirty-seven, taking six holes to Hunter's one and being eight up when they turned for home. He won the eleventh hole, and the match was over.

Seckel and Edwards.

Hole 1, 280 yards, bogey 4—Both drove into the bunker and pitched to the green, Edwards almost holing a twenty foot. Halved in 4.

Hole 2, 550 yards, bogey 6—Both were on the green in 3, Seckel running down a twenty foot putt and winning, 4—5.

Hole 3, 315 yards, bogey 4—Good seconds by both players landed fifteen feet from the flag, Edwards rimming for a three. Halved in 4.

Hole 4, 330 yards, bogey 4—Edwards hooked his drive, hitting a tree and coming back on the course. He topped his second into the bunker guarding the green. Seckel was on the green in two and won, 4—5. Seckel, 2 up.

Hole 5, 375 yards, bogey 5—Edwards' third was ten feet from the cup, with Seckel three feet away. Halved in 4.

Hole 6, 475 yards, bogey 6—Seckel played two long irons with the wind, Edwards slicing his second and making a weak approach pitch. Edwards made a nervy try for a four, rimming and losing, 5—4. Seckel, 3 up.

Hole 7, 140 yards, bogey 3—Seckel sent down a thirty foot putt, winning 2—3. Seckel, 4 up.

Hole 8, 460 yards, bogey 6—Seckel pulled his drive to the long grass, but got well out with his iron. Edwards laid his approach from forty yards to three feet and won his first hole of the match, 4—5.

Hole 9, 90 yards, bogey 3—Seckel was fifteen feet away on his tee shot and Edwards missed a six foot putt for a two. Halved in 3 and leaving Seckel 3 up at the turn.

Hole 10, 270 yards, bogey 4—Edwards got a fine three, putting his approach six feet from the cup. Seckel drove a long ball into the bunker guarding the green, playing out short and taking 5. Seckel 2 up.

Seckel Gains Hole.

Hole 11, 425 yards, bogey 5—Edwards got into a mess of trouble, pulling his drive behind the trees and hitting them on his second and third shots. Seckel had a good drive but topped his second and stopped short of the creek. He pitched his third eight feet from the hole and got a 4 to Edwards' 7. Seckel 3 up.

Hole 12, 350 yards, bogey 5—Both had good drives into the wind. Seckel was on the green in two, Edwards pitching into a clover lie on the right. He was eight feet shy on his third and lost, 5—4. Seckel 4 up.

Hole 13, 460 yards, bogey 6—Both were on the green in two, Seckel's midiron going through a tree. Halved in 4.

Hole 14, 150 yards, bogey 3—Edwards drove thirty feet from the hole, Seckel being a little farther away. Edwards took three putts and half stymied Seckel, who made the putt, winning, 3—4. Seckel 5 up.

Hole 15, 310 yards, Bogey 4—Seckel took three putts and lost, 5—3.

Hole 16, 505 yards, bogey 6—Seckel was forty feet from the hole on his fourth, Edwards holing an eight foot putt and winning, 5—6.

Hole 17, 300 yards, bogey 4—Good firsts and seconds reached the green, Edwards being two inches short in his long approach putt, while Seckel holed from ten feet and won, 3—4. Seckel 4 up.

Hole 18, 280 yards, bogey 4—Edwards found the bunker to the right, Seckel driving 250 yards off the right of the green. Edwards pitched well out with his mashie niblick, but Seckel approached to three feet and won, 3—4, Edwards missing an eight foot putt. Seckel 5 up. Cards:

Afternoon Play.

Hole 1—Irons short of the bunker and short mashie pitches landed both players on the green. Edwards had a chance for three on an eight foot putt, but they halved in four.

Hole 2—Both were on the green in three with Seckel away over to the edge. His approach was short and he missed a six foot putt, Edwards winning, 5 to 6. Seckel 4 up.

Hole 3—Seckel with his iron got as much distance as Edwards with his driver. Seckel pitched to the far edge of the green and Edwards was just on. Halved in four.

Hole 4—Both made huge drives. Seckel making the better pitch and landing thirty-five feet from the flag, with Edwards on the like on the right corner of the green. Edwards went eight feet by the flag and Seckel was six feet shy on his third. Halved in 5.

Hole 5—Both drove with the wind 250 yards, Seckel putting his midiron shot 175 yards six feet from the cup. Edwards on the like was short of the green and nine feet shy on his fourth. Seckel missed his putt and won 4—5. Seckel 5 up.

Hole 6—Seckel's two fine iron shots took him to the far side of the green, 480 yards. Edwards tried a wooden shot for the green, but pulled badly to the long grass, from which he played out only thirty feet. Seckel's short putt hung on the lip of the cup, but fell in, giving him the hole 4—5. Seckel 6 up.

Hole 7—Seckel had the better pitch for this short hole, both being right side of the green. Edwards foozled a four foot putt and Seckel went in from three feet, winning 3—4. Seckel 7 up.

Hole 8—Seckel pulled his iron to the weeds and punched his second out of bounds. Edwards' third was on the edge of the green and he won, 5—7.

Riverside Man 6 Up.

Hole 9—Edwards made a miserable attempt at a six foot sidehill putt and Seckel, who was thirty-five feet away on his first, halved in 3. Seckel turned, 6 up.

Hole 11—Edwards pulled to the rough and Seckel topped for 100 yards. Both had to play short of the creek. Both well on the green in three and halved in 5.

THE INNOCENT COME-ON.

And the keno goose is spinning just the same.—[Lines taken from the memoirs of a bloke who can't understand.]

Why is it, brethren, that a fellow can't do what he pleases with what he has, provided he is fair with his own conscience? Why is it that when he is fair about that and has made ample provision for those depending on him he can't exercise the gentleman's privilege of taking something away from some one on an even chance or leave it with some one who will use it for the purpose of squaring himself with the missus?

Why should those who prey upon the twobit desperadoes, who think it is just as well to be broke as to be possessed of a solitary borrowed meg, be immune?

Why do the authorities train their most penetrating brains and their choicest posses on the quiet little soirees of the rich where the kitty is a stranger, and overlook the nickel snatchers, who openly are searching the ragged apparel of the panfish?

Why do they tolerate the one thousand and one devices to strip the poor fool of his carfare and pinch the fellow who wishes to put into circulation a modest percentage of his income?

Why do they stand for things that would not be tolerated down there below and crab things that pass as polite usage in the most angelic circles?

Do you know? We don't. We are simply asking questions—and trying to make a half column of paragraphs.

LET'S US TO THE HAUNTS OF THE RAMBOO.

[Lines intended to hit our colleague, B. L. T.]

There is just as good fish off the government pier
As ever were caught in the lakes that you're strong for.
There is just as much sport in the search of the perch
As in teasing the bass and the muskie you long for.

If you're lonesome for fishing, get over your worry.
If you listen to me I will tout you a few

CHICAGO DRIVERS SHOW WELL

Dean Pilots Tony Swift to Victory in Detroit Race.

M'MAHON LANDS ONE SECOND

Speediest Race Mile of Year 2:06¼ Made by Sterling McKinney.

BY HENRY TEN EYCK WHITE.

Detroit, Mich., July 30.—[Special.]—Chicago drivers and their nags performed creditably at the grand circuit meeting today. Dean went a classy race with the great 4 year old pacer, Tony Swift, in 2:05¾, 2:07¼, while McMahon was second all the time with Citation to Lady Maud C. in the fastest two heat race to the credit of a pacing mare, the miles being 2:03¼, 2:03¼.

Notable features of the sport were the trotting of the fastest race mile this year, which Sterling McKinney placed to his credit in 2:06¼, and an exhibition heat by Hamburg Belle in 2:02¾, which places her fifth on the list of performers against the watch where no wind shield or front runner was allowed, the steeds preceding her in the merit column being Lou Dillon, Maj. Delmar, Cresceus, and Sweet Marie.

Lady Maud C. Is Favorite.

The free for all pace was expected to furnish a great contest between Aileen Wilson and Lady Maud C, the rest of the field not being regarded as having a chance. In the early betting the first named mare was favorite, but as news of the trial 2:01½ by Lady Maud C went the rounds her price went up and by starting time she had supplanted Aileen as the choice of the speculators, the betting being heavy. The starters aside from these mares were Baron Grattan, Maj. Brino, Darkey Hal, Citation, and Reproachless, but none of them had any following worth mentioning.

But when it came to the race the only horses that cut any figure from first to last were Lady Maud C. and Citation. Aileen Wilson got a shade the best of the start in the first heat, but as soon as she hooked up with Lady Maud C. and tried to step along with the Illinois mare she went to a break, this taking place at the head of the homestretch, from which point Lady Maud C. came home on the bit, with Citation just as easily second as the chestnut mare was first.

These two mares handled the field with ease in the second heat, and although the others were at times clustered around them there was no spot in the road where Lady Maud C. did not have the race well in hand. She was taken back fully 100 yards from the wire in the finish of each mile, and looked like a 2:02 pacer.

Big Money on Three Horse Race.

The three horse race between Sterling McKinney, Lady Jones, and Spanish Queen, which constituted the field in the 2:07 trot, was one on which a lot of money was bet, and from the time the first pool was sold until the horses scored for the word Sterling McKinney was favorite at even money against the others. It was figured he had the most speed and that if he did not break the race would be an easy one for him.

In the opening mile the McKinney horse put his backers out of their misery early by breaking while he was going up the back stretch with a comfortable lead, seemingly not at all extended, as the first quarter pole, not far away when he jumped, had been done at only a 2:10 gait. This left Lady Jones, which had been in second position, out in the lead and she improved the opportunity by opening up a gap the other horse never was able to entirely close, although he trotted well. The time of the mare to the half was 1:05¼, to the three-quarters 1.37¼, and while Sterling McKinney tried hard he never overtook the two leaders, finishing third in 2:09¾.

Geers Cheered by Crowd.

But in the second heat there was a change. At no time did the stallion offer to change from a trot, and the mile practically was done all by himself, the others following at a respectful distance. The quarters were :32½, 1:04, 1:35¾, 2:06¼, and Geers was heartily cheered as he jogged the trotter back to the stand.

The third heat showed what a good mare Lady Jones is. She is rather slow to get away, and this time the tactics pursued by Geers favored her chances, as he took it easy to the quarter in :33¼ and the half in 1:05¼. Just before that point was reached Murphy began what proved to be a splendidly successful drive with Lady Jones. He soon got her alongside the stallion, and the two went around the upper turn like a double team. Lady Jones on the outside had the longest distance to trot, but she never lost an inch, once she had the stallion by the neck. They came down the home stretch head and head, but inside the distance stand the black mare's nose showed a trifle ahead. At that instant Sterling McKinney passed out one of his unexpected breaks and Lady Jones won in 2:07¼.

Performance Is Last.

This made the official time of the last half mile 1:02, but as the mare was a trifle back of Sterling McKinney at that point and trotted on the outside of him all the way she did the distance in about 1:01¼. Both the stallion and the mare are bred in like lines, as Director sired the dam of each, while McKinney is the sire of Sterling McKinney and Capt. McKinney, a son, sired Lady Jones.

The 2:09 pace, which fell to Tony Swift, was not spectacular, nor especially interesting, except that it showed what a high class performer the black stallion is, he having celebrated his fourth birthday only last Wednesday. He was a 2 to 1 choice over the field. Summaries:

Long and Bundy of California Battle for Title Today at Onwentsia.

MRS. C. N. BEARD VICTOR.

Defeats Miss Steever and Will Meet Miss Neely for Western Championship.

Today's Tennis Schedule.

Mixed Doubles, Final Round—Miss Hoyt and Mr. Johnston vs. Miss C. B. Neely and Mr. Neely.

California triumphed over Cincinnati and Mexico in the western tennis tournament at the Onwentsia club yesterday, and as a result two stars from the Pacific coast will meet in the final round today.

In the upper semi-final round M. H. Long, the 19 year old San Francisco star, defeated Harvey M. McQuiston of Mexico in three straight sets, while in the lower half R. A. Holden Jr. of Cincinnati met a similar fate at the hands of T. C. Bundy, champion of southern California.

In the upper half of the men's singles Harvey M. McQuiston was forced to play his fourth round match with Drummond Jones of St. Louis before he qualified to meet Long in the finals. In his match with Jones, McQuiston showed his best form, and went through the central states champion in surprisingly easy style by taking the match in straight sets, 6—0, 6—2.

Long Is a Tartar.

In his later match with Melville H. Long, however, McQuiston faced a different problem. In the first set of this match McQuiston started out bravely and scored many brilliant shots. But in Long he found a veritable whirlwind, and even his most powerful shots made but slight impression on the Californian. Long, with his tremendous reach and his court covering ability, seemed to be everywhere and the harder McQuiston drove the harder the balls came back at him.

The Mexican player did his utmost, but was able to capture but one game in the set. Throughout this initial set the playing of Long was a revelation to the spectators, and rarely has a better exhibition been seen in the west. In style and general build he resembles former National Champion Malcolm D. Whitman, but he has, too, a versatility of strokes that Whitman—in his palmiest days—did not possess. His service, however, is a strong reminder of Whitman's, for he uses, with great effect, the "reverse twist" that the ex-national champion invented.

Long Plays Hard Game.

In his play yesterday Long followed his terrific serves in close to the net and, once ensconced in this position, he was practically irresistible. The first set went quickly, Long taking it at 6—1.

In the second set Long again started in at a killing pace and kept McQuiston on the back line throughout. The latter then tried lobbing in the hope of driving the Californian back from the net, but even the beautifully aimed lobs of the Mexican player had little effect on Long, who, after a number of sensational "kills," seemed to convince McQuiston that he was deadly overhead.

In this set McQuiston, largely through his sharp cross-court drives, took two games, but it was all he could do and Long soon took the set at 6—2.

With the sets at two love against him McQuiston braced in the third and for a time gave Long the first serious tussle of the match. He began hitting the ball harder and drove Long from the net temporarily. The score in this set alternated up to four-all, but at this point Long put forth a supreme effort and took the next games and the set at 6—4. The final score was 6—1, 6—2, 6—4 for Long.

In the lower half match R. A. Holden Jr., the young Yale player, put up the most brilliant game he has yet shown and gave T. C. Bundy, the California expert, a real fight to win.

In the first set Holden began brilliantly and took the first two games. At this point, however, he was caught by Bundy. The playing then assumed championship style, but Bundy had the shade at critical times and won out, 6—3.

Luck Helps Bundy.

In the second set both men played grandly and the score alternated up to 4 all. Then followed two stubbornly fought games in which the score went to deuce time and again. But the luck was again with Bundy and he took both games and the set, 6—4.

In the third set Holden started in at a terrific clip and fairly carried all before him. He drove with a vengeance born of desperate determination and assumed—for the time—complete mastery of the situation. In this set Holden simply ran away with Bundy and worked the score quickly to five-one in the jam.

Then there followed one of those nerve racking reversals for which tennis is famous. For four games the score alternated after deuce had been reached and in nearly all of them Holden had the set within a point only to lose out in the end.

As a result of these two semi-final matches Melville Long and Bundy will meet in the final round of the singles at 11 a. m. this morning.

The reason for this is to enable the winner to meet Nat Emerson, the holder, in the challenge round this afternoon, it being the wish of the Californians to go east tonight.

In the men's doubles two teams won their way into the final round, and as a result the championship of the west in this event also will be settled this afternoon.

McQuistons in Front.

In the upper half the McQuiston brothers, champions of Mexico, won their way into the last round by defeating John C. Neely Jr. and Drummond Jones in straight sets. This match was close and well fought, but the Mexican champions held the upper hand throughout, the final score being 6—4, 6—4, 9—7.

In the lower half Trux Emerson and R. A. Holden of Cincinnati continued their brilliant work by defeating W. A. Fleet and John T. Bailey. This match likewise was won in straight sets. The final score was 6—4, 10—8, 6—3.

Thus the score was soon at 5 all. The eleventh game went to Bundy, but, after a brilliant and nervy rally, Holden evened it again, at 6 all. The next two games were intensely exciting, but Bundy took them both, which gave him the set at 8—6 and the match, 6—3, 6—4, 8—6.

Surprise in Women's Singles.

The surprise of the day, however, came when Mrs. C. N. Beard met Miss Miriam Steever, Illinois state champion, in the finals of the women's singles. Mrs. Beard who, when Miss Edyth Parker, held the national doubles championship with Miss Champlin, created a sensation by her work yesterday, having been absent from tournament for the past two years. Yesterday, however, Mrs. Beard was in top form and literally ran away from Miss Steever. Both sets were similar in important features, the score in each being 6—2 in Mrs. Beard's favor.

As a result of her victory, Mrs. Beard will meet Miss Neely in the challenge round for the western championship this afternoon.

In the women's doubles, Miss Hoyt and Miss Neely qualified for the finals by defeating Mrs. Boal and Miss Massey, and will meet Mrs. Beard and Miss Steever in the final match today. The mixed-double final is also scheduled for today. Summaries:

Lexington Breaks Wheel and Is Declared Out of Running; Cars to Be Tested.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Kansas City, Mo., July 30.—[Special.]—The final day's run in the tour of the American Automobile association from Detroit to this city via Denver, a distance of over 2,600 miles, proved the hardest in the whole tour, as well as the longest.

For 212 miles the cars plowed through Kansas mud, the result of heavy thunder showers last night and this morning, and the drivers had to exert themselves to the utmost to bring their machines through on time. The schedule of twenty miles an hour was maintained in spite of road conditions.

As a result of the hard going several of the cars were penalized, two of them proving to be cars that up to today had maintained perfect scores. One of these, the Lexington, that had been one of the leaders for the Glidden trophy, broke a wheel near this city and had to borrow another to bring it in. This disqualifies the car from the run.

Mud Hurts Scores.

The other car to spoil its record was the Chalmers Detroit in the Hower trophy contest. This car also had wheel trouble plowing through the deep ruts, and lost points.

The cars after checking in were turned over to the technical committee in Convention hall covered with mud. Only five of them in the Glidden division are left perfect. The two Pierce Arrows driven by Walter Winchester and Teddy Dey, K., the two premiers manned by Webb Jay and H. H. Hammond, and the Marmon driven by Howard Marmon.

In the Hower division but three are perfect, the two Pierces of the runabout type, driven by Ralph Williams and J. Schofield, and the Moline, driven by F. A. Wicke. The pathfinders' car that left Salina an hour ahead of the contestants was the first to arrive here at 4. It was followed a minute after by Williams' Pierce runabout, and then came the other three Pierces in order. The fifth car was the Midland and then followed the Marmon driven by Frank Wing of Boston.

Announce Results Sunday.

The technical committee will begin its work on the cars at once, but the work will not be completed until Sunday night at least. If the contest is close the committee may ask the drivers to take their cars out and put them through a few stunts for them in the way of hill climbing and brake tests.

FIAT LEADS BIG MOTOR RACE.

At End of Fourth of Twenty-four Hour Race at New York Has Seven Miles to the Good.

New York, July 30.—The twenty-four hour automobile race on the new Brighton Beach motordrome, the chief event of the Motor Racing association's two days' meeting here, started at 9:05 o'clock tonight with eight entrants, all but one of which were American cars.

The first accident occurred shortly before midnight, when the Stearns car skidded and turned turtle on a bend half way around the course. Marquis, the driver, and Mechanician Lang were thrown out and slightly injured.

During the third hour the Simplex gained a lap on the Fiat, which remained in the lead.

The Fiat car continued to speed steadily around the track during the fourth hour, but the Simplex began to have engine trouble, and was off the track several times for intervals of a few minutes. At the end of the hour the Simplex was seven miles behind the leader, but still held second place. Score fourth hour:

	Miles.		Miles.
Fiat	204	Lozier	176
Simplex	197	Stearns	141
Rainier	193	Acme	120
Palmer-Singer	178	Haynes	122

In the preliminary contests this afternoon the 100 mile "motor Marathon" was won with ease by the Chalmers-Detroit, which averaged better than 56 miles an hour.

STOCKS STRONGEST IN WEEKS

Action on Tariff Bill Serves to Broaden the Market.

PRICE GAINS ARE GENERAL.

Business of Banks Reflects Growth in Industrial Activity.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

New York, July 30.—[Special.]—Overnight news from Washington of an agreement by the conference committee on the tariff bill, which has the approval of President Taft, coming as it did so closely upon the heels of dispatches describing the committee and the president as at odds, with a prospect of no action upon tariff matters in the present session, stimulated confidence in an early disposal of the entire tariff question, and was directly responsible for the strongest and broadest market witnessed on the stock exchange for many weeks.

On Thursday there was a sprinkling of outside buying, provoked by continued expansion in business and practical assurance of large crops, and this became pretty nearly a downpour of purchases of investment issues, notably standard railway shares and bonds, upon the practical removal today of the tariff as a stumbling block to further progress in trade.

Price Movement Steadily Forward.

Prices opened at advances and with the exception of the noon hour recessions of most modest proportions the movement was steadily forward to the close of the day. Interest in stocks not heretofore active became pronounced and at the end of the session dealings of above 1,000,000 shares and numerous advances of from 1 to 3 points had fastened upon the session every characteristic of an old fashioned "bull market."

All familiar reports and rumors incident to such markets were current during the day, including those having to do with the possibility of increased dividends on Reading and Atchison, distributions in some shape or form for Consolidated Gas and General Electric, and larger payments by many of the industrial companies, which are, of course, benefiting to the full by the expansion in business, but such stories are to be accepted with the greatest reserve.

One of the most interesting announcements of the day was that of Atchison's earnings for the month of June, which disclosed the enormous increase of $1,771,000 in gross and the retention of $544,000 of this in the shape of net.

Clearings Reflect Business Gain.

Bank clearings as compiled for the week reflected the growth in trade through their steady increase, the daily average exceeding that of the last year and even of 1906. News from the crop country was uniformly favorable, and an early date was fixed by the leading grain journals for the harvesting of spring wheat.

Preliminary estimates of currency movements of the week while noting a decrease in receipts from the interior and an enlargement in shipments to inland points, foreshadowed another gain in cash by the local banks. Foreign exchange rates were lower and one engagement of gold of $500,000 in amount was made for shipment to Argentina tomorrow. Foreign markets seemed less disturbed over the position of affairs in Spain, where the government appears to have obtained the upper hand.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, July 30.—Money was in better demand on the market today and discounts were quiet. The stock exchange developed a steadier tone, although business was restricted in view of the holidays. Spanish bonds improved, while the more confident Paris support helped foreigners and Kaffirs fractionally. Home rails hardened on further satisfactory dividends. Copper shares recovered moderately, but closed below the best. American securities were dull and featureless during the early season. At noon the market was quiet with prices from ⅛ below to ⅝ above yesterday's New York closing. Light support sustained values until the New York opening came strong. United States Steel and Union Pacific touched new records and strengthened the rest of the list, and although a reaction from the best occurred the market closed firm.

IN THE WORLD OF FINANCE

Illinois Brick Shares Active, but Do Not Rise Above 50.

BOOTH COMMON ADVANCES.

Insiders Believe Fisheries Preferred Will Show Earnings.

Illinois Brick shares were fairly active on the local exchange. The price, however, does not rise above 50, although there are predictions of earnings equal to 15 per cent on the capital stock.

Booth Fisheries common was the most active on the list. The price showed a fractional advance. Insiders are of the opinion that the company will show something earned on its preferred stock at the end of its first fiscal year. There has been a great deal of miscellaneous buying of both issues.

Chicago Subway held steady at 19¼. There is nothing special ahead for the stock and little reason for buying it, except in a speculative way. The people who control the property are determined to make it valuable, and this should be the basis for any buying.

Commonwealth Edison has steadied around 120, which, with the dividend rate of 6 per cent, makes the stock a 5 per cent investment. Meanwhile, Peoples' Gas, which pays 7 per cent, is selling at 116. Should it happen in the future that persons more closely identified with Chicago should become interested in this property, there is no doubt the stock would sell much higher. There is a feeling that the company is controlled in New York. With a perpetual franchise, such as the Peoples Gas company enjoys, it ought to be possible to have the stock sell around 150.

In the bond department business was light. The bond market at this time does not show much snap.

Continental-American Trust.

It is proposed to effect the actual consolidation of the Continental National and American Trust and Savings banks on Sept. 4. This date will fall on Saturday and be followed by two holidays, Monday being Labor day, giving ample time for making arrangements in the new location. Meetings of the stockholders of the banks will be called on either Aug. 30 or Aug. 31. More than 95 per cent of the shareholders have signified their assent to the consolidation, whereas only 66 2-3 were necessary.

There has been a great deal of discussion as to the personnel of the enlarged institution. George M. Reynolds will be president of the National bank and E. A. Potter president of the trust company. Mr. Reynolds will be vice president of the trust company, while Mr. Potter will be vice president of the Continental National.

The positions which the remaining officers will hold have not been determined. It is probable, however, that all the employés will be given an opportunity to demonstrate their ability to fill places under the new management.

Northwestern L Gets Dividend.

The trustees of the Northwestern Elevated railroad have declared an initial quarterly dividend of 1 per cent, payable Oct. 18 to stock of record Oct. 9.

This action is in accordance with an announcement made in THE TRIBUNE some time ago, when it was said the distribution would be "early in October."

Bank Statement Forecast.

Known movements of money for the week indicate a gain in cash for the New York banks of $6,160,000. Shipments of gold were approximately $1,000,000. The banks gained from the interior $4,627,000. They gained from the subtreasury $1,532,000.

President Brown Optimistic.

W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central, has been receiving reports from western crop territory, and is quoted as saying:

"Personally, I believe the corn crop will reach 3,250,000,000 bushels, but I don't dare say that, because some people already call me a crazy optimist. But while there is no question that the crops will be large, the railroads will handle them without difficulty.

"On our own lines there is a strong movement of traffic, which is steadily improving. The improvement is not confined to any particular class of business. Notwithstanding the early movement of grain from the farms on account of high prices, the grain has not reached us, but should do so within a week."

Manufacturers' Light and Heat.

The Manufacturers' Light and Heat company of Pittsburg and affiliated companies report as follows for the six months ended June 30, 1909:

Gross earnings	$2,802,699
Operating expenses, taxes	942,868
Net earnings	$1,859,832
Deductions	492,541
Surplus	$1,367,290
Previous surplus	6,454,149
Total surplus	$7,821,439

The balance sheet as of June 30, compared with that of Dec. 31 last, shows bonds paid and canceled, $789,500; decrease in bills payable, $502,557; decrease in accrued interest on bonds, $21,987; total decrease in liabilities, $1,314,044.

It also shows an increase in accounts payable of $78,165. A summary of the balance sheet shows: Net decrease in liabilities, $1,220,798; increase in investment accounts, $286,999; net decrease in cash assets, $140,507; surplus, $1,367,290.

Penn-Wyoming.

Announcement is made of changes in the United Smelters Railway and Copper company by which I. N. Pennock of Cleveland becomes president.

The company is organized under the laws of Wyoming and has an authorized capital of $2,500,000 7 per cent preferred stock and $10,000,000 common stock. The preferred issue has been deposited with the American Trust and Savings bank of Chicago as trustee, to be used to convert and retire the Penn-Wyoming Copper company's bond issue of $2,500,000, which was assumed by the smelters company in February. It is announced that virtually all the obligations of the Penn-Wyoming company, amounting roundly to $2,000,000, have been paid.

Dividends Declared.

The Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its regular guaranteed stock and 1 per cent on its special guaranteed betterment stock, payable Sept. 1 to stock of record Aug. 10.

The General Chemical company declared its regular quarterly dividend of 1 per cent on its common stock, payable Sept. 1 to stock of record Aug. 21.

General Financial News.

The Bethlehem Steel corporation virtually has completed plans for the issuance of $5,000,000 notes to take up the $2,500,000 notes outstanding and provide funds for the completion of construction work, contemplated or under way.

It is announced that the $1,500,000 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the General Chemical company, which was sold to Speyer & Co., has been resold to investors.

N. W. Harris & Co. of New York have purchased $5,000,000 collateral trust 4 per cent notes of the Consolidated Gas company, maturing Aug. 10, 1910. The proceeds will be used to take up a like amount of 5 per cent notes of the company, which will fall due on Aug. 10.

Business of the National Carbon company is reported to be active. The price of the shares indicates such improvement.

IN THE BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., July 30.—[Special.]—Boston coppers were laggards most of the time. North Butte was fairly active and strong. It is said that this company practically has arranged to acquire the granite mountain claim on which it proposes to sing another drift. Superior Copper went to 50, but afterward eased off a little and United States Smelting issues were firm. American Zinc was strong. It is said this stock is so held that it can be marked up to any reasonable price. American Telephone was active and strong and there was a good deal of trading in Steel common. Call loans, 2½@3 per cent; time loans, short dates, 3@3½ per cent; time money, year, 4@4½ per cent; commercial paper, 3½@4 per cent.

SPRING WHEAT CROP LARGE

Splendid Outlook in Northwest Stimulates Heavy Selling.

BLACK RUST SMALL FACTOR.

Corn Support Poor with Market Weak; Hedging Sales Break Oats.

Commercial—Uniformly favorable reports from the spring wheat country, with estimates from accredited authorities placing the yield in the three states at from 225,000,000 to 260,000,000 bu, offset all other considerations in the wheat market yesterday, and prices closed substantially lower. Net losses for the day were ⅞@1⅜c, and final quotations were at about the low points of the day. The cash demand was brisk here, and there were indications that the farmers were not disposed to sell wheat on the break, but these factors were overlooked. Black rust reports were confined to the vicinity of Lidgerwood, N. D., no other points reporting the blight, and with the weather fair and cooler the scare subsided. Minneapolis was relatively weaker than Chicago on the new crop deliveries, and this fact also induced free selling.

Prices Firm at the Start.

Opening prices were at about the top for the day, a little buying by Armour early, with the firm cables giving the market a strong tone, but later the bull leaders turned heavy sellers, and offerings became general. Pressure was largely on the December, although all months were sold freely, and the spread between September and December widened out at one time to about 2c. Barrell, Bartlett-Patten, Lake, Logan-Bryan, and the local crowd all sold wheat, and buying was scattered, some of the short sellers taking profits on the decline.

Liverpool cables were fairly strong, reflecting the light Argentine shipments, 880,000 bu, closing prices being ⅛@⅜d higher. Paris was unchanged to ½c up; Antwerp, unchanged; Berlin, ⅝c up; Budapest, 1¼c lower; and Buenos Aires, ⅜@⅝c better.

Northwest Reports Are Glowing.

All eyes were turned to the northwest, where the spring wheat crop is rapidly approaching maturity, and the glowing reports set at rest for the time being at least all fears in regard to black rust. The Market Record estimates a yield of approximately 259,000,000 bu, or about 84,000,000 bu more than was raised in the three states last year. Other estimates ranged from 225,000,000 bu to 240,000,000 bu. The crop is regarded generally as practically made, although there is still chance for damage. The possibility of serious injury, however, is considered remote.

Foreign news was colorless. German harvest reports were bullish, but Russian advices were bearish. World's shipments are estimated at 7,400,000 bu, against 5,424,000 bu a year ago. India shipped 1,712,000 bu and Australia 208,000 bu, while this country and Canada exported a total of 1,580,000 bu wheat and flour.

Cash Demand Is Brisk.

The cash wheat demand was brisk and everything offered was taken by mills and elevator interests at relatively firm prices. Country advices indicate a falling off in receipts as farmers are not disposed to sell at the current level. Rains have also caused considerable lowering of quality and the Modern Miller reported a scarcity of fine dry grain. Southwestern markets were a little off for cash stuff, but receipts were moderate, while shipments at St. Louis and Kansas City were nearly as heavy as the arrivals. Primary receipts footed up 1,097,000 bu, against 1,046,000 bu a year ago. Local arrivals inspected in were 269 cars, with 252 cacrs estimated to be on the inspection sheet today. Cash sales were 225,000 bu. Millers report a good domestic trade with some export business. Clearances for the day were larger than recently, at 359,000 bu. Minneapolis stocks decreased 575,000 bu, and Duluth 735,000 bu for the week.

Corn Mart Dull and Heavy.

A heavy tone characterized the corn market, the easing up of the July situation as the result of free selling by some of the longs and weakness in other grains being the main factors. Country offerings were moderate, but Omaha was said to be offering more corn to come here. Cash demand was fair with sales of 130,000 bu at unchanged prices. Armour, Comstock, and Logan-Bryan were on the selling side, with the buying support indifferent. Final quotations showed net losses for the session of ⅝@1¼c, the July suffering the most severe decline. Weather and crop conditions were favorable in all directions. Primary receipts were 381,000 bu, against 380,000 bu a year ago, with local arrivals 175 cars and 129 promised for today's inspection. Liverpool was ¼d higher at the close. Argentine shipments were 3,137,000 bu, against 2,625,000 bu a year ago. American shipments for the week were 150,000 bu, against 16,000 bu last year.

Heavy Pressure on Oats.

Enormous pressure of hedging sales with reluctant liquidation on the part of some of the stubborn holders contributed to a further slump in oats prices, new low figures for the season being established. Armour and Peavey bought freely in an attempt to stem the tide of selling, but their operations were not so successful as on the previous day and final prices were 2⅜c off for July, and ⅝@1@1¼c lower for the new crop months. Receipts here were 67 cars with 78 cars promised for today. Cash sales were 130,000 bu at prices ½@2c lower. Ohio and Indiana are offering oats cheaper in the east than local dealers and indications point to a liberal movement to this market. Primary receipts were small at 191,000 bu, compared to 477,000 bu a year ago.

Rye Market Uneven.

Rye was easy for futures and steady for cash. September closed at 73c bid and 74c asked. Cash No. 2 was quoted at 76c; No. 3, 68@74c; No. 4, 56@66c. Receipts were 5 cars.

Barley was steady to 4c lower, the latter for mixing. Malting was quoted at 65@70c; mixing, 56@60c; screenings, 50@60c. Receipts were 15 cars.

Flaxseed was unchanged to 1c higher. No. 1 northwestern closed at $1.48; No. 1 from the northwest at $1.46½; No. 1 southwestern at $1.38. Rejected, $1.25@1.32. Receipts here were 2 cars; at Minneapolis, 1 car; at Duluth, 20 cars. Argentine shipments for the week, 656,000 bu, against 424,000 bu a week ago and 504,000 bu a year ago.

Timothy seed was steady. September was $3.65 bid. March sold at $3.95. Country lots were $2.75@3.80.

Clover seed was unchanged. July was $10.85 and March, $11.85. Country lots were $8.00@10.25.

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON CHANGE.

All advices from the northwest were of a decidedly encouraging character. Lake's man wired that aside from the black rust reported at Lidgerwood, N. D., no other instances of it were reported, and that there was no cause for alarm. Messages from Le Count and Inglis, the crop experts, said there was no cause for concern now, as the blight reported was purely local, and the general outlook was so good that poor crops in a few sections would not materially affect the total yield. Rollin E. Smith said there was still chance for serious damage if weather conditions were right. The Northwestern Miller wired C. H. Challen that the infection was local and that no serious results were apprehended.

Fair sales of wheat were made to exporters here, but the sales were mostly to apply on old export contracts. Offers to resell wheat in one instance did not meet with any response. It is estimated there is between 7,000,000 and 9,000,000 bu of wheat sold from Chicago for August-September shipment, and unless receipts keep up at a liberal rate it is not believed stocks will accumulate fast. Prices were relatively steady. Corn here was unchanged. Shipping sales were 225,000 bu wheat, 130,000 bu corn, and 130,000 bu oats.

The Market Record of Minneapolis estimates the wheat crop this year in the three states at 259,200,000 bu, compared to 175,000,000 bu the official figures for 1908. In the estimate given out North Dakota is given 115,000,000 bu, South Dakota 50,000,000 bu, and Minneapolis 93,000,000 bu. The estimate was regarded as too high in some quarters, but all reports indicate an exceptionally even crop all through the northwest. Le Count places the North Dakota yield at 90,000,000 bu, or 25,000,000 bu less than the Market Record figures, and the Northwestern Miller at about 238,000,000 bu.

The annual board of trade ball game will take place this afternoon at 3 p. m. at the American league grounds at Wentworth avenue and Thirty-ninth street. The board of trade team will meet the strong bank clerks' nine, and a fast game is expected. A large number of tickets have been sold and a large attendance is indicated from the advance sale of tickets. The proceeds of the game will go to children's charities.

Local flour men continue to report an excellent trade in flour for domestic account and there is some export inquiry. Hard winter wheat flour are now on a working basis and bids for soft winter flour are close to the market, foreign buyers only waiting, it is said, for the markets to steady a little before buying.

"Rains are interfering with the thrashing of winter wheat," said the Modern Miller. "The soft winter variety shows the unfavorable effects of the wet weather. Choice, dry grain is scarce. Farmers in many sections show a disposition to hold at the lower prices made."

Export clearances of breadstuffs from both coasts for the last week, with comparisons, follow:

	This wk.	Last wk.	Last year.
Wheat and flour	1,580,000	933,000	2,605,000
Corn	150,000	32,000	16,000

Deliveries on July contracts were 115,000 bu wheat, 200,000 bu corn, 500 tcs lard, and 150,000 lbs ribs. There will be two deliveries today, one in the morning and one after the close of change.

Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 575,000 bu for the week and Duluth's supplies were 735,000 bu less. The decrease for the week at both points was much more than a year ago.

Cash wheat prices at Minneapolis had another advance yesterday, July closing 1¼c higher and No. 1 northern selling at $1.31⅝@1.32¼, or 3¼@3⅝c over July.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 252 cars; corn, 129 cars; oats, 73 cars; rye, 5 cars; barley, 15 cars; hogs, 7,000.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CATTLE.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Fresh receipts of 1,500 cattle, included 500 Texans in direct to the packers, leaving only a small quota of native steers for disposal on the open market. There were not many orders to be filled, however, and salesmen were satisfied to accept steady values for their holdings. The quality of the offerings was mediocre, and the best load of beeves on the market sold at $6.60, while a big share of the supply consisted of stock only good enough to sell at from $5.00 to $6.00. The market closed in good condition, with the better grades of steers 10@20c higher than a week ago, and the inferior grades at an unchanged level.

Butcher stock trade was restricted by limited supplies and a narrow demand, and values held at a steady level, showing gains of 25@50c for the week in the price of good beef cows and choice corn fed yearling heifers. Bulls were slow sale at a decline of 10@20c in the value of the bologna bulls, as compared to a week ago. Calves were sparingly offered and the market had a stronger tone, although prices were largely 50c lower than at the close last week. Canners and cutters were unchanged. Quotations:

Mixed hogs ranged from $7.20@7.60, with few of the good kinds selling at less than $7.50. SHEEP.

Fat sheep and lambs sold at steady prices, while a decline of 25c was made in the price of breeding ewes. Receipts of 9,000 head were about as expected, and packers took hold of the offerings with little hesitancy, a clearance of the supply of fat stock being effected at a comparatively early hour. Attendance of country buyers was smaller and the demand for feeding and breeding sheep was less urgent than on any day so far this week. Closing values were largely 50c lower than a week ago, with some of the intermediate grades of natives showing more loss in instances. Quotations:

Receipts for July 31 were estimated at 300 cattle, 7,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep, against actual arrivals of 158 cattle, 12,583 hogs, and 1,199 sheep for Saturday, Aug. 1, 1908.

ON THE BOARD OF TRADE.

Active support by packing interests gave the provisions market a fairly strong tone and prices averaged higher. Pork was 85c up for October and 12½@15c up for other months; lard, unchanged to 2½c higher, and ribs unchanged to 12½c lower. An advance of 10@20c in the hog market with lighter receipts helped create a better feeling and there was not so much selling of a liquidating character. Receipts at Chicago were 10,000 with 7,000 expected today. Western points had 32,000, or 12,500 less than a year ago. A moderate cash trade in lard and meats developed over night and there was some export business in lard reported. Liverpool lard closed 6d higher. Receipts of product here were 23 cars, with shipments of 94 cars.

Groceries.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Weakness prevailed in the market for flour and rice, increased arrivals of new crop offerings being in excess of the requirements of the trade. More confidence was displayed in the market for canned goods and all offerings were held firmly at full market quotations. Dried fruits for future delivery attracted more general inquiries, and there was a firmer feeling in the market for molasses, sirups, and other byproducts as a result of the advance in the price of sugars.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Demand for refined sugars is active and market firm at the recent advance in values. Following were the ruling prices in wholesale circles, quotations being on 100 lb lots: Standard granulated, beet and cane, $5.24@5.34; cut loaf, H. & E., $6.27; standard powdered, $5.65; extra C, $4.85; canary, $4.65; chemically pure milk sugar, 20c per lb in brl lots.

NEW YORK, July 30.—SUGAR—Raw, firm; fair refining, $3.48; centrifugal [96 test], $3.98; molasses sugar, $3.23; refined, steady; crushed, $5.65; powdered, $5.05; granulated, $4.95.

COFFEE.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Demand for spot coffees was fairly active, but the cost and freight offerings were neglected and prices showed steady declines. Receipts of green coffees at Rio were 18,000 bags, and at Santos, 73,000 bags.

NEW YORK, July 30.—COFFEE—Spot quiet; Rio No. 7, 7½c; Santos No. 4, 9c. Mild coffee quiet; Cordova, 9½@12½c. Futures opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points and ruled quiet, but generally steady on some scattered covering in the absence of important offerings, with the close quiet, net unchanged to 10 points higher. Havre was unchanged to ¼c higher. Sales here were 2,750 bags, including July at $6.80, September at $5.70, and October at $5.40.

Dry Goods.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods market, said: "The merchants' meetings are becoming more and more a distinctive and powerful influence in the activities of the great central market, and it is gratifying to note that merchants are more fully alive to the decided advantages offered through this channel. The week's business with market buyers was excellent, purchases being well distributed in all lines. An extraordinary offering of 3,000 pieces of silk, being the current year's production of a well known manufacturer, was the most noteworthy event of the week. In view of the fact that there is no overproduction of silk on the market, this should be of considerable interest to the trade. An advance of ¼c a yard on staple prints, announced by manufacturers to take effect Aug. 10, is further indication of the strength of the staple trade."

Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, said: "We cannot too strongly urge merchants to come to market early. In many lines the present manufactured supply is adequate, but the continued stiffening of the market will undoubtedly mean that late purchasers will find assortments broken. Ribbon stocks especially are complete at this time and moving freely. Merchants in market are taking advantage of the complete lines of wash dress goods now open. In our wool dress goods department some good orders for early fall delivery are booked for quantities that total a large increase over the corresponding period of last year. If a large business should develop for goods manufactured from yarns, higher prices will no doubt prevail, as manufacturers' stocks are not any too heavy."

NEW YORK, July 30.—The jobbing market shows a slow and steady improvement in the seasonable demand. The primary cotton goods market is quiet, due in part to the imminence of a government crop report. Cotton yarns are selling better. The movement in staple prints continues good. The local wool market is firm, with a good demand for anything available.

Cotton.

NEW YORK, July 30.—COTTON—Spot closed quiet, five points advance; middling uplands, 12.85c; middling gulf, 13.10c. Sales, 700 bales. The market opened steady at an advance of two to four points and sold ten to twelve points net higher early, with December touching 12.53c, sixty-three points above the new low level of last week. Recent buyers turned for profits and as the market eased off local professionals became sellers for a turn on the theory that liquidation probably would become heavier before the close tomorrow. December contracts broke to 12.36c, or seventeen points below the high point of the morning and about seven points net lower, closing at 12.47c bid—a final rally of four or five points being due to covering by scalping shorts. Futures opened heavy and closed steady. Quotations:

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 30.—COTTON—Spot, steady, unchanged; middling, 12 3-16c. Sales on the spot, 1,300 bales; to arrive, none. Futures opened steady at an advance of five to ten points on a much better Liverpool market than expected. Buying orders came in freely to commission houses around the first call and in the first half hour of trading all active months were eight to ten points up compared with yesterday's closing. The prices fell off until all the advance had been lost and a net decline of seven points established. Late in the session buying by longs was renewed and prices recovered, the market closing steady at a net advance of three to six points. Futures closed steady.

PIANOS
—AT—BARGAIN PRICES

We are tearing up the old flooring in our piano department and laying new floors. This reduces our floor space capacity by several thousand square feet. There are included in this great clearance a very wide choice of many standard makes.

Do not confuse this great opportunity to secure a reliable piano of dependable make at a saving with the many "made to order" sales constantly in progress elsewhere. Such a chance as this occurs only by reason of self-explanatory conditions.

We ask the indulgence of patrons calling to examine these bargains. They will find our establishment in a state of disorder, with carpenters working on every hand. But our staff of salesmen will lend their best efforts to assist all customers who will tell them just what kind of an instrument they have in mind. When desired, one of our salesmen will conscientiously put himself in the place of the buyer and search throughout the entire stock for the very best value at the price indicated.

25 Pianos, regular $350 values; special price	$265
16 Pianos, regular $300 values; special price	215
18 Pianos, regular $250 values; special price	185
14 Pianos, regular $200 values; special price	145

Also about 30 pianos, including Steinway, Lyon & Healy's, and other leading makes, which have been thoroughly rebuilt at our own factory, and which we will sell at almost nominal figures, value considered.

All pianos may be bought on our special system of easy monthly payments at the spot cash price. A full list of makes and prices will be mailed upon request to all out of town customers.

WEST & COMPANY.

I APPRECIATE ACCOUNTS OF HONORABLE people [men employed or in business, ladies with allowances from their husbands, or incomes from other sources] who want large or small sums, confidentially, with or without security. My location [30 min. from loop district], and my being the President of a large manufacturing wholesale vehicle establishment [Bradstreet's and other agencies show its standing], and not a professional money lender, assures a privacy not possible to those who deal with brokers in downtown office buildings, where money lenders congregate. Professional lenders demand high rates, usually asking so much that the average straightforward citizen realizes that exorbitant charges, for any time, are burdensome. My average price, all charges positively included, is never more than 1, 2, or 3 per cent monthly, depending on risk and amount loaned. Individual waiting rooms. BOARD TO PRINT REALTY FIGURES

Assessment List of 1907 Will Be Published as an Official Document.

EXPENSE MAY BE $75,000.

Aldermen and Politicians Set Down for Taxes on Personal Property.

Publication of the list of real estate assessments made in 1907 as an official public document was authorized yesterday by the board of county commissioners following a unanimous recommendation from the board's finance committee.

It is estimated that the publication of the list, which will carry more than 1,000,000 names and descriptions of real estate tracts in Chicago and country towns, will cost $75,000.

Ever since the quadrennial valuation of real estate was made two years ago by the board of assessors and subsequently confirmed by the board of review, there has been a fight to secure the publication of the real estate lists, similar in form to the personal property lists, which are published annually subsequent to the spreading of the assessment figures.

The county officials pleaded that no funds were available for such purpose, but when the annual budget was in preparation for the current year the county board set aside $50,000 for printing the real estate valuations.

Special Committee Is Named.

The finance committee in its report said:

"Your committee has had under consideration the matter of printing the real estate assessments for which an appropriation was included in the annual appropriation bill and recommends that said work be done as soon as practicable, and that the president of the county board [William Busse], the chairman of the finance committee [Alfred Van Steenburg], and the superintendent of public service [William McLaren], be a special committee with directions to investigate and report to the board a method of procedure in the matter of copying, printing, and distributing said real estate assessments pursuant to the statute and to prepare specifications for advertising for said work or such part thereof as can be let by contract."

The view is held at the county building that the real estate lists will be issued under the supervision of the board of review, inasmuch as the assessment books for 1907 have passed from the custody of the board of assessors and are now held by the reviewers.

The argument has been made repeatedly by those who have demanded that the lists of real estate figures be printed that such publication would demonstrate that much real estate in Cook county is assessed at a lower valuation than the facts justify.

After Insurance Companies.

A long list of summonses has been sent out by Chief Clerk Vogeler, commanding representatives of insurance companies to appear before the board of review Monday and Tuesday to show cause why their personal property valuations should not be increased. Experts of the board of review and of the city are said to be responsible for the move against the risk men.

The board of review is of the opinion that no more complaints can be filed after tonight concerning 1909 assessments. There is a difference of opinion due to the fact that the law stipulates that Aug. 1 is the final day for filing complaints. Inasmuch as tomorrow (Sunday) will be Aug. 1, the belief among the reviewers is that the time limit expires with this midnight.

The offices of the reviewers were filled in the morning with aldermen and politicians who had been sent for to show cause why they should not be on the assessment rolls, or, if they are on the books, why their assessments should not be raised.

McInerney Put on the Books.

Ald. Michael McInerney of the Thirtieth ward—he who clamored strenuously last spring during the campaign for an investigation of the 'tax dodgers'—was not on the books at all. When the reviewers had finished with him he was down for $300. Ald. Redwanz and Ald. Fulton were put on for $400 each, and Ald. Richert and Ald. Lipps for $500 each.

B. J. Mullaney, secretary to Mayor Busse, voluntarily told the board he should be on the rolls for $1,000. Former Ald. Herman Kruger wanted an assessment of $500 cut off, but he failed to get his wish. Former City Clerk John R. McCabe agreed that $500 was all right for him, and former City Treasurer John E. Traeger stood for an assessment of $600.

The board knocked off the assessment of Charles Deering for $3,000 at 2645 Sheridan road, Evanston, on the ground that Mr. Deering now lives at Southampton, L. I.

STRIDIRON GIVES UP FLIGHT TO FACE CHARGE OF PERJURY.

Surrenders to Wayman, Asserting He Did Not Swear Falsely in Trial of Chinaman for Murder.

H. H. Stridiron, who has been "visiting" in foreign parts while detectives from State's Attorney Wayman's office have been searching the country for him, appeared at the Criminal Court building yesterday and formally surrendered. He was indicted several months ago with Robert E. Cantwell, attorney, and John S. Moissand on a charge of conspiracy to commit perjury.

Since he fled from Chicago he has been in many parts of the world, but a clew to his whereabouts was obtained by the Scotland Yard police department in London.

"I knew they were after me," Stridiron is said to have stated to a friend, "and so I just decided to come back to Chicago and give myself up. I am innocent, anyway, and I will prove it when I am brought to trial."

His bond was fixed at $14,000 and was furnished by "Andy" Craig and "Sim" Tuckhorn, south side saloonkeepers.

He disappeared following the trial of Hip Lung, his brother, and Harry Lee, who were acquitted of the murder of Chin Wai.

WILL SERVE SUMMONS TODAY.

Frank C. Patten's Damage Suit Against Walter S. Johnson to Be Advanced One Step.

In the suit begun on Wednesday by Frank C. Patten, a real estate dealer at 134 Monroe street, for $50,000 damages, it is expected the summons will be served today on Walter S. Johnson, a lumber dealer.

The suit grows out of a charge preferred by Johnson last January that Patten had embezzled $1,000 of his money. The embezzlement case was dismissed recently by Judge Scanlan.

Through an error it was made to appear that Walter O. Johnson, 791 North Kedzie avenue, was defendant to the suit. He is not concerned in the case.
